FOREWORD

The American Legion Boys State program was initiated in Illinois in 1933, and three years later Ohio's first Buckeye Boys State was held. The Girls State program of the American Legion Auxiliary materialized in 1938 but not until 1947 did the first Buckeye Girls State become an actuality when three hundred four juniors from high schools throughout Ohio assembled at Capital University in Columbus. The highest enrollment was 1326 in 1987.

Of necessity, enrollment has had to be limited to young women carefully selected with reference to their talents for leadership and scholarship.

"To inculcate a sense of individual obligation to community, state and nation," reads one line of the Preamble to the Constitution of The American Legion and the American Legion Auxiliary.

The representative will gain a sense of that individual obligation and through actual personal participation will learn some of the intricacies and problems of government. As a citizen not only will she enjoy certain rights and privileges but also must she assume definite duties and responsibilities. Through this experience she should become more mindful of the contribution women can and should make to governmental activities.

Through this American Legion Auxiliary, Department of Ohio, sponsored project, the young women fortunate enough to comprise Buckeye Girls' State should gain a real awareness of the orderly processes of government. Law prevails with justice. Under the rule of the majority, minority rights are protected.

Government in Ohio is a highly specialized business of tremendous proportions which furnishes essential services at appreciable cost. Only through basic understanding of the American system and by reasonable information on public affairs can the individual citizen, who must pay his share of that cost, hope to safeguard valued American institutions and elevate the standard of public service. A thriving representative republic depends on an informed and ever vigilant citizenry.

The "Ohio Government Digest," which contains the Constitution of the United States of America, the Constitution of the State of Ohio, and a decidedly abbreviated outline of the law pertaining to government in Ohio, is intended for ready reference. Regrettably with only such a limited discussion space, much pertinent detail, must of necessity, be lacking.

In so far as limited time and numbers permit, procedures at Buckeye Girls State parallel actual practice. In some instances, however, modifications are made.

Even though the generic terminology appears throughout in the customary male form reference, naturally, is to either male or female.

DEDICATION

This 28th revision of the "Ohio Government Digest" is dedicated to the memory of Agnes S. Merritt, a founder of Buckeye Girls' State, who died on February 17, 1992. After her retirement from active participation in the Buckeye Girls' State program, she continued, as the author, to up-date this reference book to ensure that current information about government in Ohio was available to the participants of both the American Legion Auxiliary Buckeye Girls' State and the American Legion Buckeye Boys' State. It is with this idea that we continue this legacy.

STATE GOVERNMENT

In the United States, a state retains all powers of government except those specifically delegated to the federal.

According to the Ohio Revised Code, “State” means the state of Ohio or any department, division, commission, board, educational or other institution of the state of Ohio.

A state is one of fifty definite geographical units and its inhabitants, in matters over which partial or entire control has been released. Certain rights have been relinquished to the federal government such as levying duties, regulating interstate commerce, coining money, declaring war, etc.

Shortly after the formation of the United States of America and the successful conclusion of the Revolutionary War, Congress passed the Northwest Ordinance, also known as the Ordinance of 1787, to provide for the orderly development of the vast area west of Pennsylvania, north of the Ohio and east of the Mississippi to which the former colonies had ceded their claims. Arthur St. Clair was appointed first territorial governor.

After setting forth many safeguards for the people, including the prohibition of slavery, the right of freedom of religious worship, and due process of law as provided in the national constitution, the Ordinance further provided that not less than three nor more than five states should be carved from this territory. Eventually Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, Illinois, Wisconsin, and part of Minnesota were created.

By 1802 Ohio had far more than the required 60,000 free male persons of voting age, and a constitutional convention was called with Edward Tiffin as president. After twenty-eight days, a constitution was approved on November 29, 1803, sent to Congress and was accepted. Ohio became the seventeenth state of the Union. When this constitution no longer seemed adequate, the second constitutional convention convened and after a year’s work drafted a new constitution which the people adopted in June, 1851. In 1874 a third constitution was drafted but it was rejected by the people. Still a fourth convention was held in 1912 but the people accepted only thirty-four of the forty-two provisions and these were incorporated in the Constitution of 1851 under which Ohio still functions. Since then, the Constitution has been further amended to provide for woman suffrage, prohibition and its repeal, county home rule, a ten-mill limitation on real estate taxation, exclusive use of the gasoline tax for highways, office type ballot as well as other modifications.

By a constitutionally required referendum vote at the general elections in 1932, 1952, and 1972 the electors rejected the calling of a convention to revise, alter or amend the constitution, but in 1953 adopted nine amendments, one in 1954, one in 1955, two in 1956, two in 1957, two in 1959, four in 1961, one in 1963, one in 1964, four in 1965, one in 1967, four in 1968, one in 1969, three in 1970, one in 1971, six in 1973, four in 1974, three in 1975, eight in 1976, one in 1977, six in 1978, one in 1980, one in 1981, one in 1982, one in 1985, one in 1987, one in 1989, two in 1993, two in 1995, two in 1999, one in 2000, one in 2004, one in 2005, one in 2006, three in 2008 and two in 2009. In all, 108 of 205 proposed amendments have been adopted and incorporated into the body of the Constitution since 1913.

Ohio's growth has been rapid. Its 41,222 square miles has a population of 11,353,140 (2000 Federal Census) with 149 cities of over 10,000. The population of Columbus, the largest, was 711,470 Cleveland was 478,403, while Cincinnati was 331,285. Columbus is also physically the largest city with over 200 square miles.

The basic power of American government is in its citizenry. Public officials are the servants of the people and not their masters. People enjoy government by law rather than by the arbitrary acts of men. This was an underlying factor in the War of the Revolution and was also referred to in Lincoln's Gettysburg Address as "Government of the People, by the People, and for the People."

The Ohio Constitution is the basic law in Ohio. All statutes passed by the Legislature must conform to the Constitution but if there is any doubt, action may be brought in any court of record. Final decision as to constitutionality rests with the Supreme Court of Ohio. The constitution is the written instrument that provides for the electorate its method of government.

After stating its purpose in a brief preamble, the Constitution embodies the Bill of Rights. The idea of such a Bill of Rights has a long and interesting history beginning with the signing of the Magna Charta by King John in 1215, the action of the British Parliament in 1688, and the first ten amendments to the federal constitution. These rights are accepted as inherent to each individual. Government must assure each person this protection.

Among the guarantees of the Ohio Bill of Rights are that: all persons are free and independent; they have the right to enjoy life and liberty; they have the right to own private property; all political power is reserved to the people; people may assemble peaceably for the common good to instruct their representatives and to petition the General Assembly; people have a natural and indefeasible right to worship Almighty God according to the dictates of their own conscience; the General Assembly shall pass no laws providing a man's mode of worship religious preference; Writ of Habeas Corpus shall not be suspended; all people are entitled to a prompt trial by a jury; a person cannot be put in jeopardy twice for the same offense; no person shall be imprisoned except upon the conviction of a crime; no person shall be required to testify against himself; conviction does not cause the convicted person's property to be turned over to the State; only in case of fraud shall a person be imprisoned for debt; officers cannot search a home without a proper warrant; only the General Assembly has the power to suspend the laws; the military shall be subordinate to the civil authority; a standing army is prohibited in peace time; private property cannot be taken for public use without just payment to the owner; and people retain all powers not otherwise delegated.

The Constitution of Ohio, as does the United States Federal Constitution, provides for a government with three branches: the Legislative or General Assembly, composed of the Senate and the House of Representatives; the Executive, consisting of the Governor, the other elected state officials, the Cabinet, Departments, and various Boards, Commissions, Bureaus and Committees; and the Judicial consisting of the courts. By the Constitution, as well as by statute and custom, each branch exercises certain checks and balances on the other two. Furthermore, the State exercises certain controls over the counties, townships and municipalities as well as other districts.

The business of government is carried on in the offices and institutions throughout the state. In the capital city of Columbus alone, the State owns the Capitol Building and its Annex, Governor's Residence, Ohio Judicial Center, Department of Transportation Building, Department of Public Safety Building, Ohio State Highway Garage, Workers Compensation Building, State School for the Blind, State School for the Deaf, The Ohio State University, Columbus State Community College, Rhodes Tower, Vern Riffe Center for Government and the Arts, Ohio Historical and Archaeological Museum, Ohio State Exposition Grounds, Bureau of Employment Services Building, Bureau of Motor Vehicles, Armories, Buckeye Youth Center, Training Institution Central Ohio, Columbus Developmental Center, Central Ohio Psychiatric Hospital, Ohio Bindery, and rents office and storage space in many privately owned buildings.

Ohio's fiscal year begins on July 1.

For further information regarding Ohio government consult the Ohio Constitution, the Ohio Revised Code, the Ohio State Reports of Supreme Court Decisions, and the Secretary of State Roster.

LEGISLATIVE

Ohio's legislative history dates back to the time of the organization of the Northwest Territory when Congress appointed a governor, a secretary and three judges with power to publish laws until the Territory had five thousand free males of voting age. The territory would then be entitled to a General Assembly consisting of a House of Representatives elected by the people, and a Legislative Council of five members. The Legislative Council was to be appointed by the President of the United States from a list of ten names submitted to him by this House of Representatives.

The first laws created a system of courts, established a militia, defined crimes and set punishments, and regulated marriages. In 1795, the first code (Maxwell's Code), modeled somewhat on the laws of Massachusetts and Pennsylvania, was adopted.

In 1798 when the Territory had the required population, the people elected representatives. The following February, the House was organized in Cincinnati, and then ten people were nominated for Council. The President designated the five to serve. The following year Congress moved the seat of government to Chillicothe.

At present under Article II, Section I of the Ohio Constitution, the legislative power of the state is vested in a General Assembly consisting of a Senate and a House of Representatives, which meet in their respective chambers in the state capitol of Columbus.

POWERS RESERVED TO THE PEOPLE

The Constitution of the State of Ohio reserves certain rights to the people when determining laws. These "powers reserved to the people" are as follows:

- A. The right to propose to the General Assembly laws and amendments to the onstitution and to adopt or reject the same at the polls.
- B. The right to adopt or reject any law, section of any law, or any item in any law appropriating money passed by the General Assembly (with some exceptions).
- C. The right to propose, independently of the General Assembly, amendments to the Constitution and to adopt or reject the same at the polls.

The powers enumerated above are exercised by means of either the Initiative or the Referendum.

INITIATIVE

Under the use of the initiative power, the people may:

- A. Propose amendments to the Constitution;
- B. Propose laws to the General Assembly.

In order for the people to propose an amendment to the state Constitution there must be filed with the Secretary of State a petition, setting forth the full text of the proposed amendment. This petition must be signed by qualified electors equal to not less than 10% of the total votes cast in the last election for Governor, with at least half of the signatures equally divided among 44 counties. The Secretary of State then determines whether all who have signed such petitions are qualified electors and whether there is the required number of signatures. If it is determined that the petitions are in order, the Secretary is required to submit the proposed amendment to the people, for approval or rejection, at the next regular or general election to occur ninety days after the filing of the petition. If a majority of the votes are in favor of the amendment, it becomes a part of the Constitution.

Note: The people amended the Constitution of Ohio by this method in 1933. A petition was filed proposing to amend Article XII, Section 2 (Taxation by Uniform Rule) reducing the rate from 1.5 percent to one percent. The question submitted to the electors at the November election of that year was approved and became effective January 1, 1934. In 1949, Art. V, Section 2a established the office type ballot by a similar procedure.

When it is desired to propose a law to the General Assembly, a petition setting forth the full text of the law and signed by qualified electors equal to not less than 3% of the votes cast in the last election for Governor, with at least half of the signatures from 44 counties, must be filed with the Secretary of State not less than 10 days before the convening of the General Assembly.

Article II, Section 1b of the Constitution of the State of Ohio states in part:

“If the proposed law shall be passed by the General Assembly, either as petitioned for or in an amended form, or if no action shall be taken thereon within four months from the time it is received by the General Assembly, it shall be submitted by the Secretary of State to the electors for their approval or rejection at the next regular or general election, if such submission shall be demanded by supplementary petition...signed by not less than three per cent of the electors in addition to those signing the original petition which supplementary petition must be signed and filed with the Secretary of State within ninety days after the proposed law shall have been rejected by the General Assembly or after the expiration of such term of four months, if no action has been taken thereon, or after the law as passed by the General Assembly, shall have been filed by the Governor in the office of the Secretary of State.”

Note: The former “Old Age Pension Law” was a case of the people writing a law into the Ohio statutes by initiative petition. The people proposed this law to the 90th General Assembly. When the General Assembly convened in January 1933, the proposed law was filed by the Secretary of State with the House of Representatives and was known as House Bill 1 – By Initiative Petition. It was passed by the House and sent to the Senate where it was amended. The House and Senate were not able to agree to the amendments by the time the General Assembly adjourned “sine die” and it therefore failed to pass. The proponents of the bill circulated and filed supplementary petitions, and the proposed law was submitted to the electors at the November election in 1933. It was approved by a majority of the electors, and became law.

The law authorizing the sale of colored oleomargarine in the fall of 1994 had a similar history.

REFERENDUM

Under the power of a “referendum”, the people may approve or reject any law, section of law, or any item of law appropriating money passed by the General Assembly. In order to submit the question to the electors, a petition signed by qualified electors equal to not less than 6% of the votes cast in the last election for Governor must be filed with the Secretary of State within 90 days after such law has been filed with the Secretary of State. The Secretary of State, when he has verified the petition, is required to submit the question to the electors at the next regular or general election occurring subsequent to 60 days after the petition is filed.

The only exceptions to the referendum provisions of the Constitution are laws providing for tax levies, appropriations for the current expenses of state government, and emergency laws, all of which go into effect immediately. Emergency laws require a two-thirds affirmative vote by the members of the General Assembly.

All other laws do not go into effect until ninety days after they have been filed by the Governor with the Secretary of State in order to allow for the people to exercise these reserved powers.

The Constitution limits the subject matter upon which the General Assembly may enact laws and provides that the same limitation shall apply to the power of the people to enact laws.

APPORTIONMENT

“Apportionment” is the process used to determine the legislative districts of members of the General Assembly and members of Congress. The first apportionment of the state occurred in 1802 and was dramatically changed in 1965. Apportionment is done every ten years, based on the last decennial census. The Apportionment Board consists of the Governor, Auditor of State, Secretary of State, one person chosen by the Speaker of the House of Representatives and the leader of the Senate of the same political party of the Speaker, and one person chosen by the leaders of the political party of which the Speaker is not a member. A majority of them determines representation.

The 2002 reapportionment (see Art. XI) continued a 99 member House and a 33 member Senate. Each legislator is elected from a single member district. Combing three contiguous house districts creates a senate districts.

QUALIFICATIONS AND ELECTION

Representatives to the General Assembly are elected every two years, in the even numbered years, with their terms commencing on January 1st after the election. No person shall hold the office of state representative for more than four consecutive terms. No person shall hold the office of a state senator for more than two consecutive four-year terms. Terms are considered consecutive unless they are separated by a period of four or more years. Candidates must be U.S. citizens, at least eighteen years of age, and must have resided in the district one year preceding the next election, unless they have been absent on public business of the United States, or the State of Ohio. No person holding office under the authority of the United States, or any remunerative office under the authority of the state of Ohio is eligible to have a seat in the General Assembly. Notaries public, officers of the militia, and officers of a political party are exempt from this provision.

Vacancies shall be filled by election by the members of each house of the same political party. If the vacancy occurs within the first twenty months of a Senate term, the selection shall be temporary and an election will be held in the even-numbered year.

Each house of the General Assembly shall be the judge of the qualifications and election of its members.

SESSION AND ORGANIZATION

The General Assembly meets for a biennial period divided into two annual regular sessions. The first regular session commences on the first Monday in January of the odd-numbered year, unless that day is a holiday, in which case session would commence of the next day. The second session commences on the same day of the following year. Law sets the hour of convening at 1:30 p.m. for the Senate, and 2:00 p.m. for the House of Representatives. All sessions are opened with a prayer.

IN THE HOUSE

At the appointed time, the Speaker of the House during the previous biennium, or in his absence the Speaker Pro Tempore, shall call the Representatives-elect to order and appoint one of them Clerk Pro Tempore. The Representatives-elect, upon being called in numerical order by district, present their certificates of election and take the oath of office.

If a quorum is present, the House then proceeds to the election of statutory personnel – Speaker, Speaker Pro Tempore, Majority Floor Leader, Assistant Majority Floor Leader, Majority Whip, Assistant Majority Whip, Minority Leader, Assistant Minority Leader, Minority Whip, Assistant Minority Whip, Chief Administrative Officer, Clerk, and Sergeant-at-arms.

The person elected Speaker is in a very powerful position, because the Speaker determines the membership of House committees.

IN THE SENATE

At the appointed time, the President of the Senate during the preceding biennium, or in his absence or inability to serve, the President Pro Tempore, a senator designated by party caucus, presides at the beginning of the first regular session. The senatorial districts are called in numerical order, senators-elect present their certificates of election, and take the oath of office.

If a quorum is present, the senate elects a President, President Pro Tempore, Assistant President Pro Tempore, Majority Whip, Minority Leader, Assistant Minority Leader, Minority Whip, Assistant Minority Whip and statutory personnel – the Clerk and Sergeant-at-arms as in the House.

The members make nominations for these various offices and the officers are elected by a majority vote by roll call. In case a choice is not made for any particular office on or before the tenth roll call, the law provides that the person then receiving the highest number of votes shall be declared elected.

NOTE: This law was enacted in 1854 to prevent a recurrence of the organizational troubles in the 47th and 48th General Assemblies when 121 roll calls were held before one member switched his vote to elect a clerk, and 301 votes were cast to elect a Speaker, which was then the title of the presiding officer of the Senate.

NOTE: It might be well to interpolate that the organization is not really all affected on the first day of the session, as it appears to be. Actually, at some time between the regular election in November and the day of convening the session in January, it is customary for the members-elect of each house to hold political party caucuses. At this time, the leaders and officers are selected and the organization is really agreed upon. The majority party determines the policy and procedures in each house. Although this is unofficial, members generally follow the decisions of the caucus and when matters come before the house on opening day for official action, vote accordingly.

In the Senate, the leader of the majority party (usually the President of the Senate) offers resolutions, naming a bipartisan Committee on Committees. The committee determines what the various standing committees shall be. The President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House make all appointments to standing and select committees.

All employees of the House and Senate, unless otherwise specified, are in office during the biennium after having been designated by formal resolution.

When both houses have organized, they are ready to proceed to routine legislative matters. At this time, each house sends a message to the other, informing each other of the organization. A concurrent resolution is adopted by both houses providing for a committee to wait upon the Governor to inform him that the General Assembly is in session, is organized and is ready to receive any messages he elects to transmit.

NOTE: In actual practice, the Chief Administrative Officer, Clerk of the House, Clerk of the Senate, assistant clerks, Sergeant-at-arms, and other employees of the House and Senate named by the Speaker of the House or the President of the Senate, are nominated by a resolution by a member of that house and are usually elected by unanimous vote.

In the session following a general election in which statewide officeholders are elected (Governor, Lieutenant Governor, Secretary of State, Auditor, Attorney General and Treasurer), the first real business to come before the Legislature during the first week is slated in the Constitution Article III, Section 3. (As applicable.)

“The returns of every election for the officers, named in the foregoing section, shall be sealed and transmitted to the seat of government, by the returning officers, directed to the president of the Senate, who, during the first week of the next regular session, shall open and publish them, and declare the result, in the presence of a majority of the members of each house of the General Assembly. The joint candidates having the highest number of votes cast for governor and lieutenant governor and the person having the highest number of votes for any other office shall be declared duly elected; but if any two or more have an equal and the highest number of votes for the same office or officers, one of them or any two for whom joint votes were cast for governor and lieutenant governor, shall be chosen by joint vote of both houses.”

At the hour set for the convening of the joint convention to canvass votes, the Senate, preceded by its officers, repairs to the Hall of the House of Representatives and is received by the House. Thereupon, the President of the Senate takes the chair and calls the joint convention to order. He announces that more than a quorum of the Senate is present; the Speaker of the House announces that more than a quorum of the House is present, and without objection, a roll call of the two houses is dispensed with. The presiding officer then reads a recapitulation of the votes cast at the preceding November election for each Constitutional State Official, elected at that time. This recapitulation has been prepared by the Secretary of State and eliminates a long drawn out procedure of opening and tabulating the abstracts of each county that have been mailed to the President of the Senate and thus saves much time. Having read the recapitulation, the President of the Senate declares that "The following persons, having received the highest number of votes cast at the election held November ____, 20__, are hereby declared duly elected to the offices of _____." Thereupon, such person is officially elected to assume that office.

If the retiring Governor has expressed a desire to deliver a message to the General Assembly on the affairs of the State, the convention remains in session and a committee is named to escort the Governor to the Hall of the House, otherwise, the joint convention is dissolved on motion of any member and the Senate returns to the Senate Chamber.

Rules of legislative procedure are adopted each session in each house by resolution.

In 1953, a complete re-codification of all Ohio laws known as the Revised Code of Ohio was adopted. This culminated six years of intensive work by the Bureau of Code Revision and superseded the Ohio General Code.

RESOLUTIONS

Resolutions are legislative vehicles used to express the opinions or wishes of the General Assembly and do not require the Governor's approval. There are three types of resolutions: simple, joint, and concurrent.

Simple Resolutions are the most commonly offered and require only the approval of the chamber in which they are introduced. These resolutions are not filed with the Ohio Secretary of State. Simple resolutions may deal with the organization, appointments, and officers of their respective chamber, as well as request that specific studies be performed. They are also offered to commend or recognize certain persons, groups, or events, and to offer condolences to the families of former members.

Joint resolutions are used to ratify proposed amendments to the U.S. Constitution, to ask for a federal constitutional convention, or to fulfill a customary practice like proposing to amend the Ohio Constitution. The Ohio Revised Code may also require their use. After the approval of both the House and Senate, joint resolutions must be filed with the Ohio Secretary of State.

Concurrent resolutions are often used for joint procedural matters, as well as to ask the General Assembly to invalidate administrative and/or court rules, or to ask the U.S. Congress to support or oppose issues before them on behalf of the Ohio General Assembly. The Ohio Revised Code or Ohio Constitution may require their use, and they may also be used to express both chambers' commendation or recognition of people, organizations, etc. While these resolutions do not need to be filed with the Ohio Secretary of State, they do require the approval of both houses.

Investigation or Study committees may be appointed by resolution of one house or by concurrent or joint resolution of both houses. These fact-finding bodies report their findings either in the form of a bill or by a detailed report to either the House or Senate, or to both, according to how they are created.

BILLS

A Bill, the means by which laws are enacted, may originate in either house, but may be altered, amended or rejected by the other house. Before passage, each house shall consider each bill on three different days, unless this requirement is suspended by two-thirds of members elected to the house in which it is pending (Art. II, Sec. 15).

Every bill passed by the General Assembly shall, before it becomes law, be presented to the Governor for his approval. If he approves, he shall sign it and thereupon it shall become a law and be filed with the Secretary of State. If he does not approve it, he shall return it with his objections in writing to the House in which it originated, which shall enter the objections at large upon its Journal, and may then reconsider the vote on its passage. (This is called the “Veto”.) If three-fifths of the members elected to that house vote to re-pass the bill, it shall be sent with the objections of the Governor, to the other house, which may also reconsider the vote on its passage. If three-fifths of the members elected to that house vote to re-pass the bill, it shall become law notwithstanding the objections of the Governor, except that in no case shall a bill be re-passed by a smaller vote than required by the Constitution on its original passage. Some bills, such as emergency laws, require favorable action by two-thirds of the members elected.

If a bill is not returned by the Governor within ten days, Sunday excepted, after being presented to him, it shall become a law in like manner as if it had been signed, unless the General Assembly, by adjournment, prevents its return; in which case it shall become law unless, within ten days after such adjournment, it shall be filed by him, with his objections in writing in the office of the Secretary of State. (Note: In order to overcome this last provision of the Constitution on vetoed bills, the General Assembly, after the last days of passing bills and their delivery to the Governor, sometimes waits for a ten day period before adjourning sine die so that they can return in session and reconsider any vetoed bills.)

Each bill may deal with only one subject as stated in the title (this prevents “log rolling”). Retroactive measures are forbidden.

A bill may be initiated by any individual member of the General Assembly or may be given to him by some individual or organization for introduction. All bills, either to amend or repeal existing law, or to provide for the enactment of a new law, are required to have 6 copies submitted in the House and 5 copies in the Senate. The clerk of either house will accept no bill for filing unless it has been presented by a member of that house and has been approved as to form by the Legislative Service Commission.

Bills are introduced by filing the requisite number of copies with the Clerk, at least one hour before the next convening of the body. The Clerk reads the bills, in the order received.

For the second reading of the bill, the procedure is different in the two houses.

After the first reading of a bill in the House it is referred to the “Rules and Reference Committee.” This Committee studies the bill and determines whether it is identical to any other bill before the House, or if it can be used as an amendment to some other bill, and to which standing committee it should be referred. The Rules and Reference Committee then reports its recommendation to the House and the bill is referred, unless there is objection from the floor. The bill referral constitutes the second reading of the bill. The Clerk, upon the second reading of a bill, delivers it to the chairman of the committee to which it has been referred.

A bill, introduced one day in the Senate, is laid over until the next legislative day when it comes up on the calendar for second reading. It is again read by title only. It is referred by the president to the Reference Committee for referral to an appropriate committee.

After a bill has been referred to a committee in either house, the chairman of that committee sets a date and hour for a hearing at which the bill will be discussed by the committee. At this hearing and in subsequent hearings, proponents, opponents, and interested parties of the bill are allowed to present their views publicly. It is here that legislative agents (lobbyists) and representatives of lay organization, or individual citizens, can exert real legislative influence. Legislative agents must register and file expense statements.

The committee may amend or revise the bill in any manner it sees fit. If after discussion, a majority of the members feel it has merit, it is reported back to the house in which it is pending with the recommendations of the committee. If no action is taken, the bill may die in committee without any public record of a vote being taken. It is in the standing committees of the two houses that the real work of legislating takes place. If a majority of a committee feels that a bill should not be enacted into law, it may never reach the floor for a vote. If, however, a majority of the members of either house feels that the committee has taken an arbitrary or unfair attitude with reference to a particular bill in refusing to report it out, they can relieve the committee and bring the bill directly before the house for action.

The bill, if reported out of committee, is referred to the Rules and Reference Committee in the House or the Rules Committee in the Senate. This committee determines when the bill shall come up for a house vote. It is read for a third time by title only and the question is then, "Shall the bill pass?" The sponsor of the bill addresses the house and gives his arguments for the enactment of the bill into law. Any other member may discuss the bill either pro or con. Amendments to the bill may also be considered at this time. Bills can be informally passed, referred back to committee or postponed indefinitely. Amendments can be "laid on the table", where they "die" without a vote being recorded. After discussion is completed, the roll is called and if the bill receives a constitutional majority of the members elected it is declared passed.

When a bill has been passed by the house in which it originated it is sent with a message to the other house where the same procedure is followed.

If a bill is amended in either house, it must be sent back to the house of its origin for concurrence. If one or both houses do not accept amendments the bill is referred to a Conference Committee composed of both Senators and Representatives in order to attempt to reconcile the differences. If no agreement is reached the bill is lost. If the Conference Committee reaches an agreement, then both houses must agree to that committee's report. If both houses approve of a conference report, the bill follows the regular procedure.

If the bill passes both the House and the Senate, it is ready for signing after checking by the Enrollment Clerk and reprinting. It is signed first by the Speaker of the House and then by the President of the Senate. The Clerk of the Senate holds the bill until it is picked up by the Governor for consideration.

According to the Constitution, the proceedings of both the House and Senate are open to the public, except in cases, which in the opinion of two-thirds of the members present, require secrecy.

In the 124th General Assembly, only 250 bills became effective, out of a combined total of 992 bills introduced. With the adjournment of the General Assembly sine die, all pending legislation “dies.”

COMMITTEES

The 126th General Assembly has the following “standing committees”:

In the House, 19: Agriculture and Natural Resources; Civil and Commercial Law; Commerce and Labor; Criminal Justice; Economic Development and Environment; Education (Alternative Education Subcommittee); Elections and Ethics; Finance and Appropriation (Agriculture and Development Subcommittee, Higher Education Subcommittee Education Subcommittee, Human Services Subcommittee, and Transportation and Justice Subcommittee); Financial Institutions, Real Estate and Securities; Human Services Subcommittee, Primary and Secondary; Health (Children’s Health Care and Family Services Subcommittee and Aging Subcommittee); Insurance; Judiciary; Juvenile and Family Law; Local and Municipal Government and Urban Revitalization; Public Utilities and Energy; Rules and Reference; State Government; Transportation, Public Safety, and Homeland Security; Ways and Means.

In the Senate, 13: Agriculture; Education; Energy and Public Utilities; Environment and Natural Resources; Finance and Financial Institutions; Health, Human Services, and Aging; Highways and Transportation; Insurance, Commerce and Labor; Judiciary - Civil Justice; Judiciary - Criminal Justice; Reference; Rules; State and Local Government and Veterans Affairs; Ways and Means and Economic Development.

Of these, the Rules and Reference Committee of the House and Rules Committee of the Senate, although they hold no public hearings nor enact any bills as such, are the most powerful in their legislative influence. Often “life or death” of a bill can be settled by the majority of members on these committees.

In 1953 the 14-member Ohio Legislative Service Commission (seven from each house) was created to take over the functions of the former Legislative Research Commission, Bureau of Code Revision, and Ohio Program Commission. The Commission performs bill drafting, research, code revising, budget reviewing, and may conduct studies on any subject requested by the General Assembly. In 1981 the Legislative Service Commission also assumed the duties of the former Legislative Reference Bureau. These duties include commentary drafting in resolution and letterform. During 2003-2004 biennium, the Commission staff drafted 3,538 bills, prepared 2,159 bill analyses, and completed 4,494 research requests for individual legislators.

A joint legislative ethics committee has been established consisting of twelve members, six from each of the two major political parties. Six members shall be appointed by the speaker of the House, not more than three from the same political party, and six appointed by the president of the Senate, not more than three from the same political party.

ADJOURNMENT

Neither house shall, without the consent of the other, adjourn for more than five days, Sundays excluded, nor to any other place than that in which the two houses are in session. (Art. II, Sec. 14, the Ohio Constitution).

The legislature may recess or, if its work is completed, adjourn “sine die” (without day), so that there are no more sessions during its term of office unless called into special session by the Governor, or by the presiding officers of the General Assembly chosen by the members thereof, acting jointly by proclamation. Unless convened by the leaders, only those items may be considered for which it is called.

In case of disagreement between the two houses, in respect to the time of adjournment, the Governor has the power to adjourn the General Assembly to such time as he may think proper, but not beyond the regular meetings thereof. (Art. III, Sec. 9, the Ohio Constitution).

EXECUTIVE ELECTED OFFICIALS

The executive officials of the State as provided by the Constitution are the Governor, Lieutenant Governor, Attorney General, Auditor of State, Secretary of State, and Treasurer of State. They are nominated by political parties at a primary election and are elected at the general election held in alternate even-numbered years, by direct vote of the electors of the State and hold their office for four years. Their terms of office commence the second Monday of January and continue until their successors are elected and qualified. No person may hold the office of governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state, treasurer of state, attorney general, or auditor of state for a period longer than two successive terms of four years. Terms shall be considered successive unless separated by a period of four or more years. Only terms beginning on or after January 1, 1995 shall be considered in determining the eligibility to hold the office of lieutenant governor, secretary of state, treasurer of state, attorney general, or auditor of state. The governor is elected to a four-year term jointly with the lieutenant governor.

GOVERNOR

The Governor is the chief executive officer chosen by the electors for a term of four years and cannot hold office for a period longer than two successive terms of four years each. In the words of the Ohio Constitution, "The supreme executive power of this state shall be vested in the Governor." The Lieutenant Governor, President of the Senate, and Speaker of the House of Representatives shall succeed the Governor, respectively, in the event of death, resignation or impeachment.

The powers and duties of the Governor as established by the Constitution and statute are numerous. Among the more important are:

- to see that the laws are faithfully executed and enforced.
- to require information in writing from the officers of the executive department upon any subject relating to the duties of their respective department.
- to communicate to the General assembly by message at every session the condition of the state, and recommend such measures as he shall deem expedient.
- to convene extraordinary sessions of the General Assembly by proclamation and determine the business to be transacted thereat.
- to adjourn the General Assembly in case of disagreement between the two houses, in respect to the time and date of adjournment.
- to act as Commander-in-Chief of the military forces of the State.
- to grant reprieves, commutations and pardons.

The appointive powers of the Governor are extensive, including not only the heads of twenty-two departments but also the Adjutant General, members of most boards and commissions provided by statute, and some heads of division within the departments. In some instances, the advice and consent of the Senate is required. The Governor is also able to appoint people to vacancies of State elected offices, judgeships and the State Board of Education until the next regularly scheduled election.

The Governor has established the Ohio Homeland Security Task Force to provide guidance to governmental agencies and the public for security within the State of Ohio. The Director of Public Safety heads this task force.

As the Commander-in-Chief, the Governor has the ability to call out the militia and enforce the laws of the State. He may command the militia to suppress insurrection, repel an invasion, and act in the event of a disaster within the state.

He may bring removal action against local elected officials such as mayors, sheriffs, and prosecutors, for misconduct in office.

Acting under the Constitution of the United States, federal statutes, and the Uniform Criminal Extradition Act, the Governor issues and receives requests for interstate return of fugitives from justice. Action of the Governor in denying the request of another state demanding the return of a fugitive cannot be reviewed by the courts.

The Governor is empowered by statute to appoint and commission as notary public as many persons he may deem necessary. The routine work of receiving applications, fees and bonds, and issuing commissions is handled by the clerical staff in the Governor's office.

The Governor has many other duties in relation with the State Legislature. He is responsible for submitting a detailed budget to the Legislature and keeping a register of all bills. He has the right of legislative veto, including line item veto on appropriation bills; however, he has no pocket veto power.

Other duties of the Governor is the responsibility for keeping the Great Seal of the State of Ohio and an official state flag.

LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR

The office of Lieutenant Governor was created by a Constitutional amendment in 1851. The lieutenant governor succeeds to the Office of Governor in the event the death, conviction on impeachment, resignation, or disability of the Governor. The Lieutenant Governor is elected jointly with the governor for a four-year term; is a member of the governor's cabinet, presiding in the governor's absence; and is deputy commander-in-chief of state military forces, except when such forces are called into the service of the United States. The governor may appoint the lieutenant governor as an administrative department head.

ATTORNEY GENERAL

The Attorney General is the chief legal officer for the State of Ohio chosen by the electors for a term of four years and cannot hold office for a period longer than two successive terms of four years. The Attorney General provides a variety of legal services. He serves as legal counsel to the Governor, statewide elected officials, the Ohio General Assembly, all state departments, agencies, boards and commissions, and is responsible for providing legal representation, defending them in legal matters, and initiating litigation on their behalf. The Attorney General also issues formal legal opinions on questions submitted by elected statewide officials, the legislature, directors of various state agencies and departments, and the 88 county prosecutors. The Attorney General serves as chair of the Organized Crime Investigations Commission and is a member of the State Board of Deposits, State Records Commission and Ohio Public Facilities Commission. The Attorney General operates the office through an executive staff that oversees the activities of an administrative section and legal and law enforcement sections. These sections include:

Antitrust: The Antitrust Section enforces state and federal antitrust law; in so doing, it works to protect a competitive marketplace where businesses do not hold illegal power over their customers or their competitors. Additionally, this section operates the Antitrust Review Program, which seeks to protect taxpayers from anti-competitive activity in public projects.

Appeals: The Appeals Section represents the state of Ohio and its agencies on appeals in the U.S. Supreme Court, the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Sixth Circuit and the Ohio Supreme Court. The section handles a wide range of cases, from civil rights to election disputes to criminal law and more. Headed by the Ohio Solicitor General, this section determines the cases in which the state of Ohio will seek U.S. or Ohio Supreme Court review and the positions the state will take before those courts. The Solicitor General and deputy solicitors prepare the petitions, briefs and other papers filed by the state on appeal. They also regularly participate in oral arguments before those courts.

Bureau of Criminal Identification and Investigation: The Bureau of Criminal Identification and Investigation, known as BCI, helps police departments and county sheriffs across the state by providing key support services free of charge. BCI staff members analyze DNA samples to help catch criminals and solve cold cases. Police agencies around the state frequently ask for BCI investigators to assist at crime scenes and draw on the Bureau's expertise in growing criminal problems, such as cyber crime. BCI field agents are always on call to respond to crime scenes and assist local law enforcement agencies with their investigations. Additionally, BCI is home to the state's Automated Fingerprint Identification System (AFIS), which contains the prints of millions along with their corresponding criminal histories, and the electronic Sex Offender Registration and Notification (eSORN) database, among other resources.

Business Counsel: The Business Counsel Section of the Ohio Attorney General's Office specializes in the preparation and review of contracts, RFPs, leases, deeds, and other business and real property transactions for the Attorney General's Office and various state agencies and subdivisions. We address and counsel clients on a wide range of issues that impact their daily operations and planning. Business Counsel also reviews most state construction contracts and all contracts executed on behalf of the Attorney General's Office. The section is also available to assist state agencies and Assistant Attorney Generals with transactional matters upon request.

Charitable Law: The Charitable Law Section is committed to honoring the important role of non-profits in Ohio. Oversight is critical: One of the section's most important tasks is to make sure that funds are used for charitable purposes, not private interests. This duty, rooted in common law and reinforced through many statutory provisions, is one of the Attorney General's oldest responsibilities. Additional responsibilities include licensing non-profit organizations that raise money through bingo and enforcing regulations related to charitable gaming. The section reviews non-profit transactions and is a required party in many probate actions involving charitable bequests. The section also investigates charities, sometimes in partnership with local law enforcement, and represents the Attorney General in civil litigation to recover funds that should have been spent on charitable purposes or to stop individuals from fraudulently collecting money from the public. The Charitable Law Section trains non-profit leaders in spotting or preventing problems so they can focus on the charitable activities that strengthen our communities. Additionally, the section provides counsel for the Ohio Racing Commission and represents the Ohio Liquor Control Commission in administrative hearings and appellate matters involving alleged violations of the state's liquor laws.

Civil Rights: The Civil Rights Section in the Office of the Ohio Attorney General represents the Ohio Civil Rights Commission in its mission of protecting equal opportunity and eliminating unlawful discrimination in employment, places of public accommodations, housing, credit and institutions of higher education. Unlawful discrimination under the Ohio Revised Code includes discrimination based on certain "protected classes." Protected classes may include factors such as race, color, national origin, religion, disability, age, familial status and military status. The Civil Rights Section of the Attorney General's Office litigates discrimination cases on behalf of the Commission. The Attorney General's Office does not represent the person making the allegation of discrimination.

Collection Enforcement and Revenue Recovery: The Attorney General's Office is responsible for collecting outstanding debt owed to the state of Ohio—everything from past due book fines at state libraries to unpaid corporate income taxes. The Collections Enforcement and Revenue Recovery Sections make that happen. Revenue Recovery collects debt by working with private debt collection agencies or contacting debtors directly to try to get them to pay or otherwise resolve their debts to the state.

Constitutional Offices: The Constitutional Offices Section is legal counsel for the state's elected officials: the Governor, Secretary of State, Auditor, Treasurer, Ohio Supreme Court and General Assembly, as well as other state agencies such as the Inspector General, Ohio Elections Commission and Office of Budget and Management and others. Through its Public Records Unit, the section publishes "Ohio Sunshine Laws: An Open Government Resource Manual," and provides statutorily-required open government training for elected officials. The section also provides guidance to public officials regarding registration of sex offenders under the Adam Walsh Act.

Consumer Protection: The Consumer Protection Section protects Ohioans from predatory and illegal business practices. With authority granted by the Ohio Consumer Sales Practices Act and other statutes, the section enforces laws that prohibit unfair and deceptive practices including but not limited to: false advertising, shoddy workmanship, and failure to perform services or to deliver goods. Consumer Protection works to protect Ohio consumers by conducting local and state investigations and by joining multi-state and federal investigations. Through cooperating with federal and other state authorities, the section has achieved landmark settlements and won millions of dollars in civil penalties and restitution for Ohioans. To further assist consumers and businesses, the section also provides consumer education, business education and a free complaint resolution process to resolve disputes among consumers, businesses and non-profit organizations.

Court of Claims Defense: The Ohio Attorney General's Court of Claims Defense Section represents the state of Ohio in the Ohio Court of Claims, Tenth District Court of Appeals and the Ohio Supreme Court. The types of cases vary widely but often involve premises liability, construction, intentional tort, negligence, medical malpractice, property loss or damage, employment discrimination, breach of contract, defamation, personal injury, and wrongful death and imprisonment claims. The Construction Litigation Group (CLG) is housed within the Court of Claims Defense Section. It is a one-stop shop for matters related to the state of Ohio's many construction projects. The CLG attorneys serve government entities that contract to private companies by offering day-to-day advice, prosecution of defective design and construction claims and defense against injunctions filed by disappointed bidders.

Crime Victims Assistance and Prevention: Victims of violent crime such as rape, assault, murder, kidnapping, and domestic violence, face many setbacks as a result of their tragic and unexpected circumstances. The Attorney General's Crime Victims Assistance and Prevention (CVAP) Section offers services to aid victims, trainings for professionals who work with victims and crime prevention programs for Ohio communities which include: victim compensation, the Sexual Assault Forensic Exam (SAFE) program, Missing Children's Clearinghouse, ID Theft Passport program, domestic violence data collection, Cut It Out program, Victim Information and Notification Everyday (VINE) system, Elder Abuse Commission, online safety training, victims assistance providers grants and education programs.

Criminal Justice: The Criminal Justice Section is composed of four units: The Special Prosecutions Unit is composed of career prosecutors who, at the request of county prosecutors, prosecute serious felony crimes throughout Ohio. The unit may be appointed by the court to serve as a special prosecutor when the county prosecutor has a conflict of interest or may assist a county prosecutor when he requests additional resources. Areas of focus include homicides, child sex offenses, white collar crime, and alleged wrongdoing by public officials. The Capital Crimes Unit works to uphold lawfully imposed death sentences. This generally includes many years of litigation in the federal courts opposing challenges brought by inmates who claim that their death sentences were improper. The Unit provides assistance to county prosecutors at the trial level in death penalty cases, when requested, and also participates with the county prosecutor in responding to clemency requests prior to execution. The Habeas Unit works to keep dangerous criminals in prison by opposing litigation brought by inmates who seek to overturn valid convictions and prison sentences. The Corrections Unit represents the Ohio Department of Rehabilitation and Correction and Department of Youth Services; it defends these departments and their employees against lawsuits brought by inmates.

Education: The Education Section of the Ohio Attorney General's Office provides legal services and representation to the state's public education clients. These clients include Ohio's 13 universities, one medical college and 23 community and technical colleges. This section also provides legal representation for the State Board of Education and its administrative unit, the Ohio Department of Education. Other clients include the State Board of Career Colleges, the Ohio Association of Community Colleges, the Ohio Appalachian Center for Higher Education, eTech and fiscal emergency commissions for financially-challenged school districts.

Employment: The Employment Law Section provides legal advice and representation about terms and conditions of employment to all state departments, agencies, bureaus, elected officials, public colleges and universities and their officers and employees. The section's attorneys defend clients in state and federal courts against allegations of discrimination on the basis of race, color, sex, religion, age, national origin and disability. They represent clients in civil service appeals brought before the State Personnel Board of Review and in civil rights complaints brought before the Ohio Civil Rights Commission. One of the section's primary, day-to-day duties is providing advice to clients about complying with a vast array of state and federal laws. Such laws include the Family and Medical Leave Act, the Americans with Disabilities Act and the Fair Labor Standards Act.

Environmental Enforcement: The Environmental Enforcement Section (EES) represents the state agencies that oversee the use of Ohio's natural resources, such as the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency and the Ohio Department of Natural Resources. The section's litigation includes enforcing regulatory requirements, defending administrative and rulemaking actions, appealing federal rulemaking and, in the case of the Department of Natural Resources, defense of litigation filed against the department and its staff. In addition to its civil and administrative litigation, EES conducts criminal investigations and prosecutions.

Executive Agencies: The Executive Agencies Section represents Ohio's Departments of Administrative Services, Agriculture, Commerce, Development and Public Safety in addition to numerous boards and commissions that have regulatory, policymaking and licensing functions. These agencies encompass a wide range of regulatory functions focused on businesses and professional and occupational license holders. The section also represents Ohio's five public pension funds, and thus is involved with a wide variety of public pension issues. Executive Agencies is an active litigation section, and handles many types of cases — administrative, mandamus, declaratory judgment and also actions in federal court. The attorneys of the section also routinely advise state boards, commissions and agencies in matters of regulatory enforcement, pension eligibility, public records, open meetings and ethics.

Health and Human Services: The Health and Human Services Section represents close to 35 state agencies and regulatory boards. These include the Ohio Department of Aging, Department of Health, Department of Job and Family Services and health-related professional licensing boards such as the Medical, Dental, Pharmacy and Nursing boards. The section deals with a wide array of matters concerning public health as well as the services that the government provides to Ohioans. These include issues relating to Medicaid, food stamps, adoption, unemployment and many other services.

Health Care Fraud: The Attorney General's Office targets fraud in the health care industry through the Medicaid Fraud Control and the Workers' Compensation Fraud units. Medicaid Fraud Control investigates and prosecutes health care providers who defraud the state's Medicaid program. They enforce Ohio laws protecting mentally or physically disabled or elderly citizens from neglect and abuse in long-term care facilities. Workers' Compensation Fraud prosecutes claimants, employers or health care providers who defraud the Ohio Workers' Compensation Program.

Labor Relations: The Labor Relations Section enforces Ohio's prevailing wage and minimum wage laws and provides legal representation to the State Employment Relations Board and the State Personnel Board of Review.

Additionally, this section leads the office's worker misclassification initiative, which seeks to ensure that workers are properly classified as either employees, who typically receive benefits, or independent contractors, who typically do not.

Legal Services: The Ohio Attorney General is legal counsel to Ohio's numerous state agencies, departments, boards, commissions, colleges, universities and public retirement systems. The legal needs of these state clients are vast and vary in complexity and area of expertise. In some instances, the Attorney General appoints private-sector attorneys as special counsel to assist with those cases. The Legal Services Section oversees the administration of special counsel contracts.

Ohio Organized Crime Investigations Commission: The Ohio Organized Crime Investigations Commission supports local law enforcement in the investigation of organized criminal activity through the creation of task forces. The Commission provides logistical and technical assistance to these task forces, as well as the authority to conduct investigations.

Opinions: The Opinions Section of the Attorney General's Office provides written opinions on legal questions in response to requests from the office's clients. These clients are: the agencies, departments and officers of state government; county prosecuting attorneys and law directors of home rule townships; and the Ohio House and Senate, when requested by resolution.

Ohio Peace Officer Training Academy: The Ohio Peace Officer Training Academy offers programs to meet the needs of Ohio's law enforcement professionals and the communities they serve. The academy trains nearly 10,000 law enforcement professionals each year in service areas such as firearms, crime scene forensics, vehicle operations and legal issues. OPOTA is overseen by the Ohio Peace Officer Training Commission. The nine-member commission issues recommendations to the Attorney General about matters pertaining to law enforcement training. Commission members serve three-year terms and are appointed by the Governor, with the advice and consent of the Ohio Senate. The Commission must consist of two incumbent sheriffs, two incumbent chiefs of police, a representative of the general public, a member of the Ohio State Highway Patrol, a special agent-in-charge of one of Ohio's Federal Bureau of Investigation field offices, a representative of the Attorney General's Bureau of Criminal Identification and Investigation and a representative of the Ohio Department of Education.

Public Utilities: The Public Utilities Section represents the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio in matters relating to telephones, electricity, natural gas, motor carrier transportation, hazardous material transportation, railroads and water. The section, in cooperation with the Attorney General's Environmental Enforcement Section, also represents the Ohio Power Siting Board, which reviews and approves plans for new energy facilities in Ohio.

Taxation: The Taxation Section of the Ohio Attorney General's Office represents the Tax Commissioner, who leads the Ohio Department of Taxation. As such, it primarily defends challenges to tax assessments made by the tax commissioner and to the state's 21 different state taxes

Tobacco Enforcement: The Tobacco Enforcement Section has three primary responsibilities: 1) to enforce the 1998 Master Settlement Agreement between the settling states and the participating tobacco manufacturers; 2) to provide all legal advice to major recipients of Ohio tobacco settlement dollars, including the Southern Ohio Agricultural and Community Development Foundation and the Third Frontier Foundation; and 3) to provide legal services to the Ohio Department of Health in enforcing the state's indoor smoking ban.

Transportation: The Transportation Section provides a wide variety of legal services to the Ohio Department of Transportation, which manages public highways and oversees federal public transportation funding, among other duties. This section also provides counsel and representation to the Ohio Rail Development Commission (ORDC), which regulates rail service. Section attorneys provide legal advice in connection with the acquisition of real estate for highway projects and represent ODOT in eminent domain cases. They also represent ODOT in a variety of administrative hearings and appeals, including cases dealing with outdoor advertising permits and construction contractor qualifications.

Workers Compensation: The Workers' Compensation Section provides legal counsel to the Ohio Bureau of Workers' Compensation and the Industrial Commission of Ohio. Most cases handled by attorneys in this section are appeals of workers' compensation claims filed in county common pleas courts.

AUDITOR OF STATE

The Auditor of State is the constitutional officer responsible for auditing all public offices in Ohio, more than 5,600 entities including cities, villages, schools, state universities, counties, public libraries, townships and state agencies, boards, and commissions. The office strives, through financial audits of public entities, to ensure that public funds are spent appropriately and lawfully, in accordance with state and local law.

AUDIT DIVISION: is managed by the chief deputy auditor, and is made up of several smaller sections including the Financial Audit Group, the Fraud and Investigative Audit Group, the Local Government Services Section, the Performance Audit Section, and the Audit Administration and Support Group. The Auditor of State's Office employs more than 800 auditors located in eight regional offices in addition to the main office in Columbus. Regional offices include Canton/Akron, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Columbus, Dayton, Athens, Toledo, and Youngstown. Additionally, the state region, located in Columbus, audits state agencies, boards, and commissions. A chief auditor, who oversees the audits performed by the office within their region, manages each regional office.

FINANCIAL AUDIT GROUP: is responsible for conducting financial audits of all public entities as required under Ohio law. The Financial Audit Group staff is headquartered out of the eight regional offices, but spends most of their time in the field at local audit sites. Auditors review methods, accuracy, and legality of the accounts; financial reports; records; and files of all public entities.

LOCAL GOVERNMENT SERVICES SECTION (LGS): is housed within the Audit Division and serves as a consulting and fiscal advisory group to all governmental agencies and subdivisions, providing a variety of services including preparation and examination of financial forecasts, GAAP conversion assistance, annual financial report preparation, assistance to entities in fiscal watch or emergency, reconstruction and reconciliation of financial records. The Open Government Unit, serves local officials by providing training and resources to help them better understand their obligations under the Ohio Public Records Act and the Ohio Open Meetings Act.

PERFORMANCE AUDIT SERVICES SECTION: identifies and helps correct inefficient managerial operations and waste of taxpayer dollars in addition to providing general oversight and assistance to ensure efficient operation of public offices.

funds from theft, embezzlement or fraud by prioritizing those cases that constitute criminal conduct.

LEGAL DIVISION: is primarily responsible for providing legal advice to field auditors, assisting in determinations of whether or not the entity being audited is complying with all applicable laws. The legal staff can also help public offices prospectively comply with state and federal requirements. The Auditor of State's investigative staff is also under the management of the Legal Division. The chief of investigations as well as the assistant chief legal counsel work closely with the Special Investigations Unit in an effort to aggressively root out fraud and public corruption.

ADMINISTRATION DIVISION: is the managing arm of the Ohio Auditor of State's Office and is responsible for the day-to-day management and policy decisions of the office. It is made up of several smaller sections including Field Operations; Human Resources and Recruitment; Information Technology including the Uniform Accounting Network; Legislative Affairs; and Public Affairs.

SECRETARY OF STATE

The Secretary of State has a variety of responsibilities, most of which are organized under three divisions: Elections, Business Services, and Voter Education. From 1802 to 1851, the Secretary of State was elected by joint ballot of the two houses of the General Assembly for a three-year term. Under the 1851 Constitution, the Secretary of State is chosen by popular election of the people. The term of office was two years until changed by constitutional amendment in 1954 to four years. The Secretary of State is now term-limited to two consecutive four-year terms. The Secretary is required to file a $100,000 bond, which must be approved by the Governor, Auditor of State and Attorney General and is filed with the Director of Administrative Services.

ELECTIONS

The Secretary of State is the chief elections officer of the state, responsible for appointing members of the board of elections in each of the 88 counties and providing oversight to the boards. In the case of a tie vote among county board of election members, it is the Secretary of State's duty to cast the deciding vote on the issue in question.

All declarations of candidacy and nomination petitions for state officials are filed with the Secretary of State's office. This office canvasses the votes cast, and issues certificates of election to all elected state officials, United States Senators, Representatives to Congress, delegates and alternates to national political conventions, Presidential electors, members of the State Board of Education, and all state issues. The Secretary of State also issues commissions to elected state and county officials, and to the judges of appellate, common pleas, municipal and county courts. The county boards of elections certify to the Ohio Department of Liquor Control the result of elections held on questions of local liquor options.

The Secretary of State serves as secretary to the Electoral College; chairs the Ohio Ballot Board, which writes the ballot language for all statewide ballot issues; approves all election forms, including those for official ballots, nominating petitions, declarations of candidacy, for initiative and referendum petitions, and certifies to the boards of elections the text of laws and constitutional amendments proposed by initiative petition, laws referred to the people by referendum petition and constitutional amendments proposed by the General Assembly, and for advertising in each county of the state.

The Board of Voting Machine Examiners is appointed at the beginning of the Secretary of State's term and serves for the term of the Secretary of State. Whenever voting equipment is presented for approval, the Board ensures sure that it will work properly.

The Election Laws of Ohio are very specific and designed to regulate proper nominations of candidates to all elective offices; to give each qualified elector the right to vote and the assurance of an honest count and tabulation; in brief, to assure the citizenry that officials are elected in an orderly manner. Lack of space here prevents extended detailed discussion, but the following should be helpful in clarifying a few basic facts:

ELECTION-RELATED TERMS and DEFINITIONS:

GENERAL ELECTIONS: held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November.

REGULAR MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS: at the General Election in odd-numbered years.

REGULAR STATE ELECTIONS: at the General Election in the even-numbered years.

PRIMARY OR PRIMARY ELECTION: held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in May each year to nominate candidates for political parties for election to office to be voted at the next succeeding general election and for electing members of controlling committees of political parties and delegates and alternates to party conventions in the proper even-numbered years. In presidential election years, the primary is held on the third Tuesday in March.

SPECIAL ELECTION: any election other than a general or primary election held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in February, May or August. (It may be held, however, on the day of a general or primary election.) It may also be held on a day authorized by a charter for holding a special election. In presidential election years, a special election will not be held in February or May.

ELECTOR OR QUALIFIED ELECTOR: must be a citizen of the United States, 18 years of age or over, a resident of the state 30 days prior to an election, and registered to vote in Ohio at least 30 days before an election. Additionally, a 17-year-old may vote at a primary for nominees, provided that the individual will be 18 years of age on or before the next general election.

Any qualified elector who has moved out of Ohio within 90 days prior to a presidential election and has not registered in another state, may vote by absentee ballot for president and vice-president in the precinct in which his or her voting residence was located, as long as their absentee ballot request is received at least 30 days prior to the election.

CITIZENSHIP AND FRANCHISE: the United States Constitution confers citizenship in the United States and the state of residence, but the state grants the right of franchise. This right of franchise may be upon any term except that there may be no discrimination between citizens of the state because of race, color, sex, or previous condition of servitude.

VOTER: an elector who votes.

PRECINCT: an election district within a county established by the county board of elections, within which all qualified electors having a voting residence vote at the same polling place. There shall be no more than 1,400 electors in a precinct. A precinct is the smallest political division. In 2004, Ohio had 11,571 election precincts.

POLLING PLACE: a place provided for each precinct where the electors of that precinct may vote. The county board of elections must appoint at least four Precinct Election Officials for each precinct with not more than one half belonging to the same political party. Precinct officials must be registered voters of Ohio and residents of the county in which the precinct is located.

POLITICAL PARTY: any group of voters which at the last preceding general state election, polled for its candidate for governor or nominees for presidential electors at least five percent of the entire vote cast for such office; or which filed with the secretary of state a petition signed by qualified electors equal to at least one percent of the total votes cast for governor or presidential electors' nominees at the last preceding election, declaring intention of organizing a political party, and of participating in the next succeeding primary in even-numbered years, more than 120 days later. When any political party fails to cast five percent of the total vote cast at an election for the office of governor or president, it shall cease to be a political party.

NOMINATIONS: Party candidates' names will be placed upon a primary ballot by filing a declaration of candidacy stating the party affiliation and office sought, and with a petition containing the requisite number of signatures together with the filing fee, not later than the 75th day before the day of the primary election, or if it is a presidential primary election, not later than the 60th day before the presidential primary election. The candidates receiving the highest number of votes at the primary election are the respective party candidates whose names will appear with appropriate party designation on the ballot at the general election.

A person may file a nominating petition and request the designation of "independent" on the ballot. The request must be in writing and filed with the office where the petition is filed. The names of independent candidates appear only on the general election ballot.

MARKING BALLOTS: the procedure varies according to voting equipment. A cross mark must be placed before the name of a candidate to indicate a vote for that candidate on paper ballots. A button is pushed to select a candidate on an electronic voting machine, such as a touch screen.

The names of all candidates for a general election to judicial office, state board of education, municipal or township offices not nominated at a primary election and municipal offices so provided for by charter appear on "Official Non-partisan Ballot." Note: In cases of the judicial ballot, nominees run on a partisan ballot in the primary election, but on a non-partisan ballot in the general election.

A voter may write in a name on the ballot in the space provided, if such a write-in candidate has filed a declaration of intent at least 50 days prior to election and paid the filing fee.

POLL BOOK: each elector writes his or her name and address in a poll book before being permitted to vote at the voter's assigned polling place.

VOTE COUNTING: done by the precinct officials who enter the results in the poll books and forwards the returns to the board of elections. The precinct officials prepare summary sheets for each precinct if counting is done at the precinct. One copy is posted at the precinct and one is forwarded to the board of elections.

COUNTY BOARD OF ELECTIONS: controls all election arrangements, using a four-member bipartisan board in each county. They are appointed by the Secretary of State upon the recommendation of the two parties that cast the highest and next highest vote for governor at the preceding election. On March 1st in the even-numbered years, two members are appointed for four-year terms. The board executes the election laws of the state, making physical arrangements for all elections. The board shall appoint judges in each precinct. Precinct and county election officials are paid from the budget of the board of elections, which comes from the general fund of the county.

ABSENTEE VOTING: provided to any registered voter who requests that their board of elections issue them a ballot by mailing one to their home address or another residence that the voter requests. It is not necessary for the voter to state a reason for their voting absence.

Armed forces absentee voters' ballots are available to any person serving in the armed forces of the United States, his or her spouse and dependents upon application to the appropriate county board of elections. Armed forces absentee voters are not required to register to vote prior to an election.

CAMPAIGN FINANCE REPORTING: campaign related financial activity must be reported. Candidate campaign committees, political parties, political action committees and other entities must disclose campaign finance contributions and expenditures. The reports are made under penalty of election falsification, including verifying cancelled checks or paid receipts, and are filed on designated dates during an election and twice in off-election years.

POLITICAL PARTY ORGANIZATION

In general, government in the United States operates on a two-party system.

Ohio law provides that parties hold primary elections for the purpose of nominating party candidates for the general election. In this government by parties, the voter has the opportunity to express his or her party choice at the primary.

Ohio election laws provide for the election of the controlling committees of each political party at the primary election held in the even-numbered years. There are two such controlling committees: a county central committee and a state central committee.

The county central committee may be elected in one of two ways: (1) one member from each election precinct of the county; (2) one member from each ward in each city and from each township in the county. The outgoing committee determines which of the two methods shall be used. The elected county central committee is the smallest unit in the party is the foundation and source of strength of the party, and the direct contact between the party and the voter. Usually a person is appointed to assist the elected precinct official. If the elected official is a man, a woman is named; if a woman, a man is named to serve as assistant.

The State Central Committee of each major political party is comprised of two members, one man and one woman, from each Ohio Senate district in the state. The State Central Committee of each intermediate political party (a political party which received less than 20 percent, but more than 10 percent of the total votes cast for governor or president) is comprised of two members, one man and one woman, from each congressional district in the state.

Each of these controlling committees must meet within six to 15 days after their election for the purpose of organizing. Each has an executive committee, a chairman, vice chairman, treasurer, secretary, and such other officers as party rules provide.

One of the important powers of the executive committee is to recommend a qualified elector to the Secretary of State for appointment as member of the county board of elections. This is done 15 to 60 days before the term of the outgoing member expires.

If a county officer, officer-elect, or nominee for county office resigns, withdraws or dies, the county central committee of his or her political party may appoint a replacement to fill the vacancy under specific legal provisions. This is done not less than five, or more than 15 days, after the vacancy occurs.

There is also a national committee of each party.

BUSINESS SERVICES

The Business Services division of the Secretary of State's office is organized into two operational sections: Corporations and Uniform Commercial Code (UCC). These sections are responsible for recording business filings, as well as secured party financing statements. The duties of these sections are further described below.

CORPORATIONS: The general corporation laws of Ohio require all corporations, both for profit or nonprofit, to file articles of incorporation in the office of the Secretary of State. Subsequent amendments to the articles, such as changes in the number of authorized shares of stock, must also be filed with the office. Foreign corporations doing business with the state must apply to the Secretary of State for a license. If the license application is in order, the Secretary of State grants the foreign corporation the authority to transact business in Ohio.

The Corporations section also receives foreign and domestic limited liability company filings, foreign and domestic limited partnerships filings and foreign and domestic limited liability partnership filings.

The Corporations section receives the filing of trade names, trademarks, service marks, and marks of ownership, as well as certain mortgages, such as those upon railway rolling stock.

UNIFORM COMMERCIAL CODE: Chapter 1309 of the Revised Code designates the Secretary of State's office as the central filing agency for all secured transactions where collateral involved other than farm equipment, fixtures or consumer goods. The Uniform Commercial Code requires that financing statements be filed with the Secretary of state to perfect a security interest in business loans where the collateral involved is either equipment, accounts receivable or other collateral not specifically excepted. The Uniform Commercial Code provides for the filing of continuation statements, which renew financing statements that have a statutory life of five years, assignments and partial releases of collateral, and termination statements.

VOTER EDUCATION

As Ohio continued to make strides toward a complete statewide overhaul of voting technology in 2005, educating the public about how to use the new machines was a top priority. With 44 of Ohio's 88 counties upgrading voting technology to either new electronic or optical scan voting technology, the Secretary's office made sure complete and substantial voter education resources were available to each county. To assist in the education process, the office created and offered instructional brochure templates and live in-person demonstrations on how to use the new machines to each county. The office also offered the ability for county boards of elections to link to the www.YourVoteCountsOhio.com website which featured how-to internet videos in several formats, downloadable brochures specific to each county, and an interactive video demonstration. In addition, training videos were produced for the counties to help instruct poll workers on how to set-up, open and close the polls on Election Day. The office also made public service announcements available to the counties to help publicize the new voting equipment

ADJUTANT GENERAL'S DEPARTMENT

The Adjutant General's Department was formed soon after Ohio became a state in 1803. It provided military organization of the militia, retaining the historic precedent of the citizen soldier responding to the call of the colony for common protection. The department operates under the Ohio Code of Military Justice in line with the federal Uniform Code of Military Justice and adheres to all regulations of the active armed services of the United States.

The Governor, as commander-in-chief of the militia of the state, appoints the Adjutant General in the grade of major general; Assistant Adjutant General for Army in the grade of brigadier general; Assistant Adjutant General for Air in the grade of major general; and an Assistant Quartermaster General in the grade of colonel. They hold office at the pleasure of the Governor during his term of office and must be appointed from the federally recognized list of officers active in the Ohio National Guard with not less than 10 years commissioned service and not less than five years in the Ohio National Guard.

Every able-bodied citizen between the ages of 17 and 67 is subject to service in the unorganized Ohio Militia unless already a member of the organized militia which consists of the Ohio National Guard, Ohio Military Reserve, and Ohio Naval Militia. Membership in the organized militia of the state is voluntary. The organized militia may be ordered by the Governor to serve the state to suppress or prevent riot or insurrection, repel or prevent invasion, to protect persons or property from violence, or in case of man-made or natural disaster.

The Ohio National Guard, Army and Air, is the organized military force of the state, except when ordered into active federal service. Under the National Defense Act, the Army and Air National Guard are reserve components of the United States Army and Air Force. Within the past 80 years, the Guard has been inducted into federal service nine times. For World Wars I and II, the mobilization was complete. The Berlin Airlift; Korean Emergency; Mexican Border Service; Vietnam; Operations Just Cause (Panama); and Desert Storm were partial mobilizations. Ohio Army and Air Guard members were activated after the September 11th attacks to serve in Operations Noble Eagle, Enduring Freedom, and Iraqi Freedom. In recent years, National Guard members have been increasingly active and have volunteered for service in peacekeeping and humanitarian missions around the world, serving in Bosnia, Kosovo, Honduras, and Nicaragua. In September 2005 Hurricanes Katrina and Rita struck the Gulf Coast states of Mississippi and Louisiana, resulting in the mobilization of over 2,700 Ohio National Guardsman, Army and Air, to help with emergency relief operations.

The Ohio National Guard consists of more than 80 Army units with 64 armories located in 49 Ohio counties, and four Air Guard wings with 12 ground units, three of which are geographically separated, for an Air Guard presence in seven Ohio counties. There are approximately 10,000 Army National Guard members and 5,000 Air National Guard members. Major units of the Army National Guard are the 37th Brigade Combat Team, 16th Engineer Brigade and 73rd Troop Command. Flying Wings in the Air National Guard are the 121st Air Refueling Wing (Columbus), 179th Airlift Wing (Mansfield), the 178th Fighter Wing (Springfield) and the 180th Fighter Wing (Swanton). All members of the National Guard are paid on the basis of rank and time in service in comparison with the active armed forces.

The Ohio Military Reserve and the Ohio Naval Militia are strictly state forces and have no federal authorizations or obligation. At present, these organizations consist only on a cadre basis and are charged with the planning necessary for rapid expansion in the event the National Guard is activated for federal service.

The Adjutant General is also custodian of all military property owned by the State of Ohio or issued to the state by the federal government. The department is responsible for maintaining a roster of active National Guard members of Ohio and for safe keeping of all military records of active and retired Ohio National Guard members.

The Director of Agriculture, who is appointed by the Governor, is empowered to make rules and regulations regarding all aspects of statutory duties concerning agriculture and consumer protection, the conduct of county and independent fairs, and departmental procedures.

OFFICE OF BUDGET AND MANAGEMENT

The Office of Budget and Management (OBM), headed by a Director appointed by the governor, was created in 1973 when the former Department of Finance, Personnel, and Public Works was divided into two new agencies, the Office of Budget and Management and the Department of Administrative Services. The Director serves as the chief financial advisor to the Governor, keeps the Governor apprised of the state economy, is the Chief financial spokesperson for the Governor, and represents the Governor in financial matters before the General Assembly and other public forums.

The Office has nine sections:

BUDGET DEVELOPMENT: evaluates agencies' budget requests and prepares the executive biennial budget and capital plan for submission to the Ohio legislature. When budgets are passed, the section oversees allotment planning and monitors agencies' spending to ensure it is done in conformance with state law and does not exceed appropriations. This section also prepares economic forecasts and revenue estimates and issues a monthly financial report to the Governor.

CONTROLLING BOARD: consists of seven members - a designee of the Director of Budget and Management who serves as a president of the board, three members of the House of Representatives, and three members of the Senate. The board provides legislative oversight over certain capital and operating expenditures by state agencies and has approval authority over various state fiscal activities. The Board meets approximately every two weeks to consider and vote on requests for actions that are submitted agencies.

DEBT MANAGEMENT: is responsible for managing existing State debt and proposed issuances of new State debt as authorized under Section 126.11 of the Ohio Revised Code. For proposed sales of new State debt, OBM must review and approve the sale including the amount, security, the source of payment, structures, and maturity schedule.

ACCOUNTING OPERATIONS AND PROCESSING: monitors and controls both the spending and revenue collection activities of state agencies. The staff in this program also develops and maintains computer software accounting programs, provides training to users of the state's accounting system, and produces state financial reports.

ELECTRONIC COMMERCE: these programs are designed to empower state agencies, boards and commissions to procure goods and services in a more efficient manner; they encourage the streamlining of the acquisition process, while still having solid internal controls to monitor the process and payment of the purchased goods and services.

FINANCIAL REPORTING: primarily responsible for publishing the State's official Comprehensive Annual Financial Report. This report covers all funds of the State's reporting entity, and includes basic financial statements and required supplementary information prepared in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles.

INTERNAL ACCOUNTING CONTROL PROGRAM AND OVERSIGHT: created to ensure that state agencies complete a control self-assessment. This helps agencies establish and maintain proper controls to comply with all applicable laws relating to financial matters, and adopt practices to safeguard the state's funds, property, and other assets against waste, loss, and unauthorized use.

FINANCIAL PLANNING AND SUPERVISION COMMISSIONS: there are two types commissions; one to help school districts and the other to assist local government. They are created after the Auditor of State declares the entity to be in a state of financial emergency.

OHIO ADMINISTRATIVE KNOWLEDGE SYSTEM: is a business transformation project that will improve the effectiveness, efficiency, and integration of central government business functions through an enterprise resource planning system.

DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE

The Department of Commerce, created under Ohio Revised Code Section 121.02, is headed by a Governor appointed Director, regulates and provides services to numerous Ohio industries. Its mission is to fulfill our legal obligations to safeguard the public, while striving to regulate commerce in a reasonable, fair and efficient manner. To help in this mission, the Department continually strives to streamline bureaucracy in order to provide services more effectively and less costly. The Department differs from most governmental agencies, since it sustains its operations from funds collected from the industries it regulates.

The Department is composed of seven operating divisions and a Division of Administration that provides umbrella services to the operating divisions:

FINANCIAL INSTITUTIONS: regulates financial institutions in Ohio and consumer finance companies. The duties performed by the division include chartering banks; savings and loans; savings banks; credit unions; registering and licensing certain non-depository financial services; and conducting on-site examinations. Non-depository finance organizations include check cashing services, credit service organizations, insurance premium finance companies, mortgage brokers, pawnbrokers, precious metals dealers, second mortgage businesses, and small loan businesses.

INDUSTRIAL COMPLIANCE & LABOR: provides building and construction plans reviews, inspections of plumbing, electrical and structural systems, on-site inspections of elevators, boilers, and bedding and upholstered products throughout the state. The division provides testing, certification, licensing and continuing education services for numerous skilled trades within Ohio's building industry. The division also has incorporated the former division of Labor and Worker Safety as a bureau that administers and enforces Ohio's prevailing wage, minimum wage and minor labor laws.

LIQUOR CONTROL: responsible for controlling the manufacture, distribution, and sale of all alcoholic beverages in Ohio. It is the sole purchaser and distributor of spirituous liquor. These liquors are sold through more than 400 private businesses, known as state liquor agencies, that are contracted by the division to serve as its sales agents. Portions of the revenue generated by this regulation are used by other agencies for alcohol education, prevention and treatment programs. The Ohio Department Public Safety Liquor Enforcement Division and the Department of Health's Alcohol Testing Program benefit from the use of these funds.

REAL ESTATE AND PROFESSIONAL LICENSING: licenses real estate brokers and salespersons. It also licenses and certifies general and residential appraisers. In addition, the division regulates foreign real estate brokers, and registers foreign real estate property. The division also supports the Ohio Cemetery Dispute Resolution Committee which includes the registration of all active cemeteries in Ohio, and investigating complaints or disputes involving registered cemeteries.

SECURITIES: protects consumers and promotes the development of both large and small businesses in Ohio by administering the Ohio Securities Act. The term "securities" includes stocks, bonds, debentures, options, promissory notes, and many other forms of investment contracts. The division reviews applications of securities offered for sale in Ohio, and licenses securities dealers, salespersons, investment advisors and investment adviser representatives. It investigates complaints by investors, and imposes administrative action against violators of the Ohio Securities Act. The division makes a number of criminal referrals to local prosecutors.

STATE FIRE MARSHAL: the State Fire Marshal's Office is the oldest established office of its kind in the United States being established in 1900. The division's general area of responsibility include:

- Designing and presenting fire prevention programs
- Modernizing and enforcing the Ohio Fire Code
- Investigating the cause and origin of fires and explosions
- Analyzing fire-related criminal evidence
- Regulating underground storage tanks
- Training firefighters
- Testing, licensing and certification

UNCLAIMED FUNDS: responsible for the safekeeping and return of monies designated as "unclaimed." Each year, due to death, inadvertence or forgetfulness, hundreds of thousands people and organizations lose track of monies, rights to monies and intangible personal property in Ohio. The division requires that the holders report unclaimed funds and works to locate the owners of such funds. Common sources of unclaimed funds include: dormant bank accounts; unpaid insurance policies; unreturned utility and rent deposits; undelivered and un-cashed dividends and shares of stocks; and un-cashed checks. While in the possession of the division, unclaimed funds are used to assist in the state's economic development.

DEPARTMENT OF DEVELOPMENT

The Department of Development (DOD) is under the leadership of a Director appointed by the Governor. DOD administers both short and long-term economic development programs that are designed to create and retain jobs for Ohioans; maintains the states role as an industrial and technological leader; attracts national and international companies to locate their operations in Ohio; assists entrepreneurial and minority business growth; builds healthy communities; and keeps the state's business competitive in world markets.

The Department of Development contains eight divisions or offices:

ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT DIVISION: provides assistance in the creation, retention, and expansion of job opportunities for Ohioans. Through aggressive economic assistance and incentive packages for businesses, Ohio remains an economic development trendsetter. Offices within the division include business development, tax, investment-in-training, and small business assistance.

INTERNATIONAL TRADE DIVISION: promotes commerce and investment between Ohio and global markets. The division organizes trade shows and missions, and provides technical assistance to small and medium sized Ohio businesses interested in selling their products to overseas markets. The division operates trade offices in Toronto, Canada; Tokyo, Japan; Brussels, Belgium; Tel Aviv, Israel; Mexico City, Mexico; Sao Paulo, Brazil; Buenos Aires, Argentina; Santiago, Chile; Hong Kong; and Johannesburg, South Africa.

TECHNOLOGY DIVISION: strengthens the economy and enhances the environment and the general well-being of Ohio Citizens by facilitating the research, development, and commercialization of technologies in partnership with business, academia, Ohio communities and other governmental agencies.

COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT DIVISION: links state government to local governments and non-profit organizations through a variety of state and federally funded housing assistance and human services programs. The division's goal is to build stronger, healthier communities throughout the state.

DIVISION OF TRAVEL AND TOURISM: promotes Ohio as a quality travel destination. Through a series of innovative programs and promotions, such as 1-800-BUCKEYE, the division works to increase travel and visitor spending in Ohio.

GOVERNOR'S OFFICE OF APPALACHIA: represents the interests of Ohio's Appalachian region within state government. The Office serves as an advocate for southeastern Ohio's 29 Appalachian counties by shaping policy and promoting specific projects and proposals which have been developed by the region's residents.

DIVISION OF MINORITY BUSINESS AFFAIRS: encourages and assists with the development and growth of minority-owned businesses. Special programs, such as direct loans and surety bonding, offer financial assistance to new and growing minority enterprises. The division also offers resources including technical assistance, management, education, and consulting services to help minority businesses procure public and private sector contracts.

OFFICE OF URBAN DEVELOPMENT: helps improve the economic climate in Ohio's older communities by encouraging new investment and innovative land use in order to attract and retain good jobs. Through the Clean Ohio Program, the office provides grants to communities to assess and clean up properties which are environmentally damaged so they can be used in future development.

The Department of Development has 12 regional offices located throughout the state. Ohioans can receive assistance accessing the Department's many programs through these offices.

STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION

DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION

The State Board of Education is the elected policy making agency for the schools of Ohio. The Ohio Department of Education serves as the Board's administrative arm. The Department is headed by the Superintendent of Public Instruction, who is appointed by the State Board.

Public education in Ohio has been a force almost as vital to the people as life itself. The state's educational system provides every Ohioan the opportunity to prepare for work, responsible citizenship, lifelong learning. Historically, public education began with the Northwest Ordinance of 1787 which provided "that schools and means of education should forever be encouraged." Tax revenues from a section of each township in the Northwest Territory were set aside by the federal government for schools. In 1820, a state system of free public schools was established. Attendance was made mandatory in 1825, and a one-half mill on the grand list of taxable property was appropriated. This was raised to 1 mill in 1854. Currently, local school districts are required to raise at least 20 mills in local taxes.

Since public education is basically a state responsibility outlined in the Ohio Constitution, the Ohio State School Department was created in 1837 with Samuel Lewis as the first state superintendent of schools. Three years later, the department was abolished and its duties were placed under the Secretary of State. In 1853, however, the Ohio State School Department was again created, this time with a Commissioner of Public Education that was elected for a three-year term. A 1912 constitutional amendment provided for a governor-appointed Superintendent of Public Instruction. A 1953 Constitutional amendment established the State Board of Education. In 1956, the board appointed the State Superintendent of Public Instruction, who would operate the State Department of Education to carry out the board's responsibilities and policies in accordance with the law and to serve as the board's secretary and chief executive officer. The superintendent also serves as a member of the board of several key state organizations, including the Ohio Historical Society, the Ohio School Facilities Commission, the Ohio E-tech Commission, School Employees Retirement System of Ohio, and the State Teachers' Retirement System of Ohio.

Of the 19 State Board of Education members, 11 are elected on an official nonpartisan ballot for four-year terms to represent districts comprised of three contiguous state senatorial districts. The remaining eight State Board of Education members are appointed by the governor (four representing rural districts and four representing urban districts, and serve at-large). A president and vice president are elected within the board. Nominations are by nominating petitions signed by not less than one percent of electors who voted for governor at the preceding regular election in the district, or 500, whichever is less. The candidates and petition signers must be qualified electors residing in the district. State board members may not hold any other public office, or be employed by any public or private school. Members are paid a salary pursuant to the Ohio Revised Code, and are reimbursed for expenses incurred while traveling to and from their home. A regular meeting must be held at least once every three months. Within 30 days of a vacancy, the governor appoints a qualified person to serve until the next general election.

This board is also responsible for the operation of the Ohio State School for the Blind and the Ohio School for the Deaf.

Under the law, the State Board of Education, through its operating agency, the Ohio Department of Education, sets educational policies; exercises leadership; administers regulatory and service functions by setting standards; allocates and distributes state foundation money and state and Federal grant funds; grants certification for teachers, principals, superintendents and treasurers; inspects schools; sets regulations for sale and purchase of textbooks; upon request, inspects adherence to minimum standards for instructional programs, personnel, buildings, and transportation; and provides technical, consultative, and advisory assistance. All efforts are directed toward assuring high academic achievement for all pupils in elementary, secondary, and vocational schools.

In addition to the State Superintendent of Public Instruction, there is a Deputy Superintendent, six Associate Superintendents, (leading the Center for School Options and Finance, the Center for the Teaching Profession, the Center for Curriculum and Assessment, the Center for Policy and Accountability, the Center for Students, Families and Communities, and the Center for School Improvement).

The Ohio Department of Education administers dozens of programs and hundreds of projects, which in fiscal year 2009, made available to Ohio schools and educational groups about $1.1 billion in federal funds. Currently, the state provides about 45.4 percent of the current operating expenditures for Ohio's schools, with 46.4 percent coming from local sources and 8.2 percent coming from Federal sources. The 128th General Assembly appropriated $6.80 billion in FY 2010 and $6.79 billion in FY 2011 for foundation (state aide) payments.

The average per pupil expenditure for Ohio students in the 2008 school year was $10,148. Approximately, 55.2 percent of a school district's budget is spent on instructional salaries.

An annual report must be prepared and submitted to the governor and the Ohio General Assembly, indicating the status, needs, and major problems of the public schools, and recommendations for necessary legislation.

Although the Ohio Constitution provides that education is a State responsibility, the Ohio General Assembly delegates much responsibility for administering and operation of public schools to Boards of Education in the city, local, exempted village school districts and the joint vocational school districts.

The county educational service center, usually administered by a five-member board with a superintendent and staff, provide services to the local districts within the county. Typical services would include special education, speech, hearing and psychological specialists for students. A county educational service center usually does not have power to operate classes.

The local school district within a county unit is also administered by a five-member board and has a local superintendent and treasurer. This board employs teachers, builds buildings, levies taxes and establishes rules and regulations for the operation of schools within its district.

The city school district may be organized in a municipality populated by 5,000 or more individuals. The number of board members may vary with population of the city, but may not exceed seven. It employs a superintendent, treasurer and staff, and operates schools. A city district is not under supervision of a county educational service center, but may contract for services with the educational service center.

An exempted village district is a district organized in a municipality of 2,500 or more, and is exempted from supervision by the county educational service center. Since 1954, Ohio law has prevented the establishment of additional exempted village school districts. Those exempted village school districts which currently exist are those which existed prior to 1954 and have not chosen to change status to a city or local school district.

Each district operates under a board of education, whose members are nominated by petition, and elected on a non-partisan ballot at general elections in odd numbered years to allow for staggered four-year terms beginning the first Monday in January. Vacancies are filled by the board until next general election for board members.

State powers are delegated to these boards; however the state retains general control authority. Thus, the powers of the boards are those of quasi-corporations, and each district is a sub-division of the state, with its board aiding in the administration, exercising only those powers delegated to it under law, and without authority by its own action to make any additions or changes in such powers.

In the 2008-09 school year, these boards employed approximately 100,000 full-time teachers in 3,769 schools in 613 districts with 1.9 million pupils.

County educational service centers are specifically restricted to supervisory functions concerning local districts. Local, city and exempted village school district boards have powers and authority specifically granted by the state. Each school district must levy taxes to provide free education for all school-age youths within the district for 182 days each school year, furnish free textbooks, provide transportation according to the law, and perform such other functions as the law demands, such as establishing salary schedules, making contributions to the State Teachers' Retirement System and to the School Employees' Retirement System.

In 1997, the General Assembly created community schools (sometimes called charter schools) in Ohio, which are designed to provide educational services to students, particularly those students who may be better served in a non-traditional environment. These community schools must have a sponsor and designate the grade span to serve. They will receive state and federal funding, typically on a per student basis, but do not receive local funds. They do not have taxing authority. As of 2009, there are nearly 330 community schools operating in Ohio with educational programs operating in traditional brick and mortar buildings, virtual electronic classrooms, and alternative education programs.

Compulsory education, which requires youth between the ages of six and eighteen to attend school, has been the law in Ohio since 1825. To be admitted to the first grade, a child must have reached his sixth birthday on or before September 30th of the entering school year, or have special placement.

Each high school must provide a comprehensive, college preparatory, or vocational curriculum, with at least 45 units of credit including fine arts, business education, English, foreign language, home economics, industrial arts, mathematics, physical education, health, social studies, science, reading, economics, and 15 other units in addition to these or other subjects.

To meet the state requirements for high school graduation, a student must have completed 20 units of credit above the 8th grade which must include

English, social studies (including American history and American government), science, mathematics, health and physical education. Students must also pass the Ohio Graduation Test in each of the following areas: reading, writing, mathematics, social studies, and science. The State Board of Education encourages all schools to give a balanced presentation of the relevant contributions of women and of ethnic-minority and racial-minority groups.

ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION AGENCY

In 1972, the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) is headed by a Director appointed by the Governor and was created to administer laws and regulations governing air, water, and land pollution in the state. The Agency operates the following programs:

- Air Pollution Control
- Solid and Infectious Waste Management
- Hazardous Waste Management
- Drinking and Ground Waters
- Water
- Emergency and Remedial Response
- Environmental and Financial Assistance
- Pollution Prevention
- Environmental Education Fund

An extensive permit program governs polluters or potential polluters of the air, land, water, or drinking water supplies, and allows for compliance monitoring of pollution sources. All programs are increasing emphasis on pollution prevention and technical assistance.

The Ohio EPA provides for citizen participation in its proceedings and encourages citizen involvement in the permit process and in complaint proceedings.

The Director serves as Chairman of the Hazardous Waste Facility Approval Board; Chairman of the State Emergency Response Commission; is an ex-officio member of the Ohio Water Development Authority and the Ohio Air Quality Development Authority; and is a Commissioner of the Ohio River Valley Water Sanitation Commission, and the Water Quality Board International Joint Commission.

DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH

The Ohio Department of Health (ODH), through the Director of Health, appointed by the Governor, and the Public Health Council, works to promote and protect the health of all Ohioans. The Public Health Council is the primary rule-making body of the department. It adopts, amends, and rescinds rules of the Ohio Administrative Code pertaining to public health; prescribes, by rule, the number and functions of divisions and bureaus, and the qualifications of chiefs of divisions and bureaus within the department; and advises and consults with the director on matters affecting public health. The composition of the seven-member group, as required by statute, are three physicians, a registered nurse, a registered pharmacist, a registered sanitarian, and a member of the public who is at least 60 years of age. Members are appointed by the Governor to serve seven-year terms, with one term expiring each June.

The department was formed in 2000 by the merger of the Ohio Department of Human Services and the Ohio Bureau of Employment Services. It develops and oversees programs designed to help Ohioans become independent through education, employment, job skills, and training. Other ODJFS programs help ensure a safe and healthy environment for individuals and families who need help caring for their basic needs due to temporary or permanent situations. These programs include: adoption; child care; child support; disability assistance; food stamps; foster care; labor exchange; Medicaid; Ohio Works First; the Prevention, Retention, and Contingency Program; protective services; Unemployment Compensation; veterans' services; and workforce development.

SERVICES FOR OHIO WORKFORCE JOB SEEKERS: assists with career counseling, education and training, computer-cased job matching and labor market information, resume preparation, information on unemployment compensation, and is the registration agency for apprenticeship opportunities. In addition, ODJFS assists disabled veterans, Vietnam-era veterans and other veterans in alleviating unemployment and underemployment. Sharing Career Opportunities and Training Information (SCOTI) is a Web-based job-seeking vehicle where an individual can post their resume, search through thousands of job openings, and access other helpful information.

SERVICES FOR EMPLOYERS: referral of qualified job seekers to employer job openings and assisting with job fairs and direct referrals; utilizing both staff and Internet services to post current job openings, review resumes and find employees for current job openings; procedures for reporting new hires; and information on the labor market, tax credit programs, and unemployment compensation. ODJFS also establishes the standards for county certification of private homes, which care for six or fewer children (Type B family childcare homes). There are 3467 licensed centers in Ohio.

CHILD SUPPORT PROGRAM: works to ensure that children in Ohio receive the financial support by non-custodial parents who are legally obligated to provide. The program provides a variety of services, ranging from legally identifying the father of a child, to the enforcement of financial, and medical obligations.

OHIO WORKS FIRST (OWF): part of Ohio's Temporary Assistance to Needy Families (TANF) program and initially provides time-limited cash assistance to eligible needy families for up to 36 months. During that time, county departments of job and family services (CDJFS) provide support to adult participants to become job-ready, obtain necessary job skills and find employment. After 36 months, families are ineligible for further payments unless the CDJFS approves an extension of benefits.

OUT OF HOME PLACEMENT SERVICES: are provided when it has been determined that a child must be removed from the home and substitute (foster) care is arranged. If the situation indicates that a child will not return, steps are taken toward finding a permanent placement, preferably adoption.

PREVENTION, RETENTION, AND CONTINGENCY (PRC): a program designed to assist low-income families with necessary resources to:

Prevent families from having to apply for OWF cash assistance when crises arise; help family members retain employment by enhancing job skills, overcoming barriers, and providing short-term assistance or wage supplementing wages if necessary; and provide for contingent needs by helping families with one-time urgent problems that, if left unattended, could result in families' needing long-term public assistance.

HEALTH CARE: administers a state and federally funded health care plan called Medicaid provides health care coverage to low-income and medically vulnerable people of all ages.

SUPPORT PROGRAMS

- Food Stamp Program: helps people with low incomes obtain nutritious food. Food stamp benefits are issued by the U.S. Department of Agriculture through county job and family services departments (CDJFS) and are used to purchase specific staples and grocery items at participating grocery stores. Food stamp benefits are dispersed through the Electronic Benefits Transfer system. At the grocery store checkout counter, the amount purchased is deducted electronically via a plastic card from the individual's or family's total monthly allotment of food stamp benefits. Eligibility, determined by the CDJFS, is based on federal guidelines including income, resources and household size. An average of one million Ohioans receive food stamps each month.
- Ohio's Best Rx: a statewide prescription drug discount program designed to lower the cost of prescriptions for Ohio residents who have no prescription drug coverage. Applicants under the age of 60 cannot earn more than 250 percent of the federal poverty guideline while those age 60 and over are not subject to any income restrictions.

DEPARTMENT OF MENTAL HEALTH

The Department of Mental Health (ODMH) is administered by a Director appointed by the Governor. The Medical Director oversees treatment issues in mental health. A Deputy Director has the responsibility for hospital programs while two other Deputy Directors are assigned to program development/policy issues and administrative services. Six Area Directors serve as liaisons with local community health boards.

The primary mission of the Department is to ensure that quality mental health care is available in communities to all Ohioans - particularly individuals with serious mental illness. It is estimated that nearly two million Ohioans will need mental health services during their lives for problems ranging from situational stress to severe and chronic mental illness. Each year the mental health system provides services to more than 265,000 Ohioans including 76,000 adults and 52,000 children who have serious disabilities resulting from a mental illness.

Ohio has made significant progress in improving its mental health system. Ranked 26th among the states in a 1986 survey by a national public health research group, Ohio moved into seventh place in 1988, and in 1990 was rated fourth best in the country. This improvement was due in large part to the legislature's passage of the Mental Health Act of 1988, which initiated a broad program of reform in Ohio. This landmark legislation had two primary goals: to move toward community treatment rather than institutionalization, and to emphasize local direction rather than state control.

The Department funds, reviews, and monitors community mental health programs through 50 county-level boards. These boards in turn fund, plan and monitor services provided by more than 400 not-for-profit community mental health agencies. The Department reviews these agencies for compliance with certification standards, and also licenses private psychiatric hospital units and community residential programs.

The legislation passed in 1988 required that local mental health programs establish a community support system which includes residential, crisis, vocational, case management and family support services as part of the mental health system. Other human service providers, community leaders, public officials, clergy, educators, employers, families, and consumers themselves, as well as health and mental health care professionals participate as part of community support systems.

As local mental health programs have increased in both size and scope, more people have received services in outpatient settings in their home communities, and the population of state psychiatric hospitals has decreased dramatically. The average daily resident population of state hospitals has declined from 40,000 in 1975 to 1,200 in 2002. During this same time frame, the community caseload has grown from 95,000 to 190,000 and the number of community agencies has increased from 92 to 470.

Mental health facilities operated by ODMH provide the inpatient component of the community mental health system. Plans for utilization of state hospitals are submitted to ODMH by the boards and patients are screened in the community before admission. Some state hospital employees provide services in community settings through community support networks coordinated by county boards. The Department currently operates five Behavioral Healthcare Organizations (hospitals) with nine sites for adults. During fiscal year 2002, these hospitals admitted and discharged more than 2,000 patients.

DEPARTMENT OF DEVELOPMENTAL DISABILITIES

The Department of Developmental Disabilities is headed by a Director appointed by the Governor. The Department has the responsibility for overseeing a statewide system of support for persons with mental retardation or other developmental disabilities.

The agency was formerly named The Ohio Department of Mental Retardation and Developmental Disabilities, until the signing of Senate Bill 79 in July 2009, which authorized the name change.) The agency ensures the availabilities of programs, services, and supports to assist more than 80,000 Ohioans with disabilities in living the life they choose, promotes their health and safety, and assists and supports the families of these individuals in achieving these goals.

The department provides funding assistance and administrative oversight to Ohio's 88 County Boards of Developmental Disabilities (County Boards of DD) for residential and support services. The agency staff coordinates and provides professional mitigation preparedness response and recovery services that save lives, reduce injuries and economic loss, and enhance recovery from disaster.

The primary focus of the agency, when not in a response or recovery mode, is to ensure that the state, and its 11 million citizens, is prepared to respond to an emergency or disaster and to lead mitigation efforts against future disasters. Effective emergency management systems are a tiered effort. When an emergency exceeds the capacity of local government, they request the assistance of the state through the Ohio EMA. If an emergency response exceeds the capacity of the Ohio EMA, the governor can request aid from the president through the Federal Emergency Agency (FEMA).

They are also responsible for leading, integrating, and coordinating the implementation of preparedness efforts among state departments and agencies, local governments, and the private sector in preparation against terrorist attacks. Establishes and provides updates to a comprehensive Homeland Security Strategic Plan.

The Homeland Security Strategic Plan, modeled after the National Strategy, is intended to provide a comprehensive road map for achieving Ohio's homeland security mission and vision: preventing terrorism, raising awareness, reducing vulnerabilities, and responding to and recovering from terrorist acts. They map long-term goals and objectives for creating preparedness by identifying the organizations and individuals responsible for achieving the goals and objectives.

The Operations Section coordinates overall efforts to deter, detect, and prevent terrorist attacks in Ohio. They are responsible for leading, integrating, and coordinating the implementation of efforts among state departments and agencies, local governments, and the private sector to thwart terrorist attacks. They also facilitate interactions and collaborations between state and federal agencies, including the Department of Homeland Security, the Federal Bureau of Investigation, and the U.S. Attorney's Office. This is done through the SAIC which functions as the one-stop-shop for the collection and dissemination of terrorism-related information in Ohio.

The Investigative Unit's primary mission is the enforcement of the laws, rules and regulations that pertain to alcoholic beverages, food stamp fraud, and tobacco sales associated with liquor permit premises. This is accomplished through a concerted effort to cooperate with and assist Ohio's local communities and their law enforcement agencies as they address these important issues. The highest priority in this area are those violations of the state's underage alcohol and tobacco laws. The Enforcement Agents conduct both criminal and administrative investigations, and when appropriate, bring charges in local courts and/or before the Liquor Control Commission.

This unit is responsible for the education of the state's citizens, it's merchants and it's law enforcement officers relative to laws regarding alcohol and tobacco. The Unit maintains a staff of seven Enforcement Agents, presenting "the Sober Truth" program to junior and senior high school students and community groups. The Unit also presents the "H.E.L.P." (Hire Education for Liquor Permits) program for the state's retail alcohol and tobacco merchants. The unit continues a long-standing tradition of providing Ohio's many law enforcement agencies with specialized training on the investigation and enforcement of violations pertaining to alcohol sales and manufacture, retail tobacco sales, and food stamp fraud.

Patrol officers also apprehend criminals using Ohio's roadways in their activities, primarily auto theft, drugs, or stolen property.

OSHP maintains a physically fit and well-trained force ready to respond to any situation. This may include violations of criminal laws on state-owned or leased property, or if directed by the Governor, assisting in disaster relief or riot protection.

The Patrol also conducts driver license examinations, inspects school buses, administers a motor vehicle inspection program, enforces state law concerning commercial vehicle size and weight restrictions, and investigates aircraft crashes occurring outside municipalities. OSHP also provides specialized law enforcement training to police and sheriff departments throughout Ohio.

Assisting the OSHP in event of emergencies and disasters is an Auxiliary force of almost 155 active members.

DEPARTMENT OF TRANSPORTATION

The Ohio Department of Transportation (ODOT) is headed by a Director appointed by the governor. Other major members of the staff are three Assistant Directors, Chief Legal Counsel and a Chief of Staff.

The Ohio Transportation System began with a network of Indian trails and waterways, including the Ohio River, Lake Erie and their tributaries. Today it consists of more than 116,000 miles of roadways, (including 1,331 miles of interstate highways, 17,970 miles of state and US routes, and the 241.2-mile Ohio Turnpike); 5,800 miles of railroads; and 144 public airports owned or operated by local governments or state universities plus more than 449 private fixed base operations; The department, was created in 1972 to replace the former Department of Highways to broaden its scope to assure efficient and meaningful movement of people, goods and services. Ohio ranks 35th nationally in geographic size, however the state has:

- 2nd largest inventory of bridges;
- 4th largest interstate network;
- 5th highest volume of truck and passenger traffic; and
- 7th largest highway system in the country.

There are three major areas at ODOT: Business Management; Highway Management and Planning; and Production Management. Business Management includes the divisions of Information Technology, Finance and Forecasting, Quality & Human Resources, and Facilities & Equipment Management. Highway Management includes the divisions of Contract Administration, Construction Management and Highway Operations. Planning and Production includes the divisions of Planning, Local Programs, and Production Management.

Ohio's roadways are classified, for administrative purposes, under four subdivisions of government: state, county, township and city. Each is a separate governmental entity with a defined portion of the highway network assigned to its jurisdiction. The state system is administered by ODOT; the county engineer, functioning with the board of county commissioners, administers the county system; the township trustees and clerk administer the township system; and the city (street) system is administered by appropriately designated agencies within the city government. ODOT does not have administrative control over any other of the government agencies, but there are conditions set forth in the statutes providing for coordination of efforts by the Director of Transportation.

Until about 40 years ago, the state usually contributed about 50 percent of the total highway improvement costs. The local share came from assessments against adjoining real estate until the cost of providing adequate roads increased beyond all reasonable proportion to the value received by the adjoining property owners. Subsequently, financing improvements to state rural highways became the direct responsibility of the state.

The highway responsibilities are funded through revenues generated by the state and federal motor fuel tax. The state motor fuel tax rate is 28-cents per gallon; and the federal tax rate is 18.4-cents per gallon. ODOT's budget for state fiscal years 2006 and 2007 is $2.87 billion and $2.81 billion respectively, for a total of $5.6 billion for the biennium. This includes 40.3% from the federal trust fund, 44% from the state motor fuel tax, 9.5% from state highway bonds, 1.7% from federal highway bonds, 0.6% from the state infrastructure bank, 1.1% from the state general fund, 2.7% from local government participation, and 0.1% from miscellaneous funds.

Besides being responsible for the construction and maintenance of state, federal and interstate highways, the department also provides assistance to public transit and aviation facilities. ODOT anticipates a capital construction program of $1.71 billion in fiscal year 2006 and $2.42 billion in 2007. At least $700 million annually will be spent for the basic maintenance and preservation of the state highway system. The department dedicates a portion of its budget to programs that specifically assist local governments with their infrastructure needs. The remaining funding is used for administrative expenses of the department including payroll and snow and ice control. The majority of the work performed on the state roadways is done by competitively bid contracts awarded to private construction companies. ODOT personnel in the districts do perform routine maintenance such as guardrail repair, pothole patching and litter removal, are solely responsible for snow and ice control on Ohio's interstate system.

The Director of Transportation may enter into agreements, subject to certain restrictions, with other states or the Federal Government relative to the repair, maintenance or construction of toll-free bridges crossing a stream or body of water forming the state boundary.

The Director is an Ex-officio, voting member, of the Ohio Turnpike Commission. The five-member Turnpike Commission constructed and maintains the east-west turnpike across the northern part of the state, which is part of the interstate highway system. Revenue bonds, issued by the commission to finance the turnpike, are being redeemed by the collection of tolls.

OHIO BUREAU OF WORKERS' COMPENSATION

The Ohio Bureau of Workers' Compensation (BWC) has provided injured workers with medical assistance and wage loss compensation for work-related injuries, diseases, and deaths since 1912. BWC's headquarters is in Columbus. Further, the bureau maintains 16 customer service offices and two customer focus centers in communities throughout Ohio.

In September 1995, the Ohio legislature revised the laws so the governor could appoint the bureau's administrator. The change created the Workers' Compensation Oversight Commission and established the position of chief operating officer, reporting to the administrator. The Oversight Commission makes recommendations to the administrator regarding investment policy, and approves premium rates and administrative rules.

At $21.2 billion (as of June 30, 2005), the Ohio workers' compensation system is the largest exclusive state-funded system in the United States and the fifth largest underwriter of workers' compensation insurance in the country. In fiscal year 2005, BWC provided workers' compensation coverage to more than 288,800 employers, processed more than 197,000 new claims and paid more than $2.1 billion in benefits. BWC collected more than $2.1 billion in premiums and assessments in fiscal year 2005.

The bureau provides insurance directly to an estimated two-thirds of Ohio's work force. The remaining workers receive coverage through a self-insurance program for large, financially stable employers who retain the financial risk for their companies' workers' compensation claims.

The workers' compensation system consists of two parts: BWC, which is the system's administrative and insurance arm, and the Industrial Commission of Ohio (IC), which is the claims adjudicative arm. The IC hears and determines contested workers' compensation claims. The Governor appoints the three members of the commission, one member representing labor, one representing employers and one representing the public sector.

The bureau determines the initial allowance or denial of claim applications, manages claims, pays compensation and medical costs, authorizes and handles lump-sum advancements and settlements, and manages the state insurance fund. It also initiates coverage, determines employers' premium rates and manual classifications, keeps account records, develops actuarial data, collects premiums, and conducts audits.

The bureau's Division of Safety & Hygiene, funded by workers' compensation premiums and assessments, provides safety consultative services at no charge to Ohio employers.

In March 1997, the bureau shifted its medical-management responsibilities to BWC-certified managed care organizations. This program replaced government bureaucracy in favor of the private sector, which now handles the medical management of injured workers' claims. Injured workers now have easier and timelier access to high-quality health care. It provides lower long-term health-care costs, which have resulted in a reduction in worker's compensation premiums for Ohio's businesses.

DEPARTMENT OF YOUTH SERVICES

The Ohio Department of Youth Services (ODYS) is the juvenile corrections systems for the state of Ohio. The department is statutorily mandated to confine felony level offenders, ages 10 through 21, who have been adjudicated and committed by one of Ohio's 88 county juvenile courts.

A Director, appointed by the Governor, administers the Department with the assistance of an Executive Assistant and seven Deputy Directors. The seven Deputy Directors oversee one of the following areas:

- Parole and Community Services
- Institutions
- Legal Services
- Division of Finance and Planning
- Human Resources
- Treatment and Rehabilitation Services
- Chief Inspectors Office

The mission of the Ohio Department of Youth Services is to:

- Enhance public safety by holding youthful offenders accountable and provide opportunities for rehabilitation. Public safety is the product of ODYS and the customers are the citizens of Ohio.

The major methods for producing that product are:

- correctional facility incarceration and services
- parole and supervision
- subsidies and grants to courts and counties

In order to serve ODYS customers more effectively, the department has created an innovative funding program called RECLAIM Ohio. RECLAIM (Reasoned and Equitable Community and Local Alternatives to the Incarceration of Minors). Counties are encouraged to develop and utilize effective local programming options for youth who would otherwise enter a secure ODYS facility. RECLAIM Ohio empowers the local juvenile judges to target funds for these specific needs and funds the operations of ODYS at the State level.

The Department operates eight institutions and one residential treatment center. The population is 91.9 % male youth and 8.1% female youth. The female population is housed at the Scioto Juvenile Correctional Facility in Delaware. Other institutions are located in Circleville, Highland Hills, Massillon, Marion, Loudonville, Franklin Furnace and Perrysville. The Department contracts with one residential treatment facility located in Bainbridge. Security levels in the correctional facilities range from medium security to high security for the most serious offenders.

Once a youth is committed to ODYS, the length of stay is determined by law and based on the felony level of the crime committed. The minimum length of stay for Felony 3, 4 and 5 offenders is six months and the minimum length of stay for Felony 1 and 2 is one year. Certain violent offenses have a minimum stay of 1-3 years. If a firearm was used or brandished, a youth could receive an additional 1-3 year commitment. Some offenses, such as aggravated murder or murder, carry a mandatory sentence to the age of 21.

During fiscal year 2005, there were 1,884 juveniles committed to ODYS. In that same year, the average daily institutional population was 1,752, with the average age of a youth committed being 16.7 years of age. The average length of stay for parole is 9.9 months. The average length of stay for all felony level youth at ODYS for fiscal year 2005 was 10.3 months, and the daily costs for caring for the youth at an institution is $203.73.

Treatment programs are an integral part of a youth's rehabilitation. All youth are assessed for substance abuse problems and receive substance abuse education, substance abuse intervention, and treatment based on their level of abuse/addiction. There are also sex offender's treatment programs, a drug traffickers treatment program, and mental health services. Victim Awareness is a treatment program that is crucial to a youthful offender's rehabilitation. Educational programs include mainstream academic and special education tracks, GED course work, and vocational training programs.

The Department has six regional parole offices, which are responsible for the supervision of the youth once they are released from the institution and placed on parole. Each office is staffed with youth counselors who provide supervision for all 88 counties in Ohio. Substance abuse and sex offender services are available at the regional offices to insure treatment continuity as the offender returns to the community.

MISCELLANEOUS BOARDS, BUREAUS, AND COMMISSIONS

The OHIO LOTTERY COMMISSION is a State Agency that conducts public gaming through offering various games of chance. The Lottery was approved by a voter referendum in May, 1973.

Since 1974, the Lottery has provided more than $16 billion to public education. Annually, they provide 4.5 percent of the funding needed for public education which is an effort shared by local, state and federal governments.

Nine Lottery Commissioners, appointed by the Governor, serve a 3-year term in an advisory capacity. Commissioners represent various demographic and geographic regions of the state. The Executive Director, also appointed by the Governor, serves as Secretary at monthly Commission meetings and is the Chief Executive Officer of this state agency.

The OHIO STATE LIBRARY, founded in 1817, is governed by a five-member five-year term Board appointed by the State Board of Education. This Library Board is organized with a president, vice president and secretary. It names the State Librarian who directs the operations to insure good free library service to every resident including bookmobile service to rural areas, helping school libraries improve their services, establishing new libraries, lending books to state institutions, and doing reference work furnishing information about their libraries.

The PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION OF OHIO (PUCO) is a quasi-judicial body consisting of five full time members appointed by the governor to staggered five-year terms. The PUCO Nominating Council is responsible for making a list of recommended candidates from which the governor chooses appointees to the Commission. Senate confirmation is required. One of the five commissioners is selected by the governor to serve as PUCO Chairman.

The PUCO holds regular public meetings to reach regulatory decisions and develop policies. Local public hearings, presided over either by commissioners or hearing examiners from the PUCO Legal Department, are held around Ohio on a variety of utility issues.

The PUCO:

1. Protects by monitoring and enforcing PUCO rules and state laws against unfair, inadequate and unsafe public utility and transportation services.
2. Resolves disputes either informally between you and the company or through our formal complaint process where only the PUCO can order relief and corrective action. The PUCO resolves disputes between utilities and residential, business, and industrial customers, as well as between competing utilities.
3. Assures availability of adequate, safe and reliable services to all residential, business, and industrial consumers.
4. Provides information about rights and responsibilities as a utility customer and publishes the Apples to Apples cost comparisons for energy services where there are choices.
5. Regulates rates for utility services where there are choices.

To carry out its responsibilities, the PUCO employs a professional staff that includes engineers, economists, attorneys, and safety inspectors. Continually monitoring the activities of utility and transportation companies, the PUCO scrutinizes rate and service matters with the goal of assuring all residential and business customers access to adequate, safe, and reliable utility services at fair prices, while facilitating an environment that provides competitive choices.

The OHIO CONSUMERS' COUNSEL (OCC) was created by the Ohio General Assembly in 1976 as the legal representative for residential utility consumers of Ohio's publicly-owned natural gas, electric, telephone and water companies. The OCC works in cooperation with a nine-member bipartisan Governing Board appointed by the Ohio Attorney General, whose members represent organized labor, family farmers and at-large residential consumers.

The OCC is the residential consumer utility advocate serving as a resource for individuals who have questions and concerns, or would like more information about the services provided by their utility companies. The agency also educates consumers about utility issues and resolves complaints from individuals.

The EXECUTIVE STAFF for the Ohio Consumers' Counsel are responsible for the overall leadership of the agency, as well as coordinating legislative contacts through our state and federal legislative liaisons. The executive staff, in conjunction with input from other departments, is responsible for developing and maintaining the agency's Strategic Plan, to keep it up-to-date with the agency's growth and development.

The COMMUNICATIONS DEPARTMENT is responsible for public relations through media, publications and the agency web site. The outreach & education staff is also housed in communications and is responsible for the development and implementation of the agency's education efforts throughout the State of Ohio.

The OPERATIONS DEPARTMENT is made up of two sections, the Administration Section and the Consumer Response Center. The Administration Section oversees all fiscal and administrative functions of the office including budgeting, purchasing, library services, strategic planning, computer and information management services, docketing services and consultant management. The Human Resources function is handled by staff of the Administration Section and provides payroll processing, recruitment, training and development, orientation and on-going support in personnel matters.

The staff members of the Consumer Response Center answer consumer inquiries, assist in resolving consumer complaints, monitor utility companies for compliance with quality and service standards.

The LEGAL DEPARTMENT is comprised of the Legal Section and the Compliance Section. The Legal Section is responsible for directing the agency's representation of consumer interests by participating in proceedings in both state and federal courts and administrative proceedings on behalf of residential consumers before the Public Utilities Commission, federal regulatory agencies and state and federal courts. In addition, it recommends policies regarding significant issues facing utility regulation. The Compliance Section is responsible for responding to consumer contacts regarding utility services, resolving individual utility problems and identifying issues of concern to residential utility consumers.

The ANALYTICAL SERVICES DEPARTMENT is responsible for conducting technical analysis of utility operations in a variety of proceedings. In addition, some analysts deal with issues concerning energy strategies such as Demand Side Management, and projects such as basic utility usage, costs determinations and economic impact determinations.

Effective April 1, 1984, landmark legislation created the three-member, bi-partisan, six year term, Governor-appointed STATE EMPLOYMENT RELATIONS BOARD (SERB) to establish collective bargaining procedures for public employers and public employees. This eliminates the previous Ferguson Act where strikes by public employees were forbidden.

The CONTROLLING BOARD consists of the Director of Budget and Management or his designee who serves as president, Chairs of the Senate Finance Committee and the House Finance-Appropriations Committee, and one majority and one minority party member from each house appointed by the President of the Senate and the Speaker respectively.

This Board, by at least a majority vote, may authorize the transfer of funds within agencies, or from one to another necessitated by reorganization or abolition, or into new and existing funds, or from rotary to general revenue or other funds; authorize construction, repair, improvements, purchase of any building costing $10,000 or less without competitive bidding but always so as to carry out the intent of the General Assembly.

The STATE EMERGENCY BOARD consists of the Director of Budget and Management (president), the State Auditor, the Attorney General or their designees, the Chairs of the Senate Finance Committee and the House Finance-Appropriations Committee. The duty of this Board is to approve any expenditures for out of state travel by state employees. Money appropriated to the Emergency Board may be transferred by the Controlling Board to state institutions, departments, or commissions as emergency allowances in case of a deficiency in any of the appropriations.

The Constitution created a SINKING FUND COMMISSION consisting of the Governor, Treasurer of State, Auditor of State, Secretary of State and the Attorney General, whose duty it is to administer the Sinking Fund for the retirement of the public debt and supervise the issuance and sale of bonds and the payment thereof.

The state's bonded indebtedness as of June 30, 2005, was: Highway Capital Improvements, $794,500,000; Public Infrastructure Improvements, $1,278,693,897; Natural Resources, $180,260,000; Common Schools Capital Facilities, $2,004,690,000; and Coal Research and Development, $41,435,000.

In addition to the general-obligation bonded debt secured by the full faith and credit of the State of Ohio, as of June 30, 2005, the citizens have approved Constitutional Amendments authorizing revenue bonds. Outstanding bonds under this program are: Mental Health Facilities, $250,485,000; Parks, Recreation, and Natural Resources Capital Improvement Bonds $118,240,000; Common Schools Capital Facilities Bonds, $313,195,000; Higher Education Capital Facilities Bonds, $954,255,000; Cultural & Sports Facilities Bonds, $184,150,000; Public Infrastructure Improvements Bonds, $1,111,758,538 Revenue Bonds, however, are not under the jurisdiction of the Sinking Fund Commission.

There are other special obligation bonds and notes that may be issued by the Ohio Building Authority (OBA). The OBA issues obligations for facilities to house branches and agencies for State government. On June 30, 2005, the outstanding bonds and notes totaled $4,805,947,000.

Since the Constitution states "... debts ... shall never exceed $750,000" for the state, any obligation beyond that requires constitutional amendment approved by majority vote of people.

Taxes on highway use, gasoline, cigarettes, and general revenue appropriations service the indebtedness.

Besides the above state obligations, 250 libraries, 615 school districts, 1,318 townships, 703 villages, 233 cities, 88 counties are committed to billions of dollars of indebtedness. All these obligations have been created by vote of the electorate.

The five bi-partisan members of the TURNPIKE COMMISSION OF OHIO, created in 1949, are appointed by the Governor to an eight-year term and must be qualified electors for at least five years. The director of transportation is an ex-officio member of the Commission. The Commission is authorized to construct, maintain and operate turnpike projects at such locations approved by the governor and in accordance with alignments and design standards approved by the director of transportation and to issue revenue bonds of the state payable solely from revenues, to pay the cost of such projects and to collect tolls. The James W. Shocknessy Turnpike Project No. 1 extends for 241 miles across northern Ohio is now in operation.

Note that the law states: "Turnpike revenue bonds ... do not constitute ... a pledge of the faith and credit of the state ... are not an obligation of this state." The State Auditor may audit the accounts and records once a year without previous notice.

The five-member, bi-partisan, four-year term OHIO BALLOT BOARD, consisting of the Secretary of State as chairman, and Senate and House appointees, prescribe ballot language and explanation for General Assembly proposed constitutional amendments.

Definite regulations and limitations relative to financing of campaigns for nomination or election to public office have been established under the jurisdiction of the five-member, five-year term OHIO ELECTIONS COMMISSION. Four members are appointed by Secretary of State with consent of the Senate by selecting two each from list a of five submitted by two political party central committees. These four appoint the fifth member as chairman. No member shall serve more than one full term.

The OHIO EXPOSITIONS COMMISSION was established in 1961 when the Ohio General Assembly passed legislation creating a new governing body for the Ohio Expo Center. Prior to 1961, the Center had been overseen by the State Department of Agriculture. The Commission maintains and manages state property used for the purpose of conducting at least one fair annually.

The Commission is composed nine members appointed by the Governor plus four ex-officio members; the Agricultural Chair of the Ohio Senate, the Agricultural and Natural Resources Chair of the House, Director of the Department of Development, the Director of the Department of Agriculture, No more than five of the appointed commissioners may be members of the same political party. Expiration of appointed terms is staggered to insure the continuity of the commission at all times. The Commission hires a General Manager to conduct the annual Ohio State Fair and oversee the 175 year-round events which take place at the Ohio Expo Center. Special emphasis is directed toward the promotion of agriculture and development of youth fair activities and programs.

The OHIO SOIL AND WATER CONSERVATION COMMISSION (four for four-year terms appointed by the governor, plus the director of agriculture, dean of the OSU college of agriculture, and director of natural resources) assists in organizing Soil and Water Conservation Districts situated in one or more counties for flood prevention, stream regulations, irrigation, water supply, sewage disposal, erosion or other purposes; conducts election for five supervisors; seeks cooperation of federal government. There are 25 active such districts e.g. Muskingum Watershed, Miami, Maumee, etc.

The Governor, with consent of the Senate, appoints the five-member, six-year term OHIO BUILDING AUTHORITY with the power to purchase, construct, reconstruct, equip, furnish, improve, alter, enlarge, maintain, repair, and operate office buildings and related storage and parking facilities for the use of state agencies on one or more sites within the state. The Authority may also lease to local governments and to the federal government. The Authority may issue bonds payable solely from its own revenue.

The STATE BOARD OF SCHOOL AND COLLEGE REGISTRATION established to protect the citizens of the state from misrepresentations of unscrupulous institutions, issues certificates of registration for such institutions not otherwise provided for by law. It consists of three, five-year term, governor-appointed members, and ex-officio members, State Superintendent of Public Instruction and Chancellor of the Board of Regents.

The six-member, uncompensated, bi-partisan, governor-appointed ETHICS COMMISSION receives or initiates complaints against public employees concerning conflicts of interest, and financial disclosures as required by law.

The uncompensated, 19 member OHIO ARTS COUNCIL, fosters and encourages development of arts and preservation of cultural heritage. Fifteen members are appointed by the governor for five-year terms; two members of different political parties are appointed from each house for two-year terms.

The nine-member bi-partisan OHIO PUBLIC DEFENDER COMMISSION appoints the State Public Defender to provide legal representation for the indigent. The Governor appoints the chairman and four members, and the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court appoints the other four.

The OHIO REHABILITATION SERVICES COMMISSION (RSC) a governor-appointed, seven-member commission with staggered, seven-year terms, is the state agency which provides vocational rehabilitation services leading to employment and independence for Ohioans with disabilities. It is comprised of three bureaus; the Bureau of Vocational Rehabilitation assists people who have physical, mental, and emotional disabilities; the Bureau of Services for the Visually Impaired, provides services to Ohioans who are blind or have a visual disability; and the Bureau of Disability Determination is responsible for determining medical eligibility for Ohio's Social Security Disability Insurance and Supplemental Security Income claims.

The eighteen-member NATIONAL MUSEUM OF AFRO-AMERICAN HISTORY AND CULTURE PLANNING COUNCIL was created to advise the Ohio Historical Society in establishing and operating a museum near Wilberforce University. Sixteen members are appointed by the governor for four-year terms; one member from each house is appointed to serve as a non-voting member.

Each county has a VETERANS SERVICE COMMISSION, providing short-term assistance to needy veterans.

The OHIO DRUG TREATMENT ADVISORY COUNCIL, has 24 members, including representatives from the Departments of Health, Rehabilitation and Correction; Development; Education; Youth Services; Human Services; Mental Health; Attorney General; Bureau of Employment Services; State Board of Pharmacy; Medical Board; Psychology Board; Community Mental Health Board; licensed methadone program; certified drug program; a prosecuting attorney; a sheriff; a municipal chief of police; a judge of municipal or common pleas court; five representing non-governmental interests, organizations or offices (experienced in drug related problems).

INTERSTATE COMPACTS

Ohio has three representatives on the OHIO RIVER VALLEY SANITATION COMMISSION whose duty it is to control and prevent pollution of the river. This Commission is an experiment in government where several states are cooperating and solving a mutual problem by a legalized gentlemen's agreement.

When the federal government proposed to control all streams, the eight states in the 154,800 square mile Ohio River basin were granted permission by Congress to make a treaty or compact (ratified in 1948 and upheld in the U.S. Supreme Court in 1952). This compact sets a pattern for legal interstate agreement at no cost to the federal government. Ohio passed the necessary enabling legislation and paid its prorated share of cost based on 19.1% of the area.

Other Interstate Agreements include the following:

1. INTERSTATE COMPACT FOR THE SUPERVISION OF PAROLEES AND PROBATIONERS (creates cooperative procedures for out- of-state parolees and probationers).
2. INTERSTATE COMPACT TO CONSERVE OIL AND GAS (Promotes conservation of oil through regulation of production and prevention of physical waste).
3. PYMATUNING LAKE (Established a recreation district, provides for the conservation of water and concurrent penal jurisdiction on waters of Pymatuning Lake. Pennsylvania and the U.S. government are included in the compact).
4. INTERSTATE COMPACT ON JUVENILES (Sets up cooperative procedures for out-of-state supervision of juveniles and creates procedures for return of juveniles).
5. INTERSTATE COMPACT ON MENTAL HEALTH (Provides proper treatment and care for mentally ill and mentally deficient of reciprocating state patients).

19. COMPACT ON MOTOR FUELS CONSUMED BY INTERSTATE BUSES (Avoids multiple taxation of motor fuels used by interstate buses).
20. NON-RESIDENT VIOLATOR COMPACT OF 1977 (dealing with motor vehicles).
21. INTERSTATE HIGH-SPEED INTER CITY RAIL PASSENGER NETWORK ADVISORY COUNCIL.
22. MIDWEST INTERSTATE LOW-LEVEL RADIOACTIVE WASTE COMMISSION

Three Commissioners, comprising the BOARD OF UNIFORM STATE LAWS, attend the National Conference on Uniform Laws. Here consideration is given to proposals where uniformity throughout the United States seems feasible and desirable but in which Congress by constitutional limitation may not act. The Ohio commissioners, then, can urge the introduction and enactment of such measures in our General Assembly.

Measures have been enacted, pertaining to: Negotiable Instruments, Warehouse Receipts, Sales, Bills of Lading, Stock Transfers, Partnerships, Limited Partnerships, Fraudulent Conveyances, Proof of Statutes Foreign Depositions, Declaratory Judgments, Fiduciaries, Veterans, Guardianships, Attendance of Out-of-State Witnesses, Narcotic Drugs, Criminal Extradition, Business Records of Evidence, Judicial Notice of Foreign Laws, Official Reports of Evidence, Common Trust Funds, Reciprocal Enforcement of Support, Commercial Codes, Gifts to Minors, Composite Reports as Evidence and Highway Safety.

FEDERAL GRANT-IN-AID became a part of state government structure in 1836 when the federal surplus was returned to states on the basis of Congressional representation. The oldest continuous grant is under the Morrill Act of 1862 for land grant colleges (basis for The Ohio State University).

Various state departments, for hundreds of programs, receive either as direct grants, or requiring matching funds, from the United States Treasury such allotments.

The OHIO VETERANS' HOME, near Sandusky is maintained by the State for the care of disabled Ohio honorably discharged veterans of all wars and certain disabled members of Ohio National Guard or naval militia under the jurisdiction of a seven-member Board of Trustees (five veterans) appointed by the Governor.

The OHIO CIVIL RIGHTS COMMISSION shall prevent any employer, employment agency, labor organization, proprietor of public accommodation, or lending agency from engaging in unlawful discriminatory practices because of race, color, religion, sex, handicap, national origin, ancestry, or age nor shall any person refuse to negotiate for housing or burial plot for the same reasons. Racial discrimination is specifically banned on public construction projects.

The POLICE AND FIREMAN'S DISABILITY FUND for all persons employed by municipalities and townships, is administered by a seven-member board of trustees, including the Auditor of State, Attorney General, a governor appointed municipal officer and two each elected from each service.

- A. State appropriations help to support the Ohio Historical Society (Museum, Archives Building, Library and State Memorials) the Ohioana Library Association and eight veterans organizations in their respective service for the common good.
- B. Ohio still owns about 1500 acres of school land and a few lots of ministerial land of the 780,000 acres originally reserved by the United States Government as "public domain" for the support of "common schools" and religion. The $4,268,779.94 received from the sale of these lands prior to 1917 was part of Ohio's "irreducible debt" on which the state paid 6% interest annually to schools. Money received from coal, gas and oil royalties and rentals on land still owned and invested and the interest also distributed. By direction of the General Assembly, act of Congress, and the 1968 State Constitution Amendment, the State Auditor liquidated this debt and proceeded to sell lands placing return in the School District Deposit Fund for distribution to appropriate school districts.
- C. The Director of Transportation may enter into agreement with another state or the United States relative to the repair or maintenance of toll free bridges crossing state boundary stream. Certain restrictions are set.
- D. Highway Reciprocity. The objective of reciprocity is to make it possible for motor vehicles properly licensed in their home state, or in the state in which they are operated, to move into or through other states without the payment of duplicate fees and taxes. Ohio has two categories of reciprocity on motor vehicles taxes or fees:
 - (1) Reciprocity relative to registration of motor vehicles is automatic if Ohio vehicles are granted equal exemptions in other states. No formal agreement is necessary.
 - (2) Reciprocity relative to public utility licensing of commercial vehicles and other regulations is not automatic. Agreements with other states are negotiated by the Attorney General, Director of Public Safety, and a member of the Public Utility Commission.
- E. The Governor is authorized to enter into agreement with the United States to transfer authority to regulate peaceful uses of atomic energy to the state.
- F. A port authority, regional airport authority or regional transit authority may make contracts with the U.S. government, state governments, governmental agencies, with individuals or corporations; purchase, lease, acquire lands, let contracts, spend money even in adjoining states; issue revenue bonds.
- G. POLITICAL SUBDIVISION means a taxing unit such as a county, municipal corporation, township, school district (except county), - community college, technical institute district, joint vocational school, joint township, hospital district, township police district, conservancy district, health district, fire district, regional transit authority, regional water and sewer district, detention home district, certain combined districts, joint recreation district.

- H. A PUBLIC AGENCY under Ohio law includes the General Assembly, all courts and any department, division, institution, instrumentality, board, commission of the state, county, township, village or city, and the five retirement systems.
- I. LEGAL HOLIDAYS: New Year's Day - Jan. 1, Martin Luther King Day - 3rd Mon. in Jan., Washington-Lincoln Day - 3rd Mon. in Feb., Decoration or Memorial Day - Last Mon. in May, Independence Day - July 4, Labor Day - 1st Mon. in Sept., Columbus Day - 2nd Mon. in Oct., Veterans' Day - Nov. 11th, Thanksgiving Day - 4th Thurs. in Nov., Christmas Day - Dec. 25th and any other day designated by the Governor or President of the United States.
- J. CONTINUITY OF STATE AND LOCAL GOVERNMENT. In the event that an enemy of the United States attack prevents the Governor and his legally designated successors (Lieutenant Governor, President of the Senate, and Speaker of the House), from serving, then the Secretary of State, Treasurer of State, Auditor of State, Attorney General, in that order, shall exercise duties until a new governor is elected. Each state officer is to designate his emergency interim successors until vacancy can be filled in regular manner. Local legislative bodies are authorized to enact measures to provide for emergency interim successors. Elections may be postponed for not more than six months. Emergency temporary locations for seats of government may be established.
- K. PUBLIC EDUCATION in Ohio is the responsibility of two authorities: The State Board of Education, elected by the people, and directing attention primarily to matters through the secondary level; and the Ohio Board of Regents, appointed by the Governor, to be concerned with higher education. Although independent agencies, liaison and a degree of coordination is needed.
- L. Any convicted habitual sex offender shall register with the chief of police or sheriff within 30 days of coming into any county to reside more than that time. Such liability continues for ten years after last release.
- M. Possession, distribution or sale of LSD and drugs having hallucinatory effect is outlawed.

- Q. Ohio is divided into eighteen congressional districts.
- R. For establishments employing at least ten persons, equal pay for equivalent work for men and women is mandatory.
- S. Desecration of the United States or Ohio flag is penalized.

- U. Fine and/or imprisonment may result for persons hampering operations of or failing to obey law enforcement officers, firemen, etc. at fires, disasters or emergencies of any kind. Such areas may be cordoned off.
- V. Regional Planning Commissions may be established.
- W. Teachers may provide programs on a moral, philosophical or patriotic theme.

To help carry on the intricacies of government there are about 300 Boards, Commissions, Task Forces, Councils, Committees, Authorities, either statutory or created by directive, most of them appointed by the governor, functioning either independently or within Departments. The Legislature also has created a number of such agencies. Below are a few that may not be listed in the text:

JUDICIARY

Courts, where justice is administered, constitute the judicial branch of government. Courts cannot create rights. They can merely protect existing rights which litigants have under the Constitution and the laws of the State. Ohio courts are created by law, some directly by the Constitution and others by statute enacted by the General Assembly, as provided in the Constitution. The Ohio Constitution provides that the judicial power of the State is vested in a Supreme Court, Courts of Appeals, Courts of Common Pleas and Probate Courts, and such other courts inferior to the Supreme Court as may from time to time be established by law. There are also County Courts, Municipal Courts, Mayors' Courts, Juvenile Courts, and Domestic Relations Courts.

In these courts disputes between litigants are decided, rights are determined and protected, and law is interpreted and applied.

Justices of the Supreme Court, and judges of the Courts of Appeals and Common Pleas Courts must have been admitted to the practice of law for at least six years prior to assuming office; of Municipal Courts, six years; and County Courts, six years. Judges are nominated by the primary party election and then elected from a non-partisan ballot at general elections. Vacancies are filled by appointment by the governor. The Chief Justice may assign any active or voluntarily retired judge to sit temporarily in such a court. Age limit is 70 at the time the judge assumes office.

Judges preside over courts. They do not make laws; they merely interpret and apply them in deciding cases in accordance with established rules of law. They cannot act arbitrarily, nor can they modify or repeal a law. The courts may, however, find that a statute passed by the legislature does not comply with the state or federal constitution, and therefore it is invalid.

Justices of the Supreme Court, and judges of the Courts of Appeals, Common Pleas, Probate, Juvenile, Municipal and County courts form the Ohio Judicial Conference to encourage uniformity, exchange experiences, and improve administration of justice. The State may make appropriations to compensate employees of the Conference.

The legislative and executive branches, as well as the judicial, should act within the powers prescribed by the Constitution. In a sense, it may be said that both the legislative and executive branches of government are held in check by the judicial branch. This does not mean, however, that the power of the judiciary is unlimited. The courts, too, must act within the powers given them.

THE SUPREME COURT

The Supreme Court of Ohio, the highest court in the State, has general supervision over all courts, meets in Columbus where all cases are heard and decided. Decisions made by the Supreme Court involving the Ohio Constitution or statutes become Ohio law.

The court appoints an Administrative Director to assist the Chief Justice, in prescribing rules governing practice and procedure in all courts and files these with the Clerk of the Senate and Executive Secretary of the House, designates uniform record keeping rules and rules governing admission to practice of law and discipline of persons so admitted. The Chief Justice appoints a Legal Rights Service Administrator.

The Supreme Court consists of a Chief Justice and six Associate Justices. The justices have equal power in deciding cases before the court and in making court rules. Each justice is elected by the electors of the state at large for a term of six years. Two justices are elected for a six-year term at each general state election, that is, in the even numbered years, and the Chief Justice is elected once in six years.

In absence of the Chief Justice the justice with longest total service on that court shall be Acting Chief Justice. The Chief Justice may designate an appellate court judge to substitute for an absent justice.

When a vacancy occurs by reason of death, resignation, or removal, the Governor appoints a justice who serves until his successor is elected and qualified. Such an appointee may be a candidate to succeed himself.

It takes four (a majority) of the justices to constitute a quorum and to render a “decision.”

The term “decision” must not be confused with the term “opinion.” The court’s decision is its judgment, while the court’s opinion is its reason for the judgment.

The Supreme Court has original as well as appellate jurisdiction. Original jurisdiction is the power of the court to hear and determine a case in the first instance, while appellate jurisdiction is the right of the court to hear, on appeal, a case brought to it from a lower court. Cases over which the court has original jurisdiction may be filed directly in the Supreme Court without first being tried in a lower court. These include quo warranto (right of office), mandamus (to compel a public official to perform an act required by law), habeas corpus, prohibition, procedendo, cause on review, admission to practice of law, discipline of lawyers and all matters pertaining to practice of law.

Most cases coming to the Supreme Court are those brought to it for review from lower courts. This does not mean that every case tried in a lower court can be carried to the Supreme Court. Only such cases may be carried up as involve questions raised under the Constitution of this state or of the United States, cases of public or great general interest, cases which were first filed in a Court of Appeals, cases where the decision of one Court of Appeals in Ohio is contrary to that of another Court of Appeals in Ohio upon the same question of law, and cases in which the death penalty has been imposed. Decisions of the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio, Board of Tax Appeals, Environmental Protection Agency, and Power Siting Commission may be appealed.

After a case is properly filed in the Supreme Court, a date is set for hearing when the case is argued before the court by the attorneys. After the hearing is concluded, the justices confer and consider the rights of each party to the lawsuit, and arrive at a decision, guided by established principles of law which govern the facts and issues in a case. When a justice does not concur (that is, agree) with the legal views of the majority, he may express his views by writing what is known as a dissenting opinion.

The decisions and opinions of the Supreme Court are published and bound in volumes which are entitled “Ohio Official Reports.” Prior to 1965, the decisions of the Supreme Court were published in volumes entitled “Ohio State Reports.” All of the Supreme Court merit decisions and merit opinions since 1992 are available online through the court’s World Wide Web site: www.sconet.state.oh.us/ROD.

COURTS OF APPEALS

Ohio is divided into twelve Appellate Districts. Each serves a geographic area that varies from one county (as in the case of three largest counties) to seventeen counties (as in the case of the least populated district). Depending upon the particular district and the volume of business to come before it, each district has between four (the eight county district around Youngstown) and twelve (the Cuyahoga County district) judges. Within each district, any case before the court is decided by a panel of three of the judges. Judges are elected by the electors of each district for a six-year term. Annually they elect a presiding judge and an administrative judge to oversee the operation of their particular court. In multi-county districts, the court itself sits periodically in each of the counties within the district.

The Courts of Appeals decide cases which are brought from the trial courts and from various administrative agencies. If a party to a lawsuit is dissatisfied with a decision rendered in the trial court, or in administrative tribunal, it has an appeal as right to the court of appeals in his district or, in some cases involving governmental actions, to the Tenth District Court of Appeals in Franklin County. The court of appeals has the ability to affirm, reverse or modify the judgment of a lower court.

Once a decision is made by a court of appeals, it is considered to be binding precedent on the lower courts within that district unless reversed by the Supreme Court. If two courts of appeals in this state render conflicting decision on the same point of law, the trial court must follow the decision of its own court of appeals. In the event of such conflict, however, the judges of the court of appeals of the last decided case may certify the record of that case to the Supreme Court for review and final determination. With modernization and computerization of the court of appeals, every case issued by a court of appeals is publicly and easily available for review.

JURIES

In order to understand better the functioning of the lower courts it is necessary to discuss the "jury."

There are two kinds of juries - Grand and Petit. The Grand Jury deals with criminal matters only. The Petit Jury deals with both criminal and civil matters. The Grand Jury investigates cases, while the Petit Jury tries cases. The Grand Jury accuses without finding the accused guilty; the Petit Jury has nothing to do with accusation, but determines the guilt or innocence of the accused in a criminal case.

Jurors, both Grand and Petit, are selected in the following manner:

Every year the Jury Commission, two persons appointed by the Common Pleas Court in that county, makes up a list of voters selected as qualified for jury service. The Jury Commissioners then write the names of these persons on separate pieces of paper, uniform in size, quality and color, and deposits the slips in the jury wheel. The wheel is locked and remains locked unless the Court orders it to be opened for the purpose of placing new names into it or drawing names out. The wheel is so constructed that by turning it, the slips of paper are thoroughly mixed and the names are concealed until withdrawn.

Automatic data processing equipment may also be used by the jury commissioners in the selection of jurors. The equipment must be kept securely locked when not in use, and must mix the data processing punch card ballots thoroughly without exposing them. Ballots are selected according to a key number system. When the names are to be drawn, the Jury Commissioners, on order of the Courts and in the presence of the Sheriff, turns the jury wheel, or operates the data processing equipment, and draws out the Grand and Petit Jurors. There may be more than one jury draw per year as ordered by the court.

The Grand Jury is composed of nine jurors. The law gives the Common Pleas Court the right to select anyone whom it sees fit to serve as foreman. Usually the person so appointed is one of prominence and has the confidence of the community.

The proceedings of the Grand Jury are secret. In fact, they are so secret that not even the Prosecuting Attorney is permitted to be present when the members of the jury express their views or vote whether to indict. The only time the Prosecuting Attorney is permitted to be in the Grand Jury room is when he questions witnesses, or otherwise directs the investigation. Within 60 days, the Grand Jury alone determines what action is to be taken.

When at least seven of the nine jurors agree to formally accuse someone of a crime, they return an indictment, which is also known as a “true bill;” otherwise they return what is known as a “no bill.”

The Grand Jury must visit the county jail four times during each year and examine its management, condition, discipline and treatment of prisoners, and reports to the court in writing whether the rules prescribed by the court for the conduct of the jail are being observed.

The Petit Jury is the trial jury, composed of twelve electors in criminal felony cases, eight electors in criminal misdemeanor cases and any number of electors up to eight in civil cases. These people are selected from a jury wheel or automatic processing equipment in a similar manner in which the Grand Jury is selected. The compensation of each juror is fixed by the board of county commissioners and cannot exceed $40.00 per day. Jurors can be excused from serving for the following reasons:

- Juror will be absent from the county on the day of trial.
- The interests of the public or the juror will be injured by the juror’s attendance at the trial.
- The Juror is physically unable to serve.
- The juror’s spouse or near relative has recently died or is dangerously ill.
- The juror has been called for jury duty during the same jury year.
- The juror is a cloistered member of a religious organization.

Where, in the opinion of the presiding judge, a trial is likely to be prolonged, one or more alternate Jurors, up to six, may be selected at the same time to enable them to take the place of any juror who may during the course of the trial die, become incapacitated, or disqualified.

In empaneling a jury, the trial judge and the lawyers for each side have the right to question prospective jurors to determine whether they will be fair and impartial to both sides, and may excuse them from serving as jurors on a particular case.

As previously stated a Petit Jury tries only questions of fact, while questions of law are determined by the trial judge. After all the testimony has been introduced and the arguments of the lawyers are completed, and before the jury retires to the jury room to arrive at a verdict, the trial judge instructs them on the law applicable to the case. This is known as the Court’s Charge to the Jury. Its purpose is to enable them to decide the facts in accordance with the law.

When they retire to the jury room, they elect as foreman one of their number, who presides over the deliberations, which are secret. In deciding upon a verdict, the jury must weigh all the evidence in the light of the law given to them by the court. It is the duty of the jury to try to find the truth and to base the verdict upon it.

In a civil case, it is sufficient if 3/4 or more members of the jury agree upon a verdict, but in a criminal case, all jurors must unanimously agree before a verdict of guilty may be obtained. If the required number of jurors fails to agree on a verdict, the jury reports this to the judge. If the judge is satisfied that there is no probability of agreement, the jury will be discharged and a mistrial declared. In such event, the case must be tried over again before a new jury.

When, however, a verdict by the required number of jurors is reached, the jury returns to the trial room and the foreman announces this to the Court. He hands the signed verdict to the Clerk, who reads it and inquires of the jury (in a civil case) whether it is the verdict of 3/4 or more of their number, or (in a criminal case) whether it is the verdict of all of them. If the answer is in the affirmative, the verdict is accepted as the verdict of the jury. Counsel for either side may then request that the jury be polled. This means that each juror is asked separately whether or not the verdict as returned is correct. In both civil and criminal cases, each concurring juror must sign the written verdict.

A verdict is not effective until a judgment based upon it is rendered. A verdict represents the jury's findings of facts only. The judgment represents the Court's legal conclusions derived from the facts as found by the jury. Both are necessary for a final determination of the case. It is for this reason that a verdict, to be effective, must be followed by a judgment of the Court as pronounced by the judge.

COURTS OF COMMON PLEAS AND TRIAL PROCEDURES

Each one of the eighty-eight counties in Ohio has, at its county seat, a court known as the Court of Common Pleas. Some of these courts have only one judge, others have more, according to the size and needs of the county's population. The court is created by the Constitution but the number of judges is prescribed by the Legislature. These judges are elected for a six-year term. Regardless of the number of judges in this court, it is regarded as one court. In each county there must be a Probate Division. In larger counties a Court of Domestic Relations is established as a branch. The Common Pleas Court has original jurisdiction to hear civil cases of $15,000 and above.

The Court of Common Pleas is known as a trial Court, as distinguished from an appellate Court, although it acts as a Court of Appeals over matters arising from the Department of State Personnel, the Industrial Commission, the County Commissioners, and other inferior boards and tribunals.

There are two types of cases in the Court of Common Pleas - Civil and Criminal. In the civil area, two classes of cases should be tried, cases in law and cases in equity. Law cases may be tried before a judge and jury, while equity cases are tried only before a judge. Criminal cases are tried before a judge and jury, a judge alone, or a three-judge panel without a jury at the election of the defendant if the charge is aggravated murder with a death penalty specification and the defendant waives a jury. In a civil action, the litigants (parties) may settle their differences without going to trial.

In civil cases a law suit is started when the party suing, called the "Plaintiff," files with the Clerk of the Common Pleas Court a legal paper called a "Complaint" in which he sets up his claim against the party being sued, the "Defendant," and a "Precipe" demanding that summons be issued.

After the complaint is filed, the Clerk serves upon the defendant by mailing a summons to the defendant by certified mail, return receipt requested. If personal service is requested by the plaintiff's attorney the clerk's office sends a copy of it, together with a summons, to the Sheriff's office for service upon the defendant. A Deputy Sheriff then serves the summons upon the defendant and also provides a copy of the plaintiff's complaint. In this manner, the defendant is notified of the lawsuit and complaint. The defendant is given a specified period of time, by law, within which to file an answer, setting up a defense, if any. After the answer is filed and discovery is completed, the plaintiff either does or does not file a reply. As soon as these papers have been filed, and discovery is completed, the case is ready for trial but must wait its turn. Cases are usually tried in the order in which they are filed, but for special reasons may sometimes be taken out of regular order and advanced for early hearing or delayed for later hearing.

All trials are conducted in public. This is true of both civil and criminal cases. Criminal cases must be tried within a time limit set by law.

Each party to the lawsuit has the right to be in the courtroom during the trial. Witnesses are permitted to remain in the courtroom during the trial unless a party moves for a "separation of the witnesses." This means that witnesses must remain outside the courtroom until called to testify. In this way witnesses do not hear and cannot be influenced by what other witnesses have to say.

At the beginning of the trial, the attorney for the plaintiff makes an "opening statement" which explains the nature of the client's case and what evidence will be introduced in support of it. Then the attorney for the defendant makes an opening statement, explaining the nature of the client's defense and what evidence will be introduced in its support.

After these preliminaries, the examination of the witnesses commences. Plaintiff's witnesses testify first. Both plaintiff and defendant may be witnesses in their own behalf. Witnesses testify by answering questions put to them by the lawyers in the case. Before testifying, they take a solemn oath to tell "the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth." If a witness testifies falsely, a crime known as perjury is committed. Such a witness not only commits perjury, but also commits Contempt of Court, which may be penalized by the trial judge.

When a lawyer questions a witness summoned on behalf of a client, the questioning is called "direct examination." Questioning a witness who has testified for the opponent is called "cross-examination." When the direct examination is finished, the cross-examination commences. Testimony cannot include "hearsay" but must be limited to what a witness has actually personally seen or heard, so long as what they heard is not "hearsay."

When the examination and cross-examination of witnesses are completed, the lawyers deliver their closing arguments, in which they sum up and interpret the evidence introduced. These are followed by the court's charge to the jury (if the case was tried before a jury). This charge is delivered orally, but if either party to the lawsuit, before the final arguments, requests that the charge be given in writing, it is so given.

In criminal cases, the same general procedure is followed. When a person is indicted for the commission of a felony, a crime punishable by imprisonment in the State Prison or by death, the person is arrested and is served with a copy of the indictment. After the arrest, he is entitled to the services of a lawyer. If the defendant is indigent, that is to say, if his income and property is less than the state established minimum, the court must appoint a lawyer if the possible penalty could be jail or imprisonment. If it is desired to appeal from the judgment of the trial court, the person is also entitled to a lawyer. The accused is later brought into court, where the indictment is read and he is asked whether he pleads “guilty” or “not guilty.” This is known as an Arraignment. An arraignment is held in accordance with the Ohio Constitution to inform the accused of the nature of the crime and to provide an opportunity to declare guilt or innocence in open court.

If the plea is guilty, nothing remains but to pass sentence. Pleas of guilty are, however, accepted by the courts with caution. The accused are fully apprised by the court of their rights and only after the judge is fully satisfied that the plea of guilty is made willingly and with full knowledge and appreciation of the nature and consequences of such a plea, is such a plea accepted. If the plea is not guilty, the person is entitled to a trial. Under the Constitution, a person awaiting trial may be “bailable” by sufficient sureties, except for capital offenses where the proof is evident, or the presumption great. Excessive bail shall not be required. A convicted person shall be sentenced or placed on probation within 15 days after the judge receives a completed probation report.

Under the Constitution the accused is entitled to a trial by a fair and impartial jury. If he files with the Court an affidavit claiming that such a jury cannot be obtained in the county where the crime was committed (where under the law he must ordinarily be tried), and if the Court is satisfied, that such jury cannot in fact be obtained in that county, the judge may order that the accused be tried in some other county. This is known as a change in venue.

Under the Constitution the accused has the right to refuse to testify. Formerly the Ohio Constitution permitted the prosecutor to comment on the failure of the accused to testify, however, the United States Supreme Court has now held that this is not allowed under the United States Constitution.

Before sentence is passed, the accused is asked by the trial judge if he has anything he wishes to say to the court and to justify why sentence should not be imposed. If he fails to show a legal reason why sentence should not be imposed, sentence is pronounced according to law.

Most courts of common pleas have specialized divisions created by statute to decide cases involving juveniles, the administration of estates, and domestic relations matters. Only seven courts of common pleas have no specialized divisions: Adams, Harrison, Henry, Morgan, Morrow, Noble, and Wyandot counties.

Common pleas judges are elected to a six-year term on a non-partisan ballot. A person must be an attorney with at least six years experience in the practice of law to be elected or appointed to the court.

The Probate Division has jurisdiction in probate and testamentary matters such as estates of persons who have died, the appointment of administrators and guardians, the settlement of the accounts and sale of lands of executors, the issuance of marriage licenses, the adjudication and commitment of the mentally ill, adoptions and such other jurisdiction in any county as may be provided by law.

The Courts of Common Pleas Juvenile Division are, by law, given jurisdiction over dependent, neglected, abused, delinquent, unruly children and juvenile traffic offenders.

The Juvenile Court has jurisdiction over such children under eighteen years of age, as well as their parents, guardians, or other persons who are responsible for their delinquency, neglect, abuse, unruliness, or dependency.

Any child who violates the law which would be a crime if committed by an adult is classed as a “delinquent child” except for traffic violations. Then the child is a “juvenile traffic offender.” The child is designated as an “unruly child,” if habitually disobedient, truant from home or school, tries to marry without consent, violates laws applicable only to a child, works illegally or associates with undesirable persons. A child abandoned, or lacking proper parental or custodial care including subsistence, education, medical care, or special care necessitated by a mental condition is designated a “neglected child.” The Juvenile Court may step in and do what it considers best for the welfare of such children.

When a complaint is made or filed against a minor or against those who neglect, abuse, or contribute to the delinquency of a minor, in many counties a probation officer is assigned to the case after it is heard. If the minor and his parents are indigent, counsel may be assigned. When the case is heard, the prosecuting attorney, or their assistant, presents all the facts before the judge. After such hearing, the court may permit the child to remain with his parents or guardians, but under the supervision of a probation officer. The Court may also remove the child from the parents and place in a foster home, or it may commit the child to any proper institution within the county or to the Ohio Department of Youth Services.

Domestic relations courts have jurisdiction over all proceedings involving divorce or dissolution of marriages, annulment, legal separation, spousal support, and allocation of parental rights and responsibilities for the care of children.

MUNICIPAL COURTS

Municipal Courts have been established by the legislature in 117 cities with elected six-year term judges. The number of judges is determined by population, one judge for first 100,000 and an additional judge for each 70,000 or part thereof. In a municipal court having two judges, the judge whose term next expires serves as Presiding Judge. In courts with three or more judges, the Presiding Judge is selected by the judges of the court. When population exceeds 100,000 a Clerk must be elected. The Municipal Court has criminal jurisdiction over all misdemeanors. The court may conduct preliminary hearings of those accused of committing a felony within the municipality. If, in the opinion of the judge, as a result of the evidence presented, the accused may be guilty of the felony with which he is charged, the judge binds him over to the Grand Jury. In 55 counties the jurisdiction of the Municipal Court extends to the entire county.

A Municipal Court has original jurisdiction only in those civil cases where amount claimed does not exceed $15,000.

Each Municipal and County Court has a Small Claims Division conducted by a judge or court-appointed referee (attorney) with money recovery jurisdiction only, not to exceed $3,000.

The position of Environmental Judge was established by the 119th General Assembly as a division of the Franklin County Municipal Court effective January 8, 1992. This court handles civil and criminal cases that deal with the enforcement of any local building, housing, air pollution, sanitation, health, fire, zoning or safety code, ordinance or regulation. It generally deals with those things that give a neighborhood an appearance of neatness, order, and proper use.

In the Municipal Court, cases are tried before a judge or if demanded in writing, before a judge and jury. The procedure in this court is similar to that of the Common Pleas Court, except in all civil cases the jury consists of eight persons unless a fewer number is requested. In all criminal cases the jury consists of eight members.

COURT OF CLAIMS

The Court of Claims, composed of active and retired judges assigned by the Chief Justice from existing courts, sits in Franklin County and has exclusive jurisdiction to hear claims against the state. It also administers victims of crime compensation cases.

COUNTY COURT

A County Court was created in each county, effective January 1, 1958, in which the territorial jurisdiction of the municipal court is not co-extensive with the boundaries of the county. This court has jurisdiction throughout a county of all territory not under a municipal court. It is now a court of record.

This court has jurisdiction in motor vehicle violations, other misdemeanors and all other actions in which justice of the peace courts previously had jurisdiction. Justice of the Peace Courts ceased to exist as of the above date. This court has original jurisdiction with the Common Pleas Court in all civil cases in which the amount to be recovered does not exceed $3,000.

The number of judges in each County Court district is determined by population (one if less than 30,000; two if less than 60,000; three if less than 90,000; four if less than 120,000; five if less than 150,000; eight if less than 450,000; if more than 450,000, twelve).

In counties having more than one County Court Judge, the Court of Common Pleas may divide the County Court district into areas and designate the judge. Court jurisdiction is limited to causes of action arising only in his area except under certain situations. These judges, attorneys with six years of experience, are elected for six-year terms.

COUNTY GOVERNMENT

As the national government is divided into fifty states, the government of the state of Ohio is divided into eighty-eight counties. Each county is a definite limited territorial part of the State with a government of its own centered in the county seat where the county courthouse is located. The courthouse is the office building for the county and the home of the local judicial system.

Although county government touches the individual citizen more frequently and more closely, the average citizen has little knowledge about its operation.

The county as a political unit has a long history. In a substantially similar form, it functioned in England from earliest days. All fifty states are divided into counties although Alaska designates them as boroughs and Louisiana designates them as parishes. The Ordinance of 1787 directed the Governor of the Northwest Territory to lay out the parts of the district which were clear of Indian titles into counties and townships, subject to later alterations to be made by the Legislature. Counties existed in Ohio before the state itself. The first counties in the state were Adams, Belmont, Clermont, Fairfield, Hamilton, Jefferson, Ross, Trumbull and Washington.

The county is an arm of the state for the purpose of political organization for local administration. It must administer the laws passed by the Legislature. Major sources of revenue to counties include voted and un-voted property taxes and permissive taxes including a county sales and use tax, real estate transfer tax, motor vehicle tax, and a hotel and motel tax. Most county property taxes are voted on by the electorate for certain specific services such as for protection of children, senior citizens services, assistance to individuals with mental retardation or developmental disabilities, and drug addiction services and programs. Permissive sales and use taxes are levied up to a rate of 1.5% in addition of the state rate of 5.5% and are the primary source of general operational support for counties. A permissive motor vehicle license tax may be added "on-top-of" the state $20 fee and is used exclusively to build and maintain roads and bridges. The permissive hotel and motel tax is used by convention and visitors bureaus to promote tourism and similar activities.

The county is a unit of government. The electorate may vote to change the form of government to either an alternative form of county government or to a charter government. Only Summit County has taken advantage of this option when it adopted a charter in 1979. Summit County is governed by an eleven-member county council and a county elected executive. Of the eleven members of the county council, eight are elected by district and three at large.

Two Commissioners, Prosecuting Attorney, Clerk of Courts, Sheriff, Recorder, Treasurer, Engineer and Coroner are elected to four-year terms in presidential election years. The third Commissioner and the County Auditor are elected to four-year terms in the alternate even numbered years which coincide with election of officials of the Governor. Judges have six-year terms.

Vacancies in judicial posts are filled by the governor, while with the other elective offices, the county central committee of the political party of that replaced official makes the appointment until the next regular election. The Board of County Commissioners appoints replacement of an independent and may appoint an acting interim officer.

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS

County Commissioners are three in number, elected for a four-year term, two in same year as the President and the other in the year of the Governor's election. Counties may have a County Administrator. These principal executive officers of the county form the County Board of Commissioners which acts as the business representative of the county and may be called its guardian in the sense that it is responsible for financial matters, making all contracts and transacting business generally. The Board manages and controls county property and corporate business, exercises financial rights, makes police regulations and has full charge of all county affairs except those specifically given to other officers. County Commissioners serve as the taxing authority of the county and must adopt the county budget and allocate monies among other county elected officials and other county departments. The County Auditor is the Secretary of the Board, but if necessary, a "clerk" may be appointed to keep full records of all transactions. A majority of the Board constitute a quorum. Fifty regular sessions are required annually.

As a general rule, the County Commissioners have authority to do whatever the county might do if it were capable of rational action having in mind that the powers of the county are only such powers of the State as are delegated by the State to the county. The County Commissioners have applied powers to carry out the general purposes of county organization and local government. They can contract for the erection of any buildings for the county's use, such as the courthouse, county infirmary, children's home, jail, sanatorium, alcohol treatment and control center, fairgrounds, memorial building, stadiums and any other county institution, and after the buildings are erected, they have exclusive charge and control of their operation. They have exclusive control of the county highways and ditches and of the proper sanitary measures to safeguard the health of the people of their county. The Commissioners are responsible for the operation of the County Department of Human Services and the implementation of welfare reform, they are also the front line in collecting child support and in protecting abused and neglected children. They may establish a County Public Defender Commission. They may maintain a zoo, create a regional airport authority, appoint a transit board, hospital board, establish sewer districts and sub districts, technical institutes, help support symphony, choral and educational lecture associates and own transit systems.

COUNTY AUDITOR

The County Auditor is entrusted with important duties and charged with heavy responsibilities as the fiscal officer of the county and the agent of the people. The Auditor is required to keep an accurate account current with the Treasurer of the county, showing all monies paid into the treasury, the amount thereof, the time when, by whom, from what source and to what funds paid. Warrants must be issued on the Treasurer for all monies payable from the county treasury, but a warrant can not be issued for the payment of any claim against the county, unless allowed by the Commissioners, except where the amount due is fixed by law, or is allowed by an officer or tribunal authorized by law to do so. The warrants must state the name of the party entitled to receive the money, upon what account and upon what allowance and a record must be kept showing the number, date, amount, in whose favor, for what purpose and to what fund. In other words, except in very few cases, no public money can legally get into or out of the county treasury without the Auditor's approval. No unit of county can authorize the expenditure of funds for any purpose without having a certification of the county auditor stating the funds are on deposit in the county treasury or in the process of collection. The Auditor is, in effect, the watchdog of all county funds.

An important duty of the Auditor is to appraise real estate for tax purposes, maintain real estate records, keep records of lands and buildings, types of buildings, sizes of lots, keep records of new buildings, remodeled buildings, destroyed buildings, types of buildings, sizes of lots, and records of real estate tax lists and transfers. The Auditor receives returns on classified property, distributes estate tax, computes all real estate tax accounts, distributes all special assessments, and makes out payrolls for county employees. The Auditor is the Clerk of the Board of County Commissioners, of the County Building Commission, Budget Commission, Board of Revision, Sealer of Weights and Measures, and the Chief Administrator of the Data Processing Board.

The County Auditor is compensated by a salary based upon the population of the County. All fees, costs, etc. fixed by Statute must, therefore, be handled as public money and turned into the treasury.

In as much as the County Auditor, although not actual custodian of the money belonging to the county, has the control of such money fixed by statute, the office must work cooperatively and harmoniously with the County Treasurer. It can readily be observed that the offices of County Auditor and County Treasurer, as the Legislature intended, should operate as a check and balance on each other.

PROSECUTING ATTORNEY

The Prosecuting Attorney of the county represents the state in all legal matters in which the state is concerned that arise in that county, including representing the registrar in motor-vehicle point system violations. Such matters are principally of a criminal nature, since crime is prosecuted in the name of the state, not in the name of the county. Since there are no Statutes directing the use of this power, the Prosecuting Attorney has broad powers of investigation. He/she presents all cases of probable crime to the Grand Jury and if such "presentment" results in indictment, it is his/her duty to proceed promptly to prosecute the defendants in the Court of Common Pleas.

Among the civil duties, the prosecuting attorney acts as legal advisor to all county and township officers and acts as counsel in the case of a suit for or against such officer. When lands on which the taxes have become delinquent are certified to the office for collection, it is the duty to follow the statutory course and attempt such collection. The Prosecuting Attorney represents the Board of Elections, Board of Health and all school boards in the townships and villages. It is his/her duty to bring action if satisfied that public money is about to be misapplied, withdrawn, or withheld from the county treasury and to restrain the completion of a contract on behalf of the county if it has been procured by fraud or corruption. This result is a representation of over 100 separate units of county government.

The Prosecuting Attorney is a member of the County Budget Commission, and has the power to appoint whatever assistants deemed necessary to handle criminal and civil matters arising in the office. Salary is based on the population of the county.

SHERIFF

The Sheriff is the chief law-enforcement officer of the county and directly represents the sovereignty of the State. The Sheriff and the mayors of the municipalities in his county are representatives of the governor in the enforcement of the laws. The Sheriff jurisdiction is coextensive, including all municipalities and townships. He/she may appoint one or more Deputy Sheriffs in accordance with the volume of work and must keep the office at the county seat.

The duties of the Sheriff deal with criminal and civil matters. In criminal matters it is the Sheriff's duty to preserve the public peace within the territorial limits of the county and to cause persons guilty of such breach of peace to appear in the proper court in answer to such charges. He/she is charged with the safekeeping of the county jail and the custody of the prisoners. The Sheriff must defend it against all rioters and for this or any other purpose in the execution of his duties, and may command inhabitants of the county to help him. Further, the Sheriff is charged with keeping all moneys collected in the process of the administration of justice and must account for the same at any time designated by the court. The Sheriff serves all summons for parties in law suits and other processes, such as levying of writs of attachments, executions, etc., makes arrests in both civil and criminal actions, summons the grand jury and trial juries, has custody of the jurors during a trial, conducts sale of real estate and other property under the order of the court.

The Sheriff is responsible to the County Commissioners for the faithful performance of all duties of the office and is liable civilly. In the case of temporary inability to serve, the court of common pleas or one of its judges appoints a suitable person.

COUNTY RECORDER

The County Recorder makes a complete record of deeds and other legal instruments authorized by law such as powers of attorney, records of mortgages, of plats and maps, and of leases and land contracts. In fact, any paper or writing of which a permanent record is desired may be recorded. The office may record veterans' discharge papers, mechanics liens, federal tax liens, insurance agents' certificates, chattel mortgages, certification of the Clerk of Court for appearance bonds in criminal cases. Fees are charged for these services. The County Recorder serves on the Data Processing Board.

COUNTY TREASURER

The County Treasurer is the officer in charge of the money belonging to the county and is charged with the annual collection and custody of this public money. The Auditor furnishes the Treasurer with full information as to the amounts to be collected from each person by means of records known as "General Duplicates" or "Special Duplicates." The Treasurer may appoint deputies to serve as agents, who serve at his/her pleasure and may be required to execute a bond in his/her favor.

The Ohio Revised Code requires that all county obligations and employee compensation be paid by warrant of the County Auditor. Such warrants are returned to the County Treasurer by the public depository serving as a warrant clearance account. The Treasurer issues a treasurer's check to the depository. Each official acts as a check and balance for the other.

The Treasurer must make a daily statement to the Auditor showing the amount of taxes received and credited to the various funds, total amounts paid out and the balance in the treasury. The Treasurer must close the books at the end of each semi-annual collection of taxes and make a statement to the Auditor. This statement shows the amount paid to each taxing district and to the state. The Treasurer can assess penalties on the tax duplicates for nonpayment; if the penalties remain unpaid, the land is subject to foreclosure or forfeit to the State. In the case of personal tax delinquencies, the Treasurer can enforce collection through the Common Pleas Court.

The Treasurer is the investment officer for all county funds, and serves on the Budget Commission, Board of Revision, the Data Processing Board, and Microfilming Board.

CLERK OF COURTS

The Clerk of the Common Pleas Court has complete charge of the records of all lawsuits arising in that court. As previously described, in order to commence a lawsuit, a Petition must be filed with the Clerk of Courts, and a "summons" will be issued by the Clerk. The Clerk must make a complete and permanent record of every case filed in the court and must also keep proper indexes showing the plaintiff and defendant in alphabetical order. The clerk is charged with the safekeeping of all papers delivered to the office in every action or proceeding. This aids in preserving the rights of litigants and also aids in preserving title to real estate.

Under special statutes the Clerk is responsible for the issuing of certain licenses and also for the recording and transferring certificates of title for automobiles and other chattels which may require a bill of sale, and the collection of sales and use taxes on automobiles.

COUNTY ENGINEER

The County Engineer, a registered professional engineer and licensed surveyor, has charge of the construction, maintenance, and repair of all bridges and highways within the county which are under the jurisdiction of the County Commissioners. The County Engineer prepares tax maps for the County Auditor.

CORONER

The Coroner's duty is to investigate all violent deaths whether accidental or intentional. Most of the work is determining the cause of death in case of murder or manslaughter, or of any person not attended by a physician; makes a record of findings and files this with the Clerk of Courts.

The Coroner may, under certain circumstances, act as sheriff and, in the case of extended illness or absence of two commissioners, may serve as an acting County Commissioner if needed to establish a quorum and conduct business.

COUNTY BUDGET COMMISSION

The County Budget Commission consists of the County Auditor, the County Treasurer, and the Prosecuting Attorney. The Commission meets each year on the first Monday in August at the office of the Auditor, who is its secretary. One of the other members is elected chairman of the Commission. Its principal duties are to adjust rates of taxation and fix the amount of taxes to be levied in each subdivision in the county such as cities, townships, and school districts. Such subdivisions on or before July 15th each year are required to adopt a tax budget for the next succeeding fiscal year, and submit the same to the County Auditor. Their budgets are laid before the County Budget Commission, together with such other information that the Commission may require. The Budget Commission then determines and certifies to each subdivision, the estimated unencumbered balances and receipts of each fund of the subdivision, and if a tax is to be levied for such fund, the estimated revenue to be derived therefrom, the rate of tax levy therefore and the total appropriations that may be made therefrom. All actions of the Commission may be appealed to The Board of Tax Appeals. By petition and approval of the electorate, a county may have two additional members elected to the commission.

Other Boards include Board of Revision (Auditor, Treasurer, and the chair of the County Commission) who hears complaints as to value of real estate for tax purposes; Microfilming Board (Treasurer, Auditor, Common Pleas Court Clerk, Recorder, County Commissioner representative); Data Processing Board (Same); Local Cluster for Services to Youth.

BOARD OF ELECTIONS

The Secretary of State is the chief election officer of the State and appoints all members of Boards of Elections in the manner provided by law and is their adviser in all matters having to do with the conduct of elections. Upon the recommendation of the respective party executive committees, the Secretary of State appoints two members from each party to the Board of Elections. This four member, bi-partisan Board selects one of its members as Chairman, and someone other than a member and of another political party as Director.

The Board of Elections provides booths and all types of voting equipment including ballot boxes, books, maps, and all other papers and forms in connection with elections; shall provide for the registration of electors, count the votes and perform all other duties in connection with elections. They must designate two assistant clerks, one from each party, to deliver to and collect ballots from qualified disabled electors in private and public institutions. They shall divide each political subdivision into precincts and appoint four competent persons as judges and clerks who shall constitute the election officers of each precinct. The judges and clerks shall be appointed in equal numbers and from between the two major political parties, and have charge of the polling places. In some precincts only two judges are appointed.

BOARD OF HEALTH

The Mayors of the villages and President of the Board of Township Trustees organize the Board of Health. This Board safeguards health of the people, and pupils in local schools. This Board takes steps to prevent epidemics of disease by assuring the purity of the water supply and taking whatever measures necessary to preserve the general health of the community. A Health Commissioner, nurses and such other help as may be needed, may be hired.

COUNTY EDUCATIONAL SERVICE CENTER

The County Educational Service Center Governing Board is a legal entity and an involuntary division of the state, created by law, exercising only those powers legally delegated to it to administer the public schools within the county exclusive of those in a city or exempted village school district. The Board employs the superintendent and other supervisory personnel, supervises the local school districts and may operate special education classes.

The Boards consists of five members elected for four-year terms on a non-partisan ballot in odd numbered years.

PUBLIC LIBRARIES

Public libraries in Ohio are supported primarily by revenue from the state personal income tax, distributed to them through the Library and Local Government Support Fund. The county may allocate as needed, but not to exceed one mill, for the county free library whose six-member bi-partisan board of trustees is appointed by the court of common pleas. Consequently, free library service is available to all residents of the county. At present there are association, county district, county, joint school district, municipal, school district and township libraries, as well as college or university libraries giving community service with a difference in controlling boards.

MISCELLANY

One community in each county is the County Seat. The Court of Appeals for the District in which the county is located must sit in the county seat at least once during each term of the court.

Indebtedness of a county is limited in accordance with a tax list.

Each county officer or department head shall file with the clerk of the Board of County Commissioners and County Auditor an annual inventory of county property.

County Courts, Court of Common Pleas, as well as the Grand Jury, have been discussed under "The Judicial" on preceding pages.

Commissioners must establish a County Human Services Department, with a County Human Services Advisory Board to administer public assistance and social service programs. Services also include general relief, emergency assistance, social services, Medicaid, and food stamp program. Employable persons must register for and accept appropriate available employment.

In cooperation with the State Commissioner of Mental Hygiene, each county or combination of counties of at least fifty thousand population has a four year staggered term non-compensated Mental Health and Retardation Board of at least nine members to service the mentally ill, retarded and emotionally disturbed.

A seven-member four-year staggered term non-compensated Board of Mental Retardation provides schooling, training centers, workshops and clinics for the trainable mentally retarded.

Counties also appoint special purpose boards that deal with specific problems. The Board of Mental Retardation and Developmental Disabilities (MRDD) provides school programs for youth and employment training programs for adults with developmental disabilities. An Alcohol, Drug and Mental Health Services Board coordinates programs of counseling and treatment for persons with mental disorders or individuals experiencing alcohol or drug addiction. Some counties have a separate Children Services Board to protect abused or neglected children and who coordinate foster and adoption services. In counties that do not have a Children Services Board, these functions are performed by the Department of Human services.

Other Boards and Commissions may be established as the need arises.

TOWNSHIPS

Just as the state is divided into counties, the counties are divided into Townships for local government purposes. The statutes state that a township is a “body politic and corporate, for the purpose of enjoying and exercising the rights and privileges conferred upon it by law.” It is a territorial and political subdivision of the State, established exclusively for the public purposes connected with the local administration of government. The principal officers of a township are three Township Trustees and a Clerk, elected for four year terms, Police, Constable and possibly an appointed Administrator. The township has the right to tax and is called a “taxing district.” One of its primary functions is to act as an instrumentality of the Legislature to raise taxes for public purposes and to effect its just and proper distribution among those for whom it was intended.

Township Trustees have virtually the same jurisdiction over the property of the township that the Board of County Commissioners has over the property of the county. Their duties with regard to handling the business affairs of the township are also similar. They also have certain duties about providing township office space, admitting indigent persons to the county infirmary, controlling animals running at large, settling controversies over partition fences, constructing township ditches and roads, may participate in regional planning commissions, establish township police districts, and joint hospital boards. In many instances townships actually do not function as such but delegate their official duties to the municipality. Township trustees furnish fire protection, adopt fire codes, usually financed by local levies, and regulate parking, except on state or national roads. The Constable, as the police officer of the township, is charged with certain duties regarding law enforcement. Ohio has 1,311 townships.

CITY GOVERNMENT

A municipal corporation in Ohio may be defined as a body politic and corporate consisting of the inhabitants of a definite area of contiguous territory and of such territory itself, established under the authority of the State, with perpetual succession, with the right to own and hold property, to levy and collect taxes, to construct local public improvements, to enter into agreements, to own and operate public utilities, to adopt and enforce local police and sanitary regulations, and to exercise the powers of local self-government.

OHIO CONSTITUTIONAL PROVISIONS

Article XIII, Sec. 6. Organization of Cities, etc.

“The General Assembly shall provide for the organization of cities, and incorporated villages, by general laws, and restrict their power of taxation, assessment, borrowing money, contracting debts and loaning their credit, so as to prevent the abuse of such power.”

Article XVIII, Sec. 2, General and Additional Laws.

“General laws shall be passed to provide for the incorporation and government of cities and villages; and additional laws may also be passed for the government of municipalities adopting the same; but no such additional law shall become operative in any municipality until it shall have been submitted to the electors thereof, and affirmed by a majority of these voting thereon, under regulations to be established by law.”

Article XVIII, Sec. 3 Powers

“Municipalities shall have authority to exercise all powers of local self-government and to adopt and enforce within their limits such local police, sanitary and other similar regulations, as are not in conflict with general.”

Article XVIII, Sec. 7 Local Self-Government

“Any municipality may frame and adopt or amend a charter for its government and may, subject to the provisions of section 3 of this article, exercise thereunder all powers of local self-government.”

CLASSIFICATIONS AND SUB-DIVISIONS

Under Sec. 1 of Art. XVIII of the Constitution, municipal corporations in Ohio are classified into cities and villages, on the basis of whether or not their population is five thousand or over. Ohio has 241 cities and 701 villages.

Generally, a city is divided into Wards. The Board of Elections subdivides each Ward into Precincts for election purposes.

PLANS FOR GOVERNMENT

If there is no specific plan voted, a city automatically comes under the statutory form which provides for an elected legislative authority of not less than seven nor more than seventeen together with a mayor, auditor, president of the legislative authority, treasurer and director of law to be elected and directors of public safety and public services appointed by the mayor.

A village incorporation is effected by petition to the county commissioners. Its legislative authority is an elected four-year term six-member council while the executive power is vested in a mayor, clerk, treasurer, marshal, street commissioner, and others. If a village owns a public utility there is either a village administrator or a three-member four-year term board of trustees of public affairs.

A city may adopt one of several plans for its government such as a Commission, a City Manager, or a Federal plan. Since the statutory form is probably the most commonly followed in Ohio, further discussion of city government (for the sake of simplicity) will be limited to the consideration of how this statutory or Mayor-Council form generally functions.

POWERS

Under the Ohio Constitution, previous to the adoption of the Home Rule Amendment in 1912 (Art. XVIII) municipal corporations in their public capacity, possessed powers, and such only, as were expressly granted by statute and such as might be implied as necessary to carry into effect those which were expressly granted. Since 1912, cities in addition to powers conferred on them by statute are authorized to exercise all powers of local self-government and to adopt and enforce within their limits such local police, sanitary and other similar regulations as are not in conflict with general law. To provide for the exercise of such constitutional powers, a city may operate under a charter which has been adopted by vote of the electors of the city. Such city is governed by such charter in the exercise of all powers of local self-government but in matters involving the police power the state statutes control. For example, state statutes defining crimes, imposing uniform traffic regulations, and regulating health and sanitation, govern in the entire state.

The powers and functions exercised by cities are of two classes: (a) public or governmental, and (b) private or proprietary. In their public capacity, cities function as agents or instrumentality's of the State, while in their private capacity cities are regarded as the agents of those residing or owning property within the territorial limits.

Examples of governmental activity are the exercise of police powers and operation of a police department, maintenance of a fire department, establishment of health measures and precautions, construction of sewers and drains, provision for garbage disposal, maintenance of workhouse and municipal hospital, issuance of permits, levy of taxes, issuance of bonds, improvement and maintenance of streets, sidewalks, parks and other public municipal property.

In its proprietary capacity a city may acquire, maintain and operate public utilities, such as water works, electric power plants, transportation systems, etc.

Municipal corporations are not limited to providing for the material necessities of their citizens; they may minister to the comfort, health, pleasure or education of their citizens as well. They are not limited to policing the corporation, to paving the streets, to providing it with light, water, sewers, docks and markets. The power of cities and villages to maintain institutions which educate and instruct as well as please and amuse their inhabitants, such as museums or zoos is unquestioned. Public funds may also be expended to provide exhibits, monuments, statues, gates, archways, publications and other public projects.

The powers of a city can be exercised only through officers elected or appointed for such purpose.

The Executive power and Administrative authority of cities is vested in a Mayor, President of Council, Auditor, Treasurer, Director of Law, Director of Public Service, Director of Public Safety and others.

The Legislative power is vested in and exercised by a body designated as the City Council.

Although a city has no judicial powers, certain of the State's judicial functions are exercised in the Municipal or Mayor's Court.

The business offices of a city are generally housed in a building designated as the City Hall.

Generally, the territorial extent of jurisdiction for the exercise of the governmental power of a city is limited to and cannot be exercised beyond the corporation limits, but special laws authorize regulations at city owned reservoirs, airports and other public improvements outside the city's boundaries.

MAYOR

The Mayor is elected for a term of four years and is the main conservator of peace, having power to appoint and remove the Directors of Public Service and Safety and the heads of the sub-departments of public service and safety. The Mayor is the Chief Executive of the city and has the duty to manage the affairs of the city by directions to the several Department Heads. He may also make recommendations to the City Council concerning legislation. The Mayor may also appoint the Board of Health and members of such other Boards and Commissions as may from time to time be authorized by statute or ordinance.

Since for all practical purposes the Mayor, as the general manager of the city, should exercise diligence in the performance of duties, but should also constantly supervise the activities of all municipal departments in order to be assured that the city government is functioning properly. The Director of Law should be directed to prepare any documents or proposals which may be required. The Mayor may call upon county, state, or federal officials in an effort to secure benefits to which the city may be entitled.

CITY COUNCIL

The City Council is the legislative branch of city government and it performs for the city substantially the same functions which the Legislature or General Assembly performs for the State. Bills introduced and passed in Council are called ordinances.

Council members are elected for four-year terms by the qualified electors of the city in one of several ways. Council members are elected by a combination of so many from Wards and/or so many at-large. Usually only a part of the Council is elected at one election. When a vacancy occurs in Council, Council selects a successor to fill the un-expired term.

The members of council elect one of their numbers as president pro tempore and appoint a Clerk (not a council person). The President of Council acts as Vice-Mayor and succeeds to that office in case of vacancy. The President of Council may appoint a number of standing committees with reference to such subjects as: Finance, Safety, Service, Zoning, Utilities, etc. Often, each Committee selects its own Chairman who keeps a written record of proceedings of that Committee. Bills are usually processed through committees for investigation and report before placed before the entire Council for vote. In the case of a highly controversial subject the Council Committee may hold public hearings for the purpose of determining the sentiment of the citizens of the city. Frequently the Council acts as a Committee of the Whole.

The Clerk of Council keeps a written minute book and record of all proceedings at each Council meeting. Here should be permanently recorded the original draft of all ordinances which have been passed.

During the discussion and deliberation of subject matter affecting various city departments, the Council may, and should, require the attendance of those city officials concerned. For instance, if an ordinance pertains to the Police Department, then Council should require the attendance of the Chief of Police and the Director of Public Safety in order to receive their counsel and advise upon the measure.

CITY AUDITOR

The City Auditor is also an elected official whose duties are to keep the books and financial records of the city. For the convenience of Council, an estimate of incomes and expenses for the ensuing year shall be prepared. The Auditor is a member of numerous Boards, having to do with the administering of trust funds, as well as other duties involving public trust, and must sign all warrants to pay bills of the city drawn on the City Treasurer who must pay them.

The Auditor confers with the County Auditor and Treasurer to ascertain how much money will be available to the city from tax collections and other municipal revenues and consults with each department to obtain an estimate of the amount of operating money needed after adjustments for one year. After the Municipal Budget is prepared, the Auditor appears before the County Budget Commission for Budget approval and recommends the adoption of an Appropriation Ordinance, the effect of which will be to earmark and divide the estimated municipal income among the city departments so that the essential functions of the city may be provided.

CITY TREASURER

The City Treasurer is an elected official and has responsibility for deposit and care of all monies belonging to the city and also the recipient for monies due directly to the city. The Treasurer shall receive each six months from the County Treasurer that share of tax money which has been allocated to the city from general taxes for the purpose of helping to operate the city. The City Treasurer shall pay out such money only upon warrants issued from time to time by the City Auditor. The Auditor should handle no money whatsoever, and the Treasurer should issue no warrants.

DIRECTOR OF LAW

The Director of Law is an elected official and is the legal advisor to the Mayor, the Council and other municipal officials and prepares contracts and other instruments concerning the city and must prosecute or defend all lawsuits in which the city is a party. The Director of Law should be zealous to guard the legal rights of the city and should not hesitate to bring a lawsuit when it is considered necessary for the protection of the city's rights or property. The Director of Law is the prosecutor in the Municipal Court and ex-officio attorney for the school district.

DIRECTOR OF PUBLIC SERVICE

As previously noted the Director of Public Service is appointed by the Mayor. The duties include the supervision of the improvement and repair of streets, sidewalks, parks and all public grounds, the collection and disposal of garbage and such duties as City Council may designate. This Director may be the Platting Commissioner. The City Engineer and Street Commissioner shall answer to the Director of Public Service. Since so many important duties devolve on the Director of Public Services, the selection of a highly competent person is necessary if the city is to be maintained in a clean, safe and attractive condition.

The Director of Public Service is the official who negotiates most contracts which have been authorized by Council; is responsible for the maintenance and repair of all public lands and building, streets and sidewalks, and must keep public property free from nuisances.

Under the laws of Ohio, City Council may by ordinance, combine the Directorship of Public Service with that of Public Safety.

DIRECTOR OF PUBLIC SAFETY

The Director of Public Safety is also an appointee of the Mayor. His general duties are to serve as Executive Head of the Police and Fire and other departments and divisions.

The Director of Public Safety coordinates with the State Adjutant General, the Highway Patrol Superintendent, and the County Sheriff; ascertains what courses of instruction will be available for the training of the police and fire forces; confers with the Civil Service Commission; and procures application blanks for those who desire to take the Civil Service examination for eligibility for appointment. The Director of Public Safety under the supervision of the Mayor is the appointing authority from those lists of eligible applicants which have been certified by the Civil Service Commission.

The Director should make periodical inspections of the city, public buildings, and grounds for the purpose of observing and reporting to the Mayor, the Director of Public Service, and/or the Board of Health, of anything that is considered to be unsightly, unsafe or unsanitary. Since the promotion of health and safety are important municipal functions, the Director of Public Safety carries considerable responsibility.

FIRE DEPARTMENT

The Council may establish all necessary regulations to guard against fire, protect the property and lives of the citizens, and for such purpose may establish and maintain a Fire Department, composed of a Chief and as many firemen and equipment as deemed necessary. Rate of compensation should be fixed by ordinance.

POLICE DEPARTMENT

A city police department is maintained for the purpose of protecting the lives and properties of the people, to enforce the laws of the State, as well as the ordinances of the municipality.

The executive of the police force is the Chief, appointed after civil service examination. It is the duty of the Chief to organize and distribute the force in such proportion to best handle the needs of the city in the prevention of crime, regulating traffic, and the apprehension of law violators.

Police departments usually are divided into three major divisions: patrol, criminal investigation, and traffic. The larger departments may have other divisions such as records and property, crime prevention, finger print bureau, scientific laboratory, juvenile bureau, and radio and teletype.

In townships and villages, constables or marshals perform the police duties for the people.

BOARD OF HEALTH

Because the matter of health is statewide in its effect, the state is, by state statutes, divided into districts, each city being designated as a city health district and other portions of each county being designated as general health districts. Such statutes require the city council to establish a board of health composed of five members to be appointed by the Mayor and confirmed by the council, with power to make such orders and regulations as it deems necessary for the public health, the prevention and restriction of disease, and for the prevention, abatement and suppression of nuisances. Such city health district is a sub-division of the state although the city is required by state statute to pay expenses as such board certifies to the city council. In certain limited cases a health administration created other than as provided in such statutes, may continue its existence. One member of a combined board must be a physician.

MISCELLANEOUS

Municipal elections may be non-partisan. Other important municipal administrative agencies include Departments, Divisions or Commissions respecting Recreation, Parks, Airport, Traffic Engineering, Workhouse, Building Regulation and Housing, Planning, Zoning, Consumer Affairs, Public Utilities, Energy, Personnel and Civil Service, Community Relations, Industrial Relations and Management and Budget.

APPENDIX A
THE 1851 CONSTITUTION of the STATE OF OHIO
(with AMENDMENTS TO 2009)

PREAMBLE

We, the people of the State of Ohio, grateful to Almighty God for our freedom, to secure its blessings and promote our common welfare, do establish this Constitution.

Article I: Bill of Rights

TRIAL BY JURY. (1851, am. 1912)

§5 The right of trial by jury shall be inviolate, except that, in civil cases, laws may be passed to authorize the rendering of a verdict by the concurrence of not less than three-fourths of the jury.

SLAVERY AND INVOLUNTARY SERVITUDE. (1851)

§6 There shall be no slavery in this state; nor involuntary servitude, unless for the punishment of crime.

RIGHTS OF CONSCIENCE; EDUCATION; THE NECESSITY OF RELIGION AND KNOWLEDGE. (1851)

§7 All men have a natural and indefeasible right to worship Almighty God according to the dictates of their own conscience. No person shall be compelled to attend, erect, or support any place of worship, or maintain any form of worship, against his consent; and no preference shall be given, by law, to any religious society; nor shall any interference with the rights of conscience be permitted. No religious test shall be required, as a qualification for office, nor shall any person be incompetent to be a witness on account of his religious belief; but nothing herein shall be construed to dispense with oaths and affirmations. Religion, morality, and knowledge, however, being essential to good government, it shall be the duty of the General Assembly to pass suitable laws, to protect every religious denomination in the peaceable enjoyment of its own mode of public worship, and to encourage schools and the means of instruction.

Where a person is charged with any offense for which the person may be incarcerated, the court may determine at any time the type, amount, and conditions of bail. Excessive bail shall not be required; nor excessive fines imposed; nor cruel and unusual punishments inflicted.

The General Assembly shall fix by law standards to determine whether a person who is charged with a felony where the proof is evident or the presumption great poses a substantial risk of serious physical harm to any person or to the community. Procedures for establishing the amount and conditions of bail shall be established pursuant to Article IV, Section 5(b) of the Constitution of the State of Ohio.

IN WHOM POWER VESTED. (1851, am. 1912, 1918, 1953)

§1 The legislative power of the state shall be vested in a General Assembly consisting of a Senate and House of Representatives but the people reserve to themselves the power to propose to the General Assembly laws and amendments to the constitution, and to adopt or reject the same at the polls on a referendum vote as hereinafter provided. They also reserve the power to adopt or reject any law, section of any law or any item in any law appropriating money passed by the General Assembly, except as herein after provided; and independent of the General Assembly to propose amendments to the constitution and to adopt or reject the same at the polls. The limitations expressed in the constitution, on the power of the General Assembly to enact laws, shall be deemed limitations on the power of the people to enact laws.

INITIATIVE AND REFERENDUM TO AMEND CONSTITUTION. (1912, am. 2008)

§1a The first aforesated power reserved by the people is designated the initiative, and the signatures of ten per centum of the electors shall be required upon a petition to propose an amendment to the constitution. When a petition signed by the aforesaid required number of electors, shall have been filed with the secretary of state, and verified as herein provided, proposing an amendment to the constitution, the full text of which shall have been set forth in such petition, the secretary of state shall submit for the approval or rejection of the electors, the proposed amendment, in the manner hereinafter provided, at the next succeeding regular or general election in any year occurring subsequent to one hundred twenty-five days after the filing of such petition. The initiative petitions, above described, shall have printed across the top thereof: "Amendment to the Constitution Proposed by Initiative Petition to be Submitted Directly to the Electors." INITIATIVE AND REFERENDUM TO ENACT LAWS. (1912, am. 2008)

§1b When at any time, not less than ten days prior to the commencement of any session of the General Assembly, there shall have been filed with the secretary of state a petition signed by three per centum of the electors and verified as herein provided, proposing a law, the full text of which shall have been set forth in such petition, the secretary of state shall transmit the same to the General Assembly as soon as it convenes. If said proposed law shall be passed by the General Assembly, either as petitioned for or in an amended form, it shall be subject to the referendum. If it shall not be passed, or if it shall be passed in an amended form, or if no action shall be taken thereon within four months from the time it is received by the General Assembly, it shall be submitted by the secretary of state to the electors for their approval or rejection, if such submission shall be demanded by supplementary petition verified as herein provided and signed by not less than three per centum of the electors in addition to those signing the original petition, which supplementary petition must be signed and filed with the secretary of state within ninety days after the proposed law shall have been rejected by the General Assembly or after the expiration of such term of four months, if no action has been taken thereon, or after the law as passed by the General Assembly shall have been filed by the governor in the office of the secretary of state. The proposed law shall be submitted at the next regular or general election occurring subsequent to one hundred twenty-five days after the supplementary petition is filed in the form demanded by such supplementary petition which form shall be either as first petitioned for or with any amendment or amendments which may have been incorporated therein by either branch or by both branches, of the General Assembly. If a proposed law so submitted is approved by a majority of the electors voting thereon, it shall be the law and shall go into effect as herein provided in lieu of any amended form of said law which may have been passed by the General Assembly, and such amended law passed by the General Assembly shall not go into effect until and unless the law proposed by supplementary petition shall have been rejected by the electors. All such initiative petitions, last above described, shall have printed across the top thereof, in case of proposed laws: "Law Proposed by Initiative Petition First to be Submitted to the General Assembly." Ballots shall be so printed as to permit an affirmative or negative vote upon each measure submitted to the electors. Any proposed law or amendment to the constitution submitted to the electors as provided in section 1a and section 1b, if approved by a majority of the electors voting thereon, shall take effect thirty days after the election at which it was approved and shall be published by the secretary of state. If conflicting proposed laws or conflicting proposed amendments to the constitution shall be approved at the same election by a majority of the total number of votes cast for and against the same, the one receiving the highest number of affirmative votes shall be the law, or in the case of amendments to the constitution shall be the amendment to the constitution. No law proposed by initiative petition and approved by the electors shall be subject to the veto of the governor.

REFERENDUM TO CHALLENGE LAWS ENACTED BY GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

§1c The second aforesated power reserved by the people is designated the referendum, and the signatures of six per centum of the electors shall be required upon a petition to order the submission to the electors of the state for their approval or rejection, of any law, section of any law or any item in any law appropriating money passed by the General Assembly. No law passed by the General Assembly shall go into effect until ninety days after it shall have been filed by the governor in the office of the secretary of state, except as herein provided. When a petition, signed by six per centum of the electors of the state and verified as herein provided, shall have been filed with the secretary of state within ninety days after any law shall have been filed by the governor in the office of the secretary of state, ordering that such law, section of such law or any item in such law appropriating money be submitted to the electors of the state for their approval or rejection, the secretary of state shall submit to the electors of the state for their approval or rejection such law, section or item, in the manner herein provided, at the next succeeding regular or general election in any year occurring subsequent to one hundred twenty-five days after the filing of such petition, and no such law, section or item shall go into effect until and unless approved by a majority of those voting upon the same. If, however, a referendum petition is filed against any such section or item, the remainder of the law shall not thereby be prevented or delayed from going into effect.

EMERGENCY LAWS; NOT SUBJECT TO REFERENDUM. (1912)

§1d Laws providing for tax levies, appropriations for the current expenses of the state government and state institutions, and emergency laws necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health or safety, shall go into immediate effect. Such emergency laws upon a yea and nay vote must receive the vote of two thirds of all the members elected to each branch of the General Assembly, and the reasons for such necessity shall be set forth in one section of the law, which section shall be passed only upon a yea and nay vote, upon a separate roll call thereon. The laws mentioned in this section shall not be subject to the referendum.

POWERS; LIMITATION OF USE. (1912)

§1e The powers defined herein as the “initiative” and “referendum” shall not be used to pass a law authorizing any classification of property for the purpose of levying different rates of taxation thereon or of authorizing the levy of any single tax on land or land values or land sites at a higher rate or by a different rule than is or may be applied to improvements thereon or to personal property.

POWER OF MUNICIPALITIES. (1912)

§1f The initiative and referendum powers are hereby reserved to the people of each municipality on all questions which such municipalities may now or hereafter be authorized by law to control by legislative action; such powers shall be exercised in the manner now or hereafter provided by law.

PETITION REQUIREMENTS AND PREPARATION; SUBMISSION; BALLOT LANGUAGE; BY OHIO BALLOT BOARD. (1912, am. 1971, 1978, 2008)

§1g Any initiative, supplementary, or referendum petition may be presented in separate parts but each part shall contain a full and correct copy of the title, and text of the law, section or item thereof sought to be referred, or the proposed law or proposed amendment to the constitution. Each signer of any initiative, supplementary, or referendum petition must be an elector of the state and shall place on such petition after his name the date of signing and his place of residence. A signer residing outside of a municipality shall state the county and the rural route number, post office address, or township of his residence. A resident of a municipality shall state the street and number, if any, of his residence and the name of the municipality or the post office address. The names of all signers to such petitions shall be written in ink, each signer for himself. To each part of such petition shall be attached the statement of the circulator, as may be required by law, that he witnessed the affixing of every signature. The secretary of state shall determine the sufficiency of the signatures not later than one hundred five days before the election.

The Ohio supreme court shall have original, exclusive jurisdiction over all challenges made to petitions and signatures upon such petitions under this section. Any challenge to a petition or signature on a petition shall be filed not later than ninety-five days before the day of the election. The court shall hear and rule on any challenges made to petitions and signatures not later than eighty-five days before the election. If no ruling determining the petition or signatures to be insufficient is issued at least eighty-five days before the election, the petition and signatures upon such petitions shall be presumed to be in all respects sufficient.

If the petitions or signatures are determined to be insufficient, ten additional days shall be allowed for the filing of additional signatures to such petition. If additional signatures are filed, the secretary of state shall determine the sufficiency of those additional signatures not later than sixty-five days before the election. Any challenge to the additional signatures shall be filed not later than fifty-five days before the day of the election. The court shall hear and rule on any challenges made to the additional signatures not later than forty-five days before the election. If no ruling determining the additional signatures to be insufficient is issued at least forty-five days before the election, the petition and signatures shall be presumed to be in all respects sufficient.

No law or amendment to the constitution submitted to the electors by initiative and supplementary petition and receiving an affirmative majority of the votes cast thereon, shall be held unconstitutional or void on account of the insufficiency of the petitions by which such submission of the same was procured; nor shall the rejection of any law submitted by referendum petition be held invalid for such insufficiency. Upon all initiative, supplementary, and referendum petitions provided for in any of the sections of this article, it shall be necessary to file from each of one-half of the counties of the state, petitions bearing the signatures of not less than one-half of the designated percentage of the electors of such county. A true copy of all laws or proposed laws or proposed amendments to the constitution, together with an argument or explanation, or both, for, and also an argument or explanation, or both, against the same, shall be prepared. The person or persons who prepare the argument or explanation, or both, against any law, section, or item, submitted to the electors by referendum petition, may be named in such petition and the persons who prepare the argument or explanation, or both, for any proposed law or proposed amendment to the constitution may be named in the petition proposing the same. The person or persons who prepare the argument or explanation, or both, for the law, section, or item, submitted to the electors by referendum petition, or against any proposed law submitted by supplementary petition, shall be named by the General Assembly, if in session, and if not in session then by the governor. The law, or proposed law, or proposed amendment to the constitution, together with the arguments and explanations, not exceeding a total of three hundred words for each, and also the arguments and explanations, not exceeding a total of three hundred words against each, shall be published once a week for three consecutive weeks preceding the election, in at least one newspaper of general circulation in each county of the state, where a newspaper is published. The secretary of state shall cause to be placed upon the ballots, the ballot language for any such law, or proposed law, or proposed amendment to the constitution, to be submitted. The ballot language shall be prescribed by the Ohio ballot board in the same manner, and subject to the same terms and conditions, as apply to issues submitted by the general assembly pursuant to Section 1 of Article XVI of this constitution: The ballot language shall be so prescribed and the secretary of state shall cause the ballots so to be printed as to permit an affirmative or negative vote upon each law, section of law, or item in a law appropriating money, or proposed law, or proposed amendment to the constitution. The style of all laws submitted by initiative and supplementary petition shall be: "Be it Enacted by the People of the State of Ohio," and of all constitutional amendments: "Be it Resolved by the People of the State of Ohio." The basis upon which the required number of petitioners in any case shall be determined shall be the total number of votes cast for the office of governor at the last preceding election therefor. The foregoing provisions of this section shall be self-executing, except as herein otherwise provided. Laws may be passed to facilitate their operation but in no way limiting or restricting either such provisions or the powers herein reserved.

In determining the eligibility of an individual to hold office in accordance with this article, (A) time spent in an office in fulfillment of a term to which another person was first elected shall not be considered provided that a period of at least four years passed between the time, if any, in which the individual previously held that office, and the time the individual is elected or appointed to fulfill the unexpired term; and (B) a person who is elected to an office in a regularly scheduled general election and resigns prior to the completion of the term for which he or she was elected, shall be considered to have served the full term in that office.

§6 Each house shall be the judge of the election, returns, and qualifications of its own members. A majority of all the members elected to each house shall be a quorum to do business; but, a less number may adjourn from day to day, and compel the attendance of absent members, in such manner, and under such penalties, as shall be prescribed by law.

Each house may punish its members for disorderly conduct and, with the concurrence of two-thirds of the members elected thereto, expel a member, but not the second time for the same cause. Each house has all powers necessary to provide for its safety and the undisturbed transaction of its business, and to obtain, through committees or otherwise, information affecting legislative action under consideration or in contemplation, or with reference to any alleged breach of its privileges or misconduct of its members, and to that end to enforce the attendance and testimony of witnesses, and the production of books and papers.

A vacancy occurring before or during the first twenty months of a Senatorial term shall be filled temporarily by election as provided in this section, for only that portion of the term which will expire on the thirty-first day of December following the next general election occurring in an even-numbered year after the vacancy occurs, at which election the seat shall be filled by the electors as provided by law for the remaining, unexpired portion of the term, the member-elect so chosen to take office on the first day in January next following such election. No person shall be elected to fill a vacancy in the Senate or House of Representatives, as the case may be, unless he meets the qualifications set forth in this constitution and the laws of this state for the seat in which the vacancy occurs. An election to fill a vacancy shall be accomplished, notwithstanding the provisions of section 27, Article II of this constitution, by the adoption of a resolution, while the Senate or the House of Representatives, as the case may be, is in session, with the taking of the yeas and nays of the members of the Senate or the House of Representatives, as the case may be, affiliated with the same political party as the person last elected to the seat in which the vacancy occurs. The adoption of such resolution shall require the affirmative vote of a majority of the members elected to the Senate or the House of Representatives, as the case may be, entitled to vote thereon. Such vote shall be spread upon the journal of the Senate or the House of Representatives, as the case may be, and certified to the secretary of state by the clerk thereof. The secretary of state shall, upon receipt of such certification, issue a certificate of election to the person so elected and upon presentation of such certificate to the Senate or the House of Representatives, as the case may be, the person so elected shall take the oath of office and become a member of the Senate or the House of Representatives, as the case may be, for the term for which he was so elected.

(B) The style of the laws of this state shall be, "be it enacted by the General Assembly of the state of Ohio."

(C) Every bill shall be considered by each house on three different days, unless two-thirds of the members elected to the house in which it is pending suspend this requirement, and every individual consideration of a bill or action suspending the requirement shall be recorded in the journal of the respective house. No bill may be passed until the bill has been reproduced and distributed to members of the house in which it is pending and every amendment been made available upon a member's request.

§16 If the governor approves an act, he shall sign it, it becomes law and he shall file it with the secretary of state.

If he does not approve it, he shall return it with his objections in writing, to the house in which it originated, which shall enter the objections at large upon its journal, and may then reconsider the vote on its passage. If three-fifths of the members elected to the house of origin vote to repass the bill, it shall be sent, with the objections of the governor, to the other house, which may also reconsider the vote on its passage. If three fifths of the members elected to the second house vote to repass it, it becomes law notwithstanding the objections of the governor, and the presiding officer of the second house shall file it with the secretary of state. In no case shall a bill be repassed by a smaller vote than is required by the constitution on its original passage. In all cases of reconsideration the vote of each house shall be determined by yeas and nays, and the names of the members voting for and against the bill shall be entered upon the journal.

If a bill is not returned by the governor within ten days, Sundays excepted, after being presented to him, it becomes law in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the General Assembly by adjournment prevents its return; in which case, it becomes law unless, within ten days after such adjournment, it is filed by him, with his objections in writing, in the office of the secretary of state. The governor shall file with the secretary of state every bill not returned by him to the house of origin that becomes law without his signature.

The governor may disapprove any item or items in any bill making an appropriation of money and the item or items, so disapproved, shall be void, unless repassed in the manner prescribed by this section for the repassage of a bill.

IMPEACHMENTS; HOW INSTITUTED AND CONDUCTED. (1851)

§23 The House of Representatives shall have the sole power of impeachment, but a majority of the members elected must concur therein. Impeachments shall be tried by the Senate; and the senators, when sitting for that purpose, shall be upon oath or affirmation to do justice according to law and evidence. No person shall be convicted without the concurrence of two-thirds of the senators.

OFFICERS LIABLE TO IMPEACHMENT; CONSEQUENCES. (1851)

WELFARE OF EMPLOYEES. (1912)

§34 Laws may be passed fixing and regulating the hours of labor, establishing a minimum wage, and providing for the comfort, health, safety and general welfare of all employes; and no other provision of the constitution shall impair or limit this power.

MINIMUM WAGE. (2006)

§34a Except as provided in this section, every employer shall pay their employees a wage rate of not less than six dollars and eighty-five cents per hour beginning January 1, 2007. On the thirtieth day of each September, beginning in 2007, this state minimum wage rate shall be increased effective the first day of the following January by the rate of inflation for the twelve month period prior to that September according to the consumer price index or its successor index for all urban wage earners and clerical workers for all items as calculated by the federal government rounded to the nearest five cents. Employees under the age of sixteen and employees of businesses with annual gross receipts of two hundred fifty thousand dollars or less for the preceding calendar year shall be paid a wage rate of not less than that established under the federal Fair Labor Standards Act or its successor law. This gross revenue figure shall be increased each year beginning January 1, 2008 by the change in the consumer price index or its successor index in the same manner as the required annual adjustment in the minimum wage rate set forth above rounded to the nearest one thousand dollars. An employer may pay an employee less than, but not less than half, the minimum wage rate required by this section if the employer is able to demonstrate that the employee receives tips that combined with the wages paid by the employer are equal to or greater than the minimum wage rate for all hours worked. The provisions of this section shall not apply to employees of a solely family owned and operated business who are family members of an owner. The state may issue licenses to employers authorizing payment of a wage rate below that required by this section to individuals with mental or physical disabilities that may otherwise adversely affect their opportunity for employment.

As used in this section: “employer,” “employee,” “employ,” “person” and “independent contractor” have the same meanings as under the federal Fair Labor Standards Act or its successor law, except that “employer” shall also include the state and every political subdivision and “employee” shall not include an individual employed in or about the property of the employer or individual’s residence on a casual basis. Only the exemptions set forth in this section shall apply to this section.

An employer shall at the time of hire provide an employee the employer’s name, address, telephone number, and other contact information and update such information when it changes. An employer shall maintain a record of the name, address, occupation, pay rate, hours worked for each day worked and each amount paid an employee for a period of not less than three years following the last date the employee was employed. Such information shall be provided without charge to an employee or person acting on behalf of an employee upon request. An employee, person acting on behalf of one or more employees and/or any other interested party may file a complaint with the state for a violation of any provision of this section or any law or regulation implementing its provisions. Such complaint shall be promptly investigated and resolved by the state. The employee’s name shall be kept confidential unless disclosure is necessary to resolution of a complaint and the employee consents to disclosure. The state may on its own initiative investigate an employer’s compliance with this section and any law or regulation implementing its provisions. The employer shall make available to the state any records related to such investigation and other information required for enforcement of this section or any law or regulation implementing its provisions. No employer shall discharge or in any other manner discriminate or retaliate against an employee for exercising any right under this section or any law or regulation implementing its provisions or against any person for providing assistance to an employee or information regarding the same.

An action for equitable and monetary relief may be brought against an employer by the attorney general and/or an employee or person acting on behalf of an employee or all similarly situated employees in any court of competent jurisdiction, including the common pleas court of an employee's county of residence, for any violation of this section or any law or regulation implementing its provisions within three years of the violation or of when the violation ceased if it was of a continuing nature, or within one year after notification to the employee of final disposition by the state of a complaint for the same violation, whichever is later. There shall be no exhaustion requirement, no procedural, pleading or burden of proof requirements beyond those that apply generally to civil suits in order to maintain such action and no liability for costs or attorney's fees on an employee except upon a finding that such action was frivolous in accordance with the same standards that apply generally in civil suits. Where an employer is found by the state or a court to have violated any provision of this section, the employer shall within thirty days of the finding pay the employee back wages, damages, and the employee's costs and reasonable attorney's fees. Damages shall be calculated as an additional two times the amount of the back wages and in the case of a violation of an anti-retaliation provision an amount set by the state or court sufficient to compensate the employee and deter future violations, but not less than one hundred fifty dollars for each day that the violation continued. Payment under this paragraph shall not be stayed pending any appeal.

This section shall be liberally construed in favor of its purposes. Laws may be passed to implement its provisions and create additional remedies, increase the minimum wage rate and extend the coverage of the section, but in no manner restricting any provision of the section or the power of municipalities under Article XVIII of this constitution with respect to the same.

If any part of this section is held invalid, the remainder of the section shall not be affected by such holding and shall continue in full force and effect.

§35 For the purpose of providing compensation to workmen and their dependents, for death, injuries or occupational disease, occasioned in the course of such workmen's employment, laws may be passed establishing a state fund to be created by compulsory contribution thereto by employers, and administered by the state, determining the terms and conditions upon which payment shall be made therefrom. Such compensation shall be in lieu of all other rights to compensation, or damages, for such death, injuries, or occupational disease, and any employer who pays the premium or compensation provided by law, passed in accordance herewith, shall not be liable to respond in damages at common law or by statute for such death, injuries or occupational disease. Laws may be passed establishing a board which may be empowered to classify all occupations, according to their degree of hazard, to fix rates of contribution to such fund according to such classification, and to collect, administer and distribute such fund, and to determine all rights of claimants thereto. Such board shall set aside as a separate fund such proportion of the contributions paid by employers as in its judgment may be necessary, not to exceed one per centum thereof in any year, and so as to equalize, insofar as possible, the burden thereof, to be expended by such board in such manner as may be provided by law for the investigation and prevention of industrial accidents and diseases. Such board shall have full power and authority to hear and determine whether or not an injury, disease or death resulted because of the failure of the employer to comply with any specific requirement for the protection of the lives, health or safety of employees, enacted by the General Assembly or in the form of an order adopted by such board, and its decision shall be final; and for the purpose of such investigations and inquiries it may appoint referees. When it is found, upon hearing, that an injury, disease or death resulted because of such failure by the employer, such amount as shall be found to be just, not greater than fifty nor less than fifteen per centum of the maximum award established by law, shall be added by the board, to the amount of the compensation that may be awarded on account of such injury, disease, or death, and paid in like manner as other awards; and, if such compensation is paid from the state fund, the premium of such employer shall be increased in such amount, covering such period of time as may be fixed, as will recoup the state fund in the amount of such additional award, notwithstanding any and all other provisions in this constitution.

Laws may also be passed to provide for converting into forest reserves such lands or parts of lands as have been or may be forfeited to the state, and to authorize the acquiring of other lands for that purpose; also, to provide for the conservation of the natural resources of the state, including streams, lakes, submerged and swamp lands and the development and regulation of water power and the formation of drainage and conservation districts; and to provide for the regulation of methods of mining, weighing, measuring and marketing coal, oil, gas and all other minerals.

REPEALED. REFERRED TO ADJUSTED COMPENSATION FOR SERVICE IN WORLD WAR I. (1921, rep. 1953)

§2a

ADJUSTED COMPENSATION FOR SERVICE IN WORLD WAR II; WORLD WAR II VETERANS' BONUSES. (1947)

§2b The board of commissioners created by section 8 of Art. VIII of the Constitution of the state of Ohio, designated therein "The Commissioners of the Sinking Fund," shall, forthwith upon the adoption of this amendment, proceed to issue and sell, from time to time, bonds of the state of Ohio in such amounts of face value as it may deem necessary to provide the funds, or such part thereof, as may be required to pay the compensation and the expenses of administering this section as herein provided for, provided, however, that the aggregate total amount of face value of bonds so issued shall not exceed three hundred million dollars. The full faith and credit of the state of Ohio is hereby pledged for the payment of such bonds. All bonds so issued shall mature in thirty semiannual installments after the respective dates thereof, and the maturities thereof shall be so fixed that the total amounts of payments on account of principal and interest to be paid on each of such semiannual installment payment dates shall be approximately equal, but no such bonds shall be issued or bear dates later than the first day of April, 1951. All bonds so issued shall bear interest at such rates as the commissioners of the sinking fund may fix, which interest shall be payable semiannually. Such bonds, and the interest thereon as income, shall be exempt from all taxes levied by the state of Ohio or any taxing district thereof. The bonds may, at the option of the sinking fund commission, be issued subject to call on any interest payment date at par and accrued interest. All sales of such bonds by the commissioners of the sinking fund shall be in accordance with such regulations as it shall make and promulgate, provided, however, that such bonds shall be sold only to the highest bidder or bidders therefor after notice of such sale shall have been published once each week for three consecutive weeks on the same day of each of such weeks, the first of such notices being published at least twenty-one full days before the date of sale, in a newspaper of general circulation in each of the eight most populous counties in the state of Ohio, and provided that each of such published notices shall state the day, hour and place of the sale, the total face value of the bonds to be sold, their denominations, dates, and the dates of their maturities, information relative to the rates of interest which the bonds will bear, and the dates upon which interest will be payable. The commissioners of the sinking fund shall have the right to reject any or all bids and to re-advertise and re-offer bonds for sale. Out of the proceeds of the sale of all bonds that amount which represents accrued interest, if any, shall be paid into the treasury of the state of Ohio into a fund to be known as the World War II compensation bond retirement fund. The balance shall be paid into the treasury of the state of Ohio into a fund to be known as the World War II compensation fund. The General Assembly of the state of Ohio may appropriate and cause to be paid into the World War II compensation bond retirement fund or the World War II compensation fund, out of the funds in the treasury of the state not otherwise appropriated, such amounts as it may deem proper for use upon order of the commissioners of the sinking fund for the purposes for which such funds are created as herein provided. If the General Assembly should so appropriate any funds to the World War II compensation fund prior to the time the commissioners of the sinking fund shall have issued bonds of the aggregate total amount of face value authorized in this section, the aggregate total amount of face value of bonds so authorized to be issued shall be reduced by the amount of the funds so appropriated.

During the period of fifteen years beginning January 1, 1949, the treasurer of state of the state of Ohio shall without appropriation thereof by the General Assembly, transfer into said World War II compensation bond retirement fund one million dollars each month out of funds in the state treasury derived from taxes levied by the state for the purpose of providing revenues to defray the expenses of the state, excepting the taxes levied by the state by sections 5527, 5541, and 6291 of the General Code of Ohio [RC §5735.05, 5735.25, 4303.02] as the same may be in effect on the effective date of this section. To secure such monthly transfer of funds a lien is hereby created upon all funds coming into the state treasury after January 1, 1949, derived from taxes as aforesaid, which lien shall be the first and best lien upon all such funds. It shall be the duty of the treasurer of state to set aside and use for the purpose of making such monthly transfer of funds, part of each dollar received in the state treasury in each calendar year during said period of fifteen years beginning January 1, 1949, derived from taxes as aforesaid, so that the total amount of money so set aside in each of such calendar years shall be twelve million dollars, and so that the ratio which the amount of each dollar so set aside shall bear to one dollar shall be the same as the ratio which the amount of twelve million dollars shall bear to the total amount of money received in the state treasury in such calendar years derived from taxes as aforesaid. The treasurer of state shall set aside part of each dollar before paying out, transferring, or disposing of in any other manner, such dollar or any part thereof for any other purpose whatsoever, and he shall make the transfer of one million dollars each month to the World War II compensation bond retirement fund, herein-above provided for, out of said sum of twelve million dollars so set aside in each of such calendar years.

The commissioners of the sinking fund shall, on or before the first day of July in each calendar year, levy and certify to the auditor of the state of Ohio a state tax on all taxable property subject to taxation on the general tax lists of all counties in the state of Ohio for such year at such rate as it shall determine to be necessary to provide, together with other money which will be available in the World War II compensation bond retirement fund, the total amount of funds which will be required in the next following calendar year for the retirement of bonds and the payment of interest payable in such year. Such levy shall be in addition to all other taxes levied now or hereafter within the period during which bonds issued pursuant to the provisions of this section shall be outstanding, by or pursuant to law or any provision of the Constitution of the state of Ohio, and shall not be considered in applying any limitation or aggregate tax rates now or hereafter within the period during which bonds issued pursuant to the provisions of this section shall be outstanding, provided by or pursuant to law or any provision of the Constitution of the state of Ohio. The auditor of state shall certify such levies to the auditor of each county in Ohio, who shall extend the same on the tax lists of his county for the year in which such levy is made and shall place same for collection on the tax duplicates of his county to be collected the same time and in the same manner as other taxes on such duplicates. Said taxes herein authorized, when collected, shall be paid into the World War II compensation bond retirement fund in the treasury of the state. The World War II compensation bond retirement fund shall be paid out, without appropriation thereof by the General Assembly of Ohio, upon the order of the commissioners of the sinking fund for the purpose of the payment, or retirement in other manner, of said bonds and interest thereon.

The World War II compensation fund shall be paid out upon order of the commissioners of the sinking fund, without appropriation by the General Assembly of Ohio, in payment of the expenses of administering this section, and as compensation as follows: every person who shall have served in active duty in the armed forces of the United States at any time between December 7, 1941 and September 2, 1945, both dates inclusive, and who, at the time of commencing such service, was and had been a resident of the state of Ohio for at least one year immediately preceding the commencement of such service, and who shall have been separated from such service under honorable conditions, or who is still in such service, or who has been retired, and who was in service for a period of at least ninety days, shall be entitled to receive compensation of ten dollars for each month during which such person was in active domestic service and fifteen dollars for each month during which such person was in active foreign service within said period of time; provided, however, that any person who was serving in active duty in the armed forces of the United States on the seventh day of December, 1941, and who did not so serve at least ninety days thereafter because of a service-connected injury or death shall be deemed to have served at least ninety days within the period of time commencing December 7, 1941 and ending September 2, 1945; and provided, further, that the maximum amount of compensation payable under this section shall not be in excess of four hundred dollars; and provided, further, that no compensation shall be paid under this section to any person who shall have received from another state a bonus or compensation of a like nature as is provided under this section. No compensation shall be paid under this section to any person for any periods of time spent under penal confinement during the period of active duty. Compensation for a fraction of a month of service shall be paid on the basis of one-thirtieth of the above monthly amounts for each day of such service. Service in the merchant marine of the United States shall not be considered for the purpose of this section. "Domestic service" as used herein means service within the continental limits of the United States (excluding Alaska). "Foreign service" as used herein means service in all other places, including sea duty.

Either the surviving husband or wife, or the surviving child or children, or the surviving parents or parent, of a deceased person shall be paid the same amount of compensation that such deceased person would be entitled to receive under this section, if living; provided, however, that if such deceased person's death was service-connected and in line of duty, his survivors as hereinbefore designated, shall be paid four hundred dollars regardless of the amount of compensation which such deceased person would be entitled to receive under this section, if living; provided further, that the amount of compensation payable to such survivors of such deceased person shall be payable only to one of the three groups of survivors hereinbefore designated in the order in which said groups are herein named; and provided further, that the surviving husband or wife of more than one deceased person who would be entitled to receive compensation under this section, if living, shall be paid only that amount of compensation payable by reason of the first of the deaths of such deceased persons.

No sale or assignment of any right or claim to compensation under this section shall be valid, no claims of creditors shall be enforceable against rights or claims to or payments of compensation under this section, and no fees shall be charged for services in connection with the prosecution of any right or claim to compensation or the collection of any compensation under this section.

The commissioners of the sinking fund shall have complete charge of making payments of the compensation provided for in this section and shall adopt and promulgate regulations governing their procedure in connection therewith, including determinations as to who are proper beneficiaries and the amounts to which such beneficiaries are entitled, determinations as to whether an applicant has the necessary residence requirements, and such other regulations as it may deem necessary and proper; provided, however, that all applications for payment of compensation under this section shall be made to the commissioners of the sinking fund before July 1, 1950.

The commissioners of the sinking fund shall select and appoint such legal counsel and employees as it may deem necessary, fix their compensation and prescribe their duties, and all such appointees shall serve at its pleasure.

The provisions of this section shall be self executing.

Upon the retirement of all the bonds that may be issued hereunder and the payment of all valid claims for compensation made within the limitations of time as prescribed herein, the commissioners of the sinking fund shall make a final report to the General Assembly of Ohio, and any balance remaining in any of the funds herein created and referred to shall be disposed of as shall be provided by law.

CONSTRUCTION OF STATE HIGHWAY SYSTEM. (1953)

§2c The state may contract debts not exceeding five hundred million dollars for the purpose of providing moneys for acquisition of rights-of-way and for construction and reconstruction of highways on the state highway system. Not more than one hundred twenty-five million dollars of the debt authorized by this section shall be contracted within any calendar year, and no part of such debt shall be contracted after the thirty-first day of March, 1962. The principal amount of any part of such debt at any time contracted shall be paid in substantially equal semiannual or annual installments, beginning not later than eighteen months after such debt is contracted, and in such number of installments that the entire debt shall be discharged not later than the year 1972. Securities evidencing the debt authorized by this section shall bear interest and shall be sold upon such terms as may be prescribed by law.

Both the principal of such debt and the interest thereon shall be exempt from taxation by this state or by any taxing subdivision thereof. Moneys raised under the authority of this section shall be expended only to provide adequate highways, including the acquisition of rights-of-way and including participation therein with the federal government, municipal corporations, counties and other legally authorized participants, but excluding costs of planning and supervision by the state. All construction shall be done by contract as shall be provided by law. No part of such proceeds shall be appropriated except to meet the requirements of programs or schedules of acquisition of rights-of-way, highway construction and reconstruction which the governor, or other highway authority with the concurrence of the governor, shall submit to the General Assembly before such appropriations are made. Such appropriations shall be made only for major thoroughfares of the state highway system and urban extensions thereof. The debt contracted under the authority of this section shall be paid by revenue bonds issued by the state of Ohio as provided by law, secured by a pledge of moneys derived from fees, excises or license taxes, levied by the state of Ohio, relating to registration, operation, or use of vehicles on public highways, or to fuels used for propelling such vehicles, and a sufficient amount thereof shall be set aside each year, before any other distribution is made, to pay the interest on the outstanding debt and principal of such debt becoming due in that year, without other appropriations, but according to regulations to be established by law.

The General Assembly shall meet on the second Monday in January, 1954, for the sole purpose of enacting laws Pursuant to this section.

KOREAN WAR VETERANS' BONUSES. (1956)

§2d The board of commissioners created by section 8 of Article VIII of the Ohio Constitution designated therein "The Commissioners of the Sinking Fund," shall, forthwith upon the adoption of this amendment, proceed to issue and sell, from time to time, bonds of the state of Ohio in such amounts of face value as are necessary to provide the funds, or such part thereof, as may be required to pay the compensation and the expenses of administering this section as herein provided for, provided that the aggregate total amount of face value of bonds so issued shall not exceed ninety million dollars. The full faith and credit of the state of Ohio is hereby pledged for the payment of such bonds. All bonds so issued shall mature in thirty semiannual installments commencing not later than two years after the respective dates thereof. The maturities thereof shall be so fixed that the total amounts of payments on account of principal and interest to be paid on each of such semiannual installment payment dates shall be substantially equal. No such bonds shall be issued or bear dates later than the first day of April, 1959. All bonds so issued shall bear interest at such rates as the commissioners of the sinking fund may fix, which interest shall be payable semiannually. Such bonds, and the interest thereon as income, shall be exempt from all taxes levied by the state of Ohio or any taxing district thereof.

The bonds may, at the option of the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund, be issued subject to call on any interest payment date at par and accrued interest. All sales of such bonds by the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund shall be in accordance with such regulations as it shall make and promulgate, provided that such bonds shall be sold only to the highest bidder or bidders therefor after notice of such sale shall have been published once each week for three consecutive weeks on the same day of each of such weeks, the first of such notices being published at least twenty-one full days before the date of sale, in a newspaper of general circulation in each of the eight most populous counties in the state of Ohio, and provided that each of such published notices shall state the day, hour and place of the sale, the total face value of the bonds to be sold, their denominations, dates, and the dates of their maturities, information relative to the rates of interest which the bonds will bear, and the dates upon which interest will be payable. The Commissioners of the Sinking Fund shall have the right to reject any or all bids and to readvertise and reoffer bonds for sale. Out of the proceeds of the sale of all bonds that amount which represents accrued interest, if any, shall be paid into the treasury of the state of Ohio into a fund to be known as The Korean Conflict Compensation Bond Retirement Fund. The balance shall be paid into the treasury of the state of Ohio into a fund to be known as The Korean Conflict Compensation Fund. The General Assembly of the state of Ohio may appropriate and cause to be paid into The Korean Conflict Compensation Bond Retirement Fund or The Korean Conflict Compensation Fund, out of the funds in the treasury of the state not otherwise appropriated, such amount as is proper for use upon order of the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund for the purposes for which such funds are created as herein provided. If the General Assembly should so appropriate any funds to The Korean Conflict Compensation Fund prior to the time the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund shall have issued bonds of the aggregate total amount of face value authorized in this section, the aggregate total amount of face value of bonds so authorized to be issued shall be reduced by the amount of the funds so appropriated.

The Commissioners of the Sinking Fund shall, on or before the first day of July in each calendar year, levy and certify to the auditor of the state of Ohio a state tax on all taxable property subject to taxation on the general tax lists of all counties in the state of Ohio for such year at such rate as it shall determine to be necessary to provide, together with other money which will be available in The Korean Conflict Compensation Bond Retirement Fund, the total amount of funds which will be required in the next following calendar year for the retirement of bonds and the payment of interest payable in such year. Such levy shall be in addition to all other taxes levied now or hereafter within the period during which bonds issued pursuant to the provisions of this section shall be outstanding, by or pursuant to law or any provision of the Ohio Constitution shall not be considered in applying any limitation or aggregate tax rates now or hereafter the period during which bonds issued pursuant to the provisions of this section shall be outstanding, provided by or pursuant to law or any provision of the Ohio Constitution. The auditor of state shall certify such levies to the auditor of each county in the state of Ohio, who shall extend the same on the tax lists of his county for the year in which such levy is made and shall place the same for collection on the tax duplicates of his county to be collected at the same time and in the same manner as other taxes on such duplicates. Said taxes herein authorized, when collected, shall be paid into The Korean Conflict Compensation Bond Retirement Fund in the treasury of the state. The Korean Conflict Compensation Bond Retirement Fund shall be paid out, without appropriation thereof by the General Assembly of Ohio upon the order of the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund for the purpose of the payment, or retirement in other manner, of said bonds and interest thereon.

Compensation for a fraction of a month of service shall be paid on the basis of one-thirtieth of the above monthly amounts for each day of such service. "Foreign service" as used herein means service in all other places, including sea duty.

No compensation shall be paid under this section to any person for any periods of time spent under penal confinement during the period of active duty.

Either the surviving husband or wife, or the surviving child or children, or the surviving parents or parent, including persons standing in loco parentis for one year preceding commencement of service in the armed forces of the United States, of a deceased person shall be paid the same amount of compensation that such deceased person would have been entitled to receive under this section, if living; provided that if such deceased person's death is determined to have been service-connected by the Veteran's Administration of the United States government, his survivors as herein designated, shall be entitled to four hundred dollars regardless of the amount of compensation which such deceased person would have been entitled to receive under this section if living; provided that the amount of compensation payable to such survivors of such deceased person shall be payable only to one of the three groups of survivors herein designated in the order in which said groups are named.

No sale or assignment of any right or claim to compensation under this section shall be valid, no claims of creditors shall be enforceable against rights or claims to or payments of compensation under this section, and no fees shall be charged for services in connection with the prosecution of any right or claim to compensation or the collection of any compensation under this section.

The Commissioners of the Sinking Fund shall have complete charge of making payments of the compensation provided for in this section and shall adopt and promulgate regulations governing their procedure in connection therewith, including determinations as to who are proper beneficiaries and the amounts to which such beneficiaries are entitled, determinations as to whether an applicant has the necessary residence requirements, and such other regulations that are necessary and proper; provided that all applications for payment of compensation under this section shall be made to the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund before January 1, 1959.

The Commissioners of the Sinking Fund shall select and appoint such legal counsel and employees that are necessary, fix their compensation and prescribe their duties, and all such appointees shall serve at its pleasure.

There is hereby transferred, out of the fund known as the "World War II Compensation Fund", created by section 2b of Article VIII of the Ohio Constitution, the sum of four million dollars, to The Korean Conflict Compensation Fund, for the purpose of defraying the immediate cost of administration and compensation.

The people of the state of Ohio declare that their enactment of this special amendment of the Ohio Constitution is to meet the specific emergency covered thereby, and they declare it to be their intention to in no manner affect or change any of the existing provisions of the said constitution except as herein set forth. The provisions of this section shall be self executing.

Upon payment of all valid claims for compensation made within the limitations of time as prescribed herein, the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund may transfer any funds in The Korean Conflict Compensation Fund to The Korean Conflict Compensation Bond Retirement Fund.

Upon retirement of all of the bonds that may be issued hereunder and the payment of all valid claims for compensation made within the limitations of time as prescribed herein, the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund shall make a final report to the General Assembly of Ohio, and any balance remaining in any of the funds herein created and referred to shall be disposed of as shall be provided by law.

They shall be payable from all excises and taxes of the state except ad valorem taxes on real and personal property, income taxes, and fees, excises or license taxes relating to registration, operation, or use of vehicles on public highways or to fuels used for propelling such vehicles. The excises and taxes of the state from which such bonds and other obligations shall be paid shall include an excise tax on sales of cigarettes at the rate of one-half cent on each ten cigarettes or fractional part thereof, and an excise tax on the use, consumption, or storage for consumption of cigarettes by consumers in this state, at the rate of one-half cent on each ten cigarettes or fractional part thereof, which shall be levied during the period beginning with January 1, 1965, and continuing until December 31, 1972, and thereafter as long as any of such bonds and other obligations are outstanding and moneys in the separate and distinct bond retirement fund hereinafter created are insufficient to pay all interest, principal, and charges for the issuance and retirement of such bonds and other obligations. Such tax on the use, consumption, or storage for consumption of cigarettes by consumers in this state shall not be levied upon cigarettes upon which the tax on sales has been paid. Sufficient amounts of such moneys remaining in said separate and distinct bond retirement fund created by this section, after such transfers, are hereby appropriated for the purpose of paying interest, principal, and charges for the issuance and retirement of bonds and other obligations issued under authority of this section, without other appropriations but according to law. In the event the moneys in the separate and distinct bond retirement fund created by this section are at any time insufficient to pay the current interest, principal, and charges for the issuance and retirement of bonds and other obligations issued under authority of this section, then such moneys as may be required to pay such current interest, principal, and charges are hereby appropriated for those purposes, without other appropriations but according to law, from the proceeds of all excises and taxes excluding those above excepted. Any balance remaining in the separate and distinct bond retirement fund created by this section after payment of all interest, principal, and charges for the issuance and retirement of bonds or other obligations issued under authority of this section shall be disposed of for the purposes enumerated in this section as may be provided by law.

As long as any of such bonds or other obligations are outstanding there shall be levied and collected in amounts sufficient to pay the principal of and interest on such bonds or other obligations, excises and taxes, excluding those above excepted.

The bonds or other obligations evidencing the debt authorized by this section shall bear interest and shall be sold upon such terms as may be prescribed by law. Both the principal of such debt and the interest thereon shall be exempt from taxation within this state. Moneys raised under the authority of this section shall be expended only to provide adequate highways, including engineering and the acquisition of rights-of-way and including participation therein with the federal government, municipal corporations, counties and other legally authorized participants. All construction shall be done by contract as shall be provided by law. No part of such proceeds shall be appropriated except to meet the requirements of programs or schedules or acquisition of rights-of-way, highway construction and reconstruction which the governor, or other highway authority designated by law, with the concurrence of the governor, shall submit to the General Assembly before such appropriations are made. Such appropriations shall be made only for major thoroughfares of the state highway system and urban extensions thereof. The debt contracted under the authority of this section shall be evidenced by bonds or other obligations issued by the state of Ohio as provided by law. BOND ISSUE FOR STATE DEVELOPMENT. (1965)

§2h The state may, from time to time, borrow not to exceed two hundred ninety million dollars and issue bonds or other obligations thereof for any one or more of the following purposes: acquiring, constructing, reconstructing or otherwise improving and equipping buildings and structures of the state and state supported and assisted institutions of higher education, including those for research and development; acquiring lands and interests in lands for sites for such buildings and structures; assisting in the development of the state, to acquire and develop lands and interests in lands and develop other state lands for water impoundment sites, flood control, parks and recreational uses, or conservation of natural resources; to develop state parks and recreational facilities including the construction, reconstruction and improvement of roads and highways therein; to assist the political subdivisions of the state to finance the cost of constructing and extending water and sewerage lines and mains, for use in conjunction with federal grants or loans for any of such purposes; and for use in conjunction with other governmental entities in acquiring, constructing, reconstructing, improving, and equipping water pipelines, stream flow improvements, airports, historical or educational facilities. The aggregate total amount of such borrowing outstanding under authority of this section shall not, at any time, exceed such sum as will require, during any calendar year, more than $20,000,000 to meet the principal and interest requirements of any such bonds and other obligations, and the charges for the issuance and retirement of such bonds and other obligations, falling due that year. No part of such borrowing shall be contracted after the last day of December, 1970. All bonds or other obligations issued pursuant to this section shall mature within thirty years from the date of issue.

The faith and credit of the state are hereby pledged for the payment of such bonds or other obligations or the interest thereon, and they shall be payable from all excises and taxes of the state, except ad valorem taxes on real and personal property, income taxes, and fees, excises or license taxes relating to the registration, operation, or use of vehicles on the public highways, or to fuels used for propelling such vehicles, after making provision for payment of amounts pledged from such excises and taxes for payment of bonds issued under authority of Sections 2e and 2f of this Article.

During the period beginning with the effective date of the first authorization to issue bonds or other obligations under authority of this section and continuing during such time as such bonds or other obligations are outstanding and so long as moneys in the Development Bond Retirement Fund are insufficient to pay all interest, principal and charges of such bonds or other obligations issued under authority of this section and becoming due in each year, a sufficient amount of moneys derived from such excises and taxes of the state is hereby appropriated in each year for the purpose of paying the interest, principal and charges for the issuance and retirement of bonds or other obligations issued under authority of this section becoming due in that year without other appropriation but according to law. The moneys derived from such excises and taxes and hereby appropriated shall be paid into a distinct bond retirement fund designated "Development Bond Retirement Fund," hereby created. Such moneys shall be expended as provided by law for the purpose of paying interest, principal and charges for the issuance and retirement of bonds and other obligations issued under authority of this section.

Sufficient amounts of such moneys in the Development Bond Retirement Fund are hereby appropriated for the purpose of paying interest, principal and charges for the issuance and retirement of bonds or other obligations issued under authority of this section, so long as any of them are outstanding, without other appropriations but according to law.

Any balance remaining in the Development Bond Retirement Fund after payment of all interest, principal and charges for the issuance and retirement of bonds and other obligations issued under authority of this section, shall be disposed of as shall be provided by law.

As long as any of such bonds or other obligations are outstanding there shall be levied and collected, in amounts sufficient to pay the principal of and the interest on such bonds or other obligations, excises and taxes, excluding those above excepted.

CAPITAL IMPROVEMENT BONDS. (1968)

§2i In addition to the authorization otherwise contained in Article VIII of the Ohio Constitution, the General Assembly, in accordance with but subject to the limitations of this section, may authorize the issuance of obligations, including bonds and notes, of the state or of state institutions, boards, commissions, authorities, or other state agencies or instrumentalities for any one or more of the following public capital improvements: the construction, reconstruction, or other improvement of highways, including those on the state highway system and urban extensions thereof, those within or leading to public parks or recreational areas, and those within or leading to municipal corporations, the acquisition, construction, reconstruction, or other improvement of, and provision of equipment for, buildings, structures, or other improvements, and necessary planning and engineering, for water pollution control and abatement, including those for sewage collection, treatment, or disposal, water management, including those for water distribution, collection, supply, storage, or impoundment, and stream flow control, and flood control, state supported or assisted institutions of higher education, technical education, vocational education, juvenile correction, training and rehabilitation, parks and recreation, research and development with respect to transportation, highways, and highway transportation, mental hygiene and retardation, police and fire training, airports, and other state buildings and structures, and the acquisition and improvement of real estate and interests therein required with respect to the foregoing, including participation in any such capital improvements with the federal government, municipal corporations, counties, or other governmental entities or any one or more of them which participation may be by grants, loans or contributions to them for any of such capital improvements. It is hereby determined that such capital improvements will directly or indirectly create jobs, enhance employment opportunities, and improve the economic welfare of the people of the state.

The issuance under authority of this section of obligations the holders or owners of which are given the right to have excises and taxes levied by the General Assembly for the payment of the principal thereof or interest thereon, herein called tax supported obligations, shall be subject to the following limitations. Not more than one hundred million dollars principal amount may be issued in any calendar year and not more than five hundred million dollars principal amount may be outstanding any one time for such capital improvements for highways and research and development with respect to highways and highway transportation, herein called highway obligations, provided that fifty per cent of the proceeds of the first five hundred million dollars of such tax supported highway obligations shall be used for urban extensions of state highways and highways within or leading to municipal corporations. Not more than two hundred fifty nine million dollars aggregate principal amount of such tax supported obligations may be issued for the other capital improvements aforesaid, provided that from the proceeds thereof one hundred twenty million dollars shall be used for water pollution control and abatement and water management, one hundred million dollars shall be used for higher education, technical and vocational education, and juvenile correction, training and rehabilitation, twenty million dollars shall be used for parks and recreation, and nineteen million dollars for airports, and for construction, rehabilitation and equipping of other state buildings and structures, including those for police and fire training. If tax supported obligations are issued under authority of this section to retire tax supposed obligations previously issued under authority of this section, such new obligations shall not be counted against such limits to the extent that the principal amount thereof does not exceed the principal amount of the obligations to be retired thereby.

Each issue of tax supported obligations issued pursuant to this section shall mature in not more than thirty years from the date of issuance thereof, or, if issued to retire obligations issued hereunder, within thirty years from the date such debt was originally contracted. If such tax supposed obligations are issued as notes in anticipation of the issuance of bonds, provision shall be made by law for setting aside, so long as such notes are outstanding, into a special fund or funds such amounts from the sources authorized for payment of such bonds under this section as would be sufficient for payment of that amount of principal on such bonds that would have been payable during such period if such bonds, maturing during a period of thirty years, had been issued without prior issuance of such notes. Such fund or funds may be used solely for the payment of principal of such notes or of bonds in anticipation of which such notes have been issued.

The faith and credit and excises of taxes of the state, excluding ad valorem taxes on real or personal property and income taxes, shall be pledged to the payment of the principal of and the interest on such tax supported obligations, sinking or bond retirement fund provisions shall be made therefor, and this section shall otherwise be implemented, all in the manner and to the extent provided by law by the General Assembly, including provisions for appropriation of pledged excises and taxes, and covenants to continue their levy, collection and application, to continue so long as such tax supported obligations are outstanding, without necessity for further appropriation notwithstanding Section 22 of Article II, Ohio Constitution; provided that the moneys referred to in Section 5a of Article XII, Ohio Constitution herein called highway user receipts, shall, after provision for payment of amounts pledged to obligations heretofore or hereafter issued under Sections 2c and 2g of this Article, be pledged to the payment of the principal of and interest on highway obligations authorized by this section but not to other obligations authorized hereby. If excises and taxes other than highway user receipts are pledged to the payment of the principal of or interest on highway obligations authorized by this section, in each year that such highway user receipts are available for such purpose, the same shall be appropriated thereto and the required application of such other excises and taxes shall be reduced in corresponding amount.

The General Assembly also may authorize the issuance of revenue obligations and other obligations, the owners or holders of which are not given the right to have excises or taxes levied by the General Assembly for the payment of principal thereof or interest thereon, for such capital improvements for mental hygiene and retardation, parks and recreation, state supported and state assisted institutions of higher education, including those for technical education, water pollution control and abatement, water management, and housing of branches and agencies of state government, which obligations shall not be subject to other provisions of this section and shall not be deemed to be debts or bonded indebtedness of the state under other provisions of this constitution. Such obligations may be secured by a pledge under law, without necessity for further appropriation, of all or such portion as the General Assembly authorizes of charges for the treatment or care of mental hygiene and retardation patients, receipts with respect to parks and recreational facilities, receipts of or on behalf of state supported and state assisted institutions of higher education, or other revenues or receipts, specified by law for such purpose, of the state or its officers, departments, divisions, institutions, boards, commissions, authorities, or other state agencies instrumentalities, and this provision may be implemented by law to better provide therefor; provided, however, that any charges for the treatment or care of mental hygiene or retardation patients may be so pledged only to obligations issued for capital improvements for mental hygiene and retardation, any receipts with respect to parks and recreation may be so pledged only to obligations issued for capital improvements for parks and recreation, any receipts of or on behalf of state supported or state assisted institutions of higher education may be pledged only to obligations issued for capital improvements for state supported or state assisted institutions of higher education, and any other revenues or receipts may be so pledged only to obligations issued for capital improvements which are in whole or in part useful to, constructed by, or financed by the department, board, commission, authority, or other agency or instrumentality that receives the revenues or receipts so pledged. The authority provided by this paragraph is in addition to, cumulative with, and not a limitation upon, the authority of the General Assembly under other provisions of this constitution; such paragraph does not impair any law heretofore enacted by the General Assembly, and any obligations issued under any such law consistent with the provisions of this paragraph shall be deemed to be issued under authority of this paragraph.

Both the principal of all obligations authorized under authority of this section and the interest thereon shall be exempt from taxation within this state.

VIETNAM CONFLICT COMPENSATION FUND. (1973)

§2] The board of commissioners created by section 8 of Article VIII of the Ohio Constitution shall, forthwith upon the adoption of this amendment, proceed to issue and sell, from time to time, bonds or notes of the state in such amounts of face value as are necessary to provide the funds, or such part thereof, as may be required to pay the compensation and the expenses of administering this section. The aggregate face value of bonds or notes so issued shall not exceed three hundred million dollars. The full faith and credit of the state is hereby pledged for the payment of such bonds or notes.

All bonds or notes so issued shall mature in not more than fifteen years commencing not later than two years after the respective dates thereof. The bonds or notes shall mature according to schedules set forth by the commissioners but shall not mature more than fifteen years after the date of issue. No bonds or notes shall be issued or bear dates later than the first day of April, 1977.

All bonds or notes shall bear interest at such rates as the commissioners determine and shall be payable semiannually. Such bonds or notes, and the interest thereon are exempt from all taxes levied by the state or any taxing district thereof. At the option of the commissioners, the bonds or notes may be issued subject to call on any interest payment date at par and accrued interest.

All sales of such bonds or notes by the commissioners shall be in accordance with such regulations as the commission adopts and promulgates. Such bonds or notes shall be sold only to the highest bidder or bidders after notice of sale has been published once each week for three consecutive weeks on the same day of each week, the first of such notices being published at least twenty-one full days before the date of sale, in a newspaper of general circulation in each of the eight most populous counties in the state. Notices shall state the day, hour and place of the sale, the total face value of the bonds or notes to be sold, their denominations, dates, and the dates of their maturities, information relative to the rates of interest that the bonds or notes will bear, and the dates upon which interest will be payable. The commissioners may reject any or all bids and re-advertise and re-offer bonds or notes for sale.

Out of the proceeds of the sale of all bonds or notes, that amount that represents accrued interest, if any, shall be paid into the state treasury into a fund to be known as the Vietnam Conflict Compensation Bond Retirement Fund, and the balance shall be paid into the state treasury into a fund to be known as the Vietnam Conflict Compensation Fund. The General Assembly may appropriate and cause to be paid into the Vietnam Conflict Compensation Bond Retirement Fund or the Vietnam Conflict Compensation Fund, out of the funds in the treasury not otherwise appropriated, such amount as is proper for use, upon order of the commissioners for the purposes for which such funds are created. If the General Assembly appropriates any funds to the Vietnam Conflict Compensation Fund prior to the time the commissioners have issued bonds or notes of the aggregate amount of face value authorized in this section, the aggregate amount of face value of bonds or notes so authorized to be issued shall be reduced by the amount of the funds so appropriated.

On or before the first day of July in each calendar year, the commissioners shall certify to the auditor of state the total amount of funds it determines is necessary to provide, together with all other money that will be available in the Vietnam Conflict Compensation Bond Retirement Fund, for the retirement of bonds or notes and the payment of interest in the ensuing calendar year. The auditor of state shall transfer from the state general revenue fund to the Vietnam Conflict Compensation Bond Retirement Fund, without appropriation, an amount equal to the amount so certified. The Vietnam Conflict Compensation Bond Retirement Fund shall be paid out without appropriation by the General Assembly, upon the order of the commissioners for the purpose of the payment, or retirement in other manner, of said bonds or notes and interest thereon.

The Vietnam Conflict Compensation Fund shall be paid out upon order of the commissioners, without appropriation by the General Assembly, in payment of the expenses of administering this section, and as compensation as follows: every person, except persons ordered to active duty for training only, who has served on active duty in the armed forces of the United States at any time between August 5, 1964 and July 1, 1973, or who has served on active duty in the armed forces of the United States in Vietnam service, and who, at the time of commencing such service, was and had been a resident of the state for at least one year immediately preceding the commencement of such service, and (1) who was separated from such service under honorable conditions, (2) who is still in such service, or (3) who has been retired, is entitled to receive compensation of ten dollars for each month during which such person was in active domestic service during the compensable period, fifteen dollars for each month during which such person was in active foreign service, but not Vietnam service, during the compensable period, and twenty dollars for each month during which such person was in active Vietnam service. The maximum amount of cash payable to any qualified applicant, unless such applicant qualifies for a payment based upon missing in action or prisoner of war status or unless such applicant qualifies for a survivor's payment, is five hundred dollars. No compensation shall be paid under this section to any person who received from another state a bonus or compensation of a like nature or to any person who has not served on active duty in the armed forces of the United States during the compensable period for at least ninety days unless active duty within such compensable period was terminated as a result of injuries or illness sustained in Vietnam service. Compensation for a fraction of a month of service shall be paid on the basis of one-thirtieth of the appropriate monthly amounts for each day of such service. Persons medically discharged or medically retired from service due to combat related disabilities sustained in Vietnam service shall be paid five hundred dollars. Service in the Merchant Marine of the United States shall not be considered for the purpose of this section. As used in this section "domestic service" means service within the territorial limits of the fifty states, excluding sea duty; "foreign service" means service in all other places, excluding Vietnam service; and "Vietnam service" means military service within the Republic of Vietnam during the period between February 28, 1961 through July 1, 1973 or military service in southeast Asia for which hostile fire pay was awarded pursuant to Title 37, Section 310, United States Code, during the period February 28, 1961 through July 1, 1973.

No compensation shall be paid under this section to any person for any periods of time spent under penal confinement during the period of active duty.

Either the surviving spouse, or the surviving child or children, or the surviving parents, including persons standing in loco parentis for one year preceding commencement of service in the armed forces of the United States, of a deceased person shall be paid the same amount of compensation that the deceased would have been entitled to receive under this section, if living. If such deceased person's death is determined by the Veterans Administration of the United States to have been the result of injuries or illness sustained in Vietnam service his survivors as herein designated, are entitled to one thousand dollars, regardless of the amount of compensation which the deceased would have been entitled to receive under this section, if living. The amount of compensation payable to such survivors shall be payable only to one of the three groups of survivors herein designated in the order in which said groups are named.

Every person designated by the United States Department of Defense as missing in action as a result of honorable service or as held in enemy captivity or who is the spouse, or the child, or the parent, including persons standing in loco parentis for one year preceding commencement of service, of a person designated by the Department of Defense as missing in action as a result of honorable service or held in enemy captivity, is entitled to one thousand dollars in lieu of other cash benefits payable under this section. The amount of compensation payable to such claimants for such missing or captive person shall be payable only to one of the groups of claimants herein designated in the order in which said groups are named. No payment to any survivor of a person designated as missing in action as a result of honorable service or held in enemy captivity, while such person is held captive or is missing in action, shall prevent such missing or captive person from claiming and receiving a bonus of an equal amount upon his being released or located.

The General Assembly shall provide by law for an educational assistance bonus which may be taken in lieu of the cash bonus by any person who served on active duty in the armed forces of the United States and who qualifies for a cash bonus under this section. The educational assistance bonus shall offer financial assistance at any educational institution deemed appropriate by the General Assembly. Such financial assistance shall be equal to twice the amount of the cash bonus for which such person qualifies under this section.

No sale or assignment of any right or claim to compensation under this section shall be valid, no claims of creditors shall be enforceable against rights or claims to or payments of compensation under this section, and no fees shall be charged for services in connection with the prosecution of any right or claim to compensation or the collection of any compensation under this section.

The commissioners shall have complete charge of making payments of the compensation provided for in this section and shall adopt and promulgate regulations governing their procedure in connection therewith, including determinations as to who are proper beneficiaries and the amounts to which such beneficiaries are entitled, determinations as to whether an applicant has the necessary residence requirements, and such other regulations that are necessary and proper. All applications for payment of compensation or educational bonuses under this section shall be made to the commissioners before January 1, 1978.

The commissioners shall select and appoint such legal counsel and employees as are necessary, fix their compensation and prescribe their duties, and all such appointees shall serve at its pleasure. When practical, the commissioners shall employ Vietnam veterans to fill such positions.

The commissioners shall permit review of individual records of claims by representatives of recognized veterans organizations when authorized to do so by the applicant.

There is hereby transferred to the Vietnam Conflict Compensation Fund, for the purpose of defraying the immediate cost of administration and compensation, out of the funds known as the "Korean Conflict Compensation Fund" and the "Korean Conflict Compensation Bond Retirement Fund" created by Section 2d of Article VIII of the Ohio Constitution, the balance remaining after provision for payment of all outstanding bonds or notes, coupons, and charges.

The people of this state declare it to be their intention to in no manner affect or change any of the existing provisions of the constitution except as herein set forth. The provisions of this section shall be self executing. Upon payment of all valid claims for cash compensation made within the limitations of time as prescribed herein, the commissioners may transfer any funds in the Vietnam Conflict Compensation Fund to the Vietnam Conflict Compensation Bond Retirement Fund.

Upon retirement of all of the bonds or notes that may be issued hereunder and the payment of all valid claims for cash compensation made within the limitations of time as prescribed herein, the commissioners of the sinking fund shall make a final report to the General Assembly, and any balance remaining in any of the funds herein created and referred to shall be disposed of as shall be provided by law.

ISSUANCE OF BONDS FOR LOCAL GOVERNMENT PUBLIC INFRASTRUCTURE CAPITAL IMPROVEMENTS. (1987)

§2k (A) In addition to the authorization otherwise contained in Article VIII of the Ohio Constitution, the General Assembly may provide by law, in accordance with but subject to the limitations of this section, for the issuance of bonds and other obligations of the state for the purpose of financing or assisting in the financing of the cost of public infrastructure capital improvements of municipal corporations, counties, townships, and other governmental entities as designated by law. As used in this section public infrastructure capital improvements shall be limited to roads and bridges, waste water treatment systems, water supply systems, solid waste disposal facilities and storm water and sanitary collection, storage, and treatment facilities, including real property, interests in real property, facilities, and equipment related or incidental thereto. Capital improvements shall include without limitation the cost of acquisition, construction, reconstruction, expansion improvement, planning and equipping.

It is hereby determined that such public infrastructure capital improvements are necessary to preserve and expand the public capital infrastructure of such municipal corporations, counties, townships, and other governmental entities, ensure the public health, safety, and welfare, create and preserve jobs, enhance employment opportunities, and improve the economic welfare of the people of this state.

(B)(1) Not more than one hundred twenty million dollars principal amount of bonds and other obligations authorized under this section may be issued in any calendar year, provided that the aggregate total principal amount of bonds and other obligations authorized and issued under this section may not exceed one billion two hundred million dollars. Further limitations may be provided by law upon the amount of bonds that may be issued under this section in any year in order that the total debt charges of the state shall not exceed a proportion of general revenue fund expenditures that would adversely affect the credit rating of the state. If obligations are issued under this section to retire or refund obligations previously issued under this section, the new obligations shall not be counted against those calendar year or total issuance limitations to the extent that their principal amount does not exceed the principal amount of the obligations to be retired or refunded.

(2) Provision shall be made by law for the use to the extent practicable of Ohio products, materials, services, and labor in the making of any project financed, in whole or in part, under this section.

(C) The state may participate in any public infrastructure capital improvement under this section with municipal corporations, counties, townships, or other governmental entities, or any one or more of them. Such participation may be by grants, loans, or contributions to them for any of such capital improvements. The entire proceeds of the bonds shall be used for the public infrastructure capital improvements of municipal corporations, counties, townships, and other governmental entities, except to the extent that the General Assembly provides by law that the state may be reasonably compensated from such moneys for planning, financial management, or other administrative services performed in relation to the bond issuance.

(D)(1) Each issue of obligations issued under this section shall mature in not more than thirty years from the date of issuance, or, if issued to retire or refund other obligations issued under this section, within thirty years from the date the debt was originally contracted. If obligations are issued as notes in anticipation of the issuance of bonds, provision shall be made by law for the establishment and maintenance, during the period in which the notes are outstanding, of a special fund or funds in to which shall be paid, from the sources authorized for the payment of such bonds, the amount that would have been sufficient, if bonds maturing during a period of thirty years had been issued without such prior issuance of notes, to pay the principal that would have been payable on such bonds during such period. Such fund or funds shall be used solely for the payment of principal of such notes or of bonds in anticipation of which such notes have been issued.

(2) The obligations issued under this section are general obligations of the state. The full faith and credit, revenue, and taxing power of the state shall be pledged to the payment of the principal of and interest on such obligations as they become due hereinafter called debt service, and bond retirement fund provisions shall be made for payment of debt service. Provision shall be made by law for the sufficiency and appropriation, for purposes of paying debt service, of excises, taxes, and revenues so pledged to debt service, and for covenants to continue the levy, collection and application of sufficient excises, taxes, and revenues to the extent needed for such purpose. Notwithstanding Section 22 of Article II, Ohio Constitution, no further act of appropriation shall be necessary for that purpose. The obligations and the provision for the payment of debt service and repayment of any loans hereunder by governmental entities are not subject to Sections 5, 6, and 11 of Article XII Ohio Constitution.

(3) The moneys referred to in Section 5a of Article XII, Ohio Constitution, may not be pledged to the payment of debt service on obligations issued under authority of this section.

(4) The obligations issued under authority of this section, the transfer thereof, and the interest and other income therefrom, including any profit made on the sale thereof, shall at all times be free from taxation within the state.

(E) This section shall otherwise be implemented in the manner and to the extent provided by law by the General Assembly.

(1987)

PARKS, RECREATION, AND NATURAL RESOURCES PROJECT CAPITAL IMPROVEMENTS.
(1993)

§21 (A) In addition to the authorizations otherwise contained in Article VIII of the Ohio Constitution, the General Assembly shall provide by law, in accordance with and subject to the limitations of this section, for the issuance of bonds and other obligations of the state for the purpose of financing or assisting in the financing of the costs of capital improvements for state and local parks and land and water recreation facilities; soil and water restoration and protection, land management including preservation of natural areas and reforestation; water management including dam safety, stream and lake management, and flood control and flood damage reduction, fish and wildlife resource management; and other projects that enhance the use and enjoyment of natural resources by individuals. Capital improvements include without limitation the cost of acquisition, construction, reconstruction, expansion, improvement, planning, and equipping.

It is hereby determined that these capital improvements and provisions for them are necessary and appropriate to improve the quality of life of the people of this state, to better ensure the public health, safety, and welfare, and to create and preserve jobs and enhance employment opportunities.

(B)(1) Not more than fifty million dollars principal amount of obligations may be issued under this section in any fiscal year, and not more than two hundred million dollars principal amount may be outstanding at any one time. The limitations of this paragraph do not apply to any obligations authorized to be issued under this section to retire or refund obligations previously issued under this section, to the extent that their principal amount does not exceed the principal amount of the obligations to be retired or refunded.

(2) Each issue of obligations shall mature in not more than twenty-five years from the date of issuance, or, if issued to retire or refund other obligations issued under this section, within twenty-five years from the date the debt was originally contracted. If obligations are issued as bond anticipation notes, provision shall be made, by law or in the proceedings for the issuance of those notes, for the establishment and maintenance while the notes are outstanding of a special fund or funds into which there shall be paid, from the sources authorized for the payment of the bonds, the amount that would have been sufficient, if bonds maturing serially in each year over a period of twenty-five years had been issued without the prior issuance of the notes, to pay the principal that would have been payable on those bonds during that period; such fund or funds shall be used solely for the payment of principal of those notes or of the bonds anticipated.

(C) The state may participate by grants or contributions in financing capital improvements under this section made by local government entities. Of the proceeds of the first two hundred million dollars principal amount in obligations issued under this section for capital improvements, at least twenty per cent shall be allocated to grants or contributions to local government entities for such capital improvements.

(D) The obligations issued under this section are general obligations of the state. The full faith and credit, revenue, and taxing power of the state shall be pledged to the payment of the principal of and interest and other accreted amounts on those obligations as they become due, and bond retirement fund provisions shall be made for payment of that debt service. Provision shall be made by law for the sufficiency and appropriation for purposes of paying that debt service, of excises, taxes, and revenues so pledged to that debt service, and for covenants to continue the levy, collection, and application of sufficient excises, taxes, and revenues to the extent needed for that purpose. Notwithstanding Section 22 of Article II, Ohio Constitution, no further act of appropriation shall be necessary for that purpose. The moneys referred to in Section 5a of Article XII, Ohio Constitution, may not be pledged to the payment of that debt service. The obligations and the provisions for the payment of debt service on them are not subject to Sections 5, 6, and 11 of Article XII Ohio Constitution, and, with respect to the purposes to which their proceeds are to be applied, are not subject to Sections 4 and 6 of Article VIII, Ohio Constitution.

(E) Obligations issued under authority of this section, the transfer thereof, and the interest and other income and accreted amounts therefrom including any profit made on the sale thereof, shall at all times be free from taxation within the state.

(F) This section shall be implemented in the manner and to the extent provided by law by the General Assembly.

ISSUANCE OF GENERAL OBLIGATIONS. (1995)

§2m (A) In addition to the authorizations otherwise contained in Article VIII of the Ohio Constitution, the general assembly may provide by law, in accordance with but subject to the limitations of this section, for the issuance of bonds and other obligations of the state for the purpose of financing or assisting in the financing of the cost of public infrastructure capital improvements of municipal corporations, counties, townships, and other governmental entities as designated by law, and the cost of highway capital improvements. As used in this section, public infrastructure capital improvements shall be limited to roads and bridges, waste water treatment systems, water supply systems, solid waste disposal facilities, and storm water and sanitary collection, storage, and treatment facilities, including real property, interests in real property, facilities, and equipment related to or incidental thereto, and shall include without limitation the cost of acquisition, construction, reconstruction, expansion, improvement, planning, and equipping. As used in this section, highway capital improvements shall be limited to highways, including those on the state highway system and urban extensions thereof, those within or leading to public parks or recreation areas, and those within or leading to municipal corporations, and shall include without limitation the cost of acquisition, construction, reconstruction, expansion, improvement, planning, and equipping.

It is hereby determined that such public infrastructure capital improvements and highway capital improvements are necessary to preserve and expand the public capital infrastructure of the state and its municipal corporations, counties, townships, and other governmental entities, ensure the public health, safety, and welfare, create and preserve jobs, enhance employment opportunities, and improve the economic welfare of the people of this state.

(B) Not more than one hundred twenty million dollars principal amount of the infrastructure obligations authorized to be issued under this section, plus the principal amount of infrastructure obligations that in any prior fiscal years could have been but were not issued within the one-hundred-twenty-million-dollar fiscal year limit, may be issued in any fiscal year, provided that the aggregate total principal amount of infrastructure obligations issued under this section for public infrastructure capital improvements may not exceed one billion two hundred million dollars; and provided further that no infrastructure obligations shall be issued pursuant to this section until at least one billion one hundred ninety-nine million five hundred thousand dollars aggregate principal amount of obligations have been issued pursuant to section 2k of Article VIII. Not more than two hundred twenty million dollars principal amount of highway obligations authorized to be issued under this section, plus the principal amount of highway obligations that in any prior fiscal years could have been but were not issued within the two-hundred-twenty-million-dollar fiscal year limit, may be issued in any fiscal year, and not more than one billion two hundred million dollars principal amount of highway obligations issued under this section may be outstanding at any one time. Further limitations may be provided by law upon the amount of infrastructure obligations and highway obligations, hereinafter collectively called obligations, that may be issued under this section in any fiscal year in order that the total debt charges of the state payable from the general revenue fund shall not exceed a proportion of general revenue fund expenditures that would adversely affect the credit rating of the state. If obligations are issued under this section to retire or refund obligations previously issued under this section, the new obligations shall not be counted against those fiscal year or total issuance limitations to the extent that their principal amount does not exceed the principal amount of the obligations to be retired or refunded.

Provision shall be made by law for the use to the extent practicable of Ohio products, materials, services, and labor in the making of any project financed, in whole or in part, under this section.

(C) The state may participate in any public infrastructure capital improvement or highway capital improvement under this section with municipal corporations, counties, townships, or other governmental entities as designated by law, or any one or more of them. Such participation may be by grants, loans, or contributions to them for any such capital improvements. The entire proceeds of the infrastructure obligations shall be used for public infrastructure capital improvements of municipal corporations, counties, townships, and other governmental entities, except to the extent that the general assembly provides by law that the state may reasonably be compensated from such moneys for planning, financial management, or administrative services performed in relation to the issuance of infrastructure obligations.

(D) Each issue of obligations shall mature in not more than thirty years from the date of issuance, or, if issued to retire or refund other obligations, within thirty years from the date the debt originally was contracted. If obligations are issued as notes in anticipation of the issuance of bonds, provision shall be made by law for the establishment and maintenance, during the period in which the notes are outstanding, of a special fund or funds into which shall be paid, from the sources authorized for the payment of such bonds, the amount that would have been sufficient, if bonds maturing during a period of thirty years had been issued without such prior issuance of notes, to pay the principal that would have been payable on such bonds during such period. Such fund or funds shall be used solely for the payment of principal of such notes or bonds in anticipation of which such notes have been issued.

The obligations are general obligations of the state. The full faith and credit, revenue, and taxing power of the state shall be pledged to the payment of the principal of and premium and interest and other accreted amounts on outstanding obligations as they become due, hereinafter called debt service, and bond retirement fund provisions shall be made for payment of debt service. Provision shall be made by law for the sufficiency and appropriation, for purposes of paying debt service, of excises, taxes, and revenues so pledged to debt service, and for covenants to continue the levy, collection, and application of sufficient excises, taxes, and revenues to the extent needed for such purpose. Notwithstanding Section 22 of Article II, Ohio Constitution, no further act of appropriation shall be necessary for that purpose. The obligations and the provision for the payment of debt service, and repayment by governmental entities of any loans made under this section are not subject to Sections 5, 6, and 11 of Article XII, Ohio Constitution.

The moneys referred to in Section 5a of Article XII, Ohio Constitution may be pledged to the payment of debt service on highway obligations, but may not be pledged to the payment of debt service on infrastructure obligations. In each year that moneys referred to in Section 5a of Article XII, Ohio Constitution pledged to the payment of debt service on highway obligations issued under this section are available for such purpose, such moneys shall be appropriated thereto and the required application of any other excises and taxes shall be reduced in corresponding amount.

The obligations issued under authority of this section, the transfer thereof, and the interest, interest equivalent, and other income and accreted amounts therefrom, including any profit made on the sale, exchange, or other disposition thereof, shall at all times be free from taxation within the state.

(E) This section shall otherwise be implemented in the manner and to the extent provided by law by the general assembly, including provision for the procedure for incurring and issuing obligations, separately or in combination with other state obligations, and refunding, retiring, and evidencing obligations.

(F) The authorizations in this section are in addition to authorizations contained in other sections of Article VIII, Ohio Constitution, are in addition to and not a limitation upon the authority of the general assembly under other provisions of this constitution, and do not impair any law previously enacted by the general assembly, except that after December 31, 1996, no additional highway obligations of the state may be issued for any highway purposes under Section 2i of Article VIII, Ohio Constitution, except to refund highway obligations issued under section 2i that are outstanding on that date.

FACILITIES FOR SYSTEM OF COMMON SCHOOLS AND FACILITIES FOR STATE-SUPPORTED AND STATE-ASSISTED INSTITUTIONS OF HIGHER EDUCATION. (1999)

§2n (A) The General Assembly may provide by law, subject to the limitations of and in accordance with this section, for the issuance of bonds and other obligations of the state for the purpose of paying costs of facilities for a system of common schools throughout the state and facilities for state-supported and state-assisted institutions of higher education. As used in this section, "costs" includes, without limitation, the costs of acquisition, construction, improvement, expansion, planning, and equipping.

(B) Each obligation issued under this section shall mature no later than the thirty-first day of December of the twenty-fifth calendar year after its issuance except that obligations issued to refund other obligations shall mature not later than the thirty-first day of December of the twenty-fifth calendar year after the year in which the original obligation to pay was issued or entered into.

(C) Obligations issued under this section are general obligations of the state. The full faith and credit, revenue, and taxing power of the state shall be pledged to the payment of debt service on those outstanding obligations as it becomes due. For purposes of the full and timely payment of that debt service, appropriate provisions shall be made or authorized by law for bond retirement funds, for the sufficiency and appropriation of excises, taxes, and revenues so pledged to that debt service, for which purpose, notwithstanding Section 22 of Article II of the Ohio Constitution, no further act of appropriation shall be necessary, and for covenants to continue the levy, collection, and application of sufficient excises, taxes, and revenues to the extent needed for that purpose. Those obligations and the provisions for the payment of debt service on them are not subject to Sections 5, 6, and 11 of Article XII of the Ohio Constitution. Moneys referred to in Section 5a of Article XII of the Ohio Constitution may not be pledged or used for the payment of the debt service on those obligations. Moneys consisting of net state lottery proceeds may be pledged or used for payment of debt service on obligations issued under this section to pay costs of facilities for a system of common schools, but not on obligations issued under this section to pay costs of facilities for state-supported and state-assisted institutions of higher education.

In the case of the issuance of any of those obligations as bond anticipation notes, provision shall be made by law or in the bond or note proceedings for the establishment and the maintenance, during the period the notes are outstanding, of special funds into which there shall be paid, from the sources authorized for payment of the bonds anticipated, the amount that would have been sufficient to pay the principal that would have been payable on those bonds during that period if bonds maturing serially in each year over the maximum period of maturity referred to in division (B) of this section had been issued without the prior issuance of the notes. Those special funds and investment income on them shall be used solely for the payment of principal of those notes or of the bonds anticipated.

(D) As used in this section, “debt service” means principal and interest and other accreted amounts payable on the obligations referred to.

(E) Obligations issued under this section, their transfer, and the interest, interest equivalent, and other income or accreted amounts on them, including any profit made on their sale, exchange, or other disposition, shall at all times be free from taxation within the state.

(F) This section shall be implemented in the manner and to the extent provided by the General Assembly by law, including provision for the procedure for incurring, refunding, retiring, and evidencing obligations issued as referred to in this section. The total principal amount of obligations issued under this section shall be as determined by the General Assembly, subject to the limitation provided for in Section 17 of this article.

(G) The authorizations in this section are in addition to authorizations contained in other sections of this article, are in addition to and not a limitation upon the authority of the General Assembly under other provisions of this Constitution, and do not impair any law previously enacted by the General Assembly.

ISSUANCE OF BONDS AND OTHER OBLIGATIONS FOR ENVIRONMENTAL CONSERVATION AND REVITALIZATION PURPOSES. (2000)

§2o (A) It is determined and confirmed that the environmental and related conservation, preservation, and revitalization purposes referred to in divisions (A)(1) and (2) of this section, and provisions for them, are proper public purposes of the state and local governmental entities and are necessary and appropriate means to improve the quality of life and the general and economic well-being of the people of this state; to better ensure the public health, safety, and welfare; to protect water and other natural resources; to provide for the conservation and preservation of natural and open areas and farmlands, including by making urban areas more desirable or suitable for development and revitalization; to control, prevent, minimize, clean up, or remediate certain contamination of or pollution from lands in the state and water contamination or pollution; to provide for safe and productive urban land use or reuse; to enhance the availability, public use, and enjoyment of natural areas and resources; and to create and preserve jobs and enhance employment opportunities. Those purposes are:

(1) Conservation purposes, meaning conservation and preservation of natural areas, open spaces, and farmlands and other lands devoted to agriculture, including by acquiring land or interests therein; provision of state and local park and recreation facilities, and other actions that permit and enhance the availability, public use, and enjoyment of natural areas and open spaces in Ohio; and land, forest, water, and other natural resource management projects;

(2) Revitalization purposes, meaning providing for and enabling the environmentally safe and productive development and use or reuse of publicly and privately owned lands, including those within urban areas, by the remediation or clean up, or planning and assessment for remediation or clean up, of contamination, or addressing, by clearance, land acquisition or assembly, infrastructure, or otherwise, that or other property conditions or circumstances that may be deleterious to the public health and safety and the environment and water and other natural resources, or that preclude or inhibit environmentally sound or economic use or reuse of the property.

(B) The General Assembly may provide by law, subject to the limitations of and in accordance with this section, for the issuance of bonds and other obligations of the state for the purpose of paying costs of projects implementing those purposes.

(1) Not more than two hundred million dollars principal amount of obligations issued under this section for conservation purposes may be outstanding in accordance with their terms at any one time. Not more than fifty million dollars principal amount of those obligations, plus the principal amount of those obligations that in any prior fiscal year could have been but were not issued within the fifty-million-dollar fiscal year limit, may be issued in any fiscal year. Those obligations shall be general obligations of the state and the full faith and credit, revenue, and taxing power of the state shall be pledged to the payment of debt service on them as it becomes due, all as provided in this section.

(2) Not more than two hundred million dollars principal amount of obligations issued under this section for revitalization purposes may be outstanding in accordance with their terms at any one time. Not more than fifty million dollars principal amount of those obligations, plus the principal amount of those obligations that in any prior fiscal year could have been but were not issued within the fifty-million-dollar fiscal year limit, may be issued in any fiscal year. Those obligations shall not be general obligations of the state and the full faith and credit, revenue, and taxing power of the state shall not be pledged to the payment of debt service on them. Those obligations shall be secured by a pledge of all or such portion of designated revenues and receipts of the state as the General Assembly authorizes, including receipts from designated taxes or excises, other state revenues from sources other than state taxes or excises, such as from state enterprise activities, and payments for or related to those revitalization purposes made by or on behalf of local governmental entities, responsible parties, or others. The General Assembly shall provide by law for prohibitions or restrictions on the granting or lending of proceeds of obligations issued under division (B)(2) of this section to parties to pay costs of cleanup or remediation of contamination for which they are determined to be responsible.

(C) For purposes of the full and timely payment of debt service on state obligations authorized by this section, appropriate provision shall be made or authorized by law for bond retirement funds, for the sufficiency and appropriation of state excises, taxes, and revenues pledged to the debt service on the respective obligations, for which purpose, notwithstanding Section 22 of Article II of the Ohio Constitution, no further act of appropriation shall be necessary, and for covenants to continue the levy, collection, and application of sufficient state excises, taxes, and revenues to the extent needed for those purposes. Moneys referred to in Section 5a of Article XII of the Ohio Constitution may not be pledged or used for the payment of debt service on those obligations.

As used in this section, “debt service” means principal and interest and other accreted amounts payable on the obligations referred to.

(D)(1) Divisions (B) and (C) of this section shall be implemented in the manner and to the extent provided by the General Assembly by law, including provision for procedures for incurring, refunding, retiring, and evidencing state obligations issued pursuant to this section. Each state obligation issued pursuant to this section shall mature no later than the thirty-first day of December of the twenty-fifth calendar year after its issuance, except that obligations issued to refund or retire other obligations shall mature not later than the thirty-first day of December of the twenty-fifth calendar year after the year in which the original obligation to pay was issued or entered into.

(2) In the case of the issuance of state obligations under this section as bond anticipation notes, provision shall be made by law or in the bond or note proceedings for the establishment, and the maintenance during the period the notes are outstanding, of special funds into which there shall be paid, from the sources authorized for payment of the particular bonds anticipated, the amount that would have been sufficient to pay the principal that would have been payable on those bonds during that period if bonds maturing serially in each year over the maximum period of maturity referred to in division (D)(1) of this section had been issued without the prior issuance of the notes. Those special funds and investment income on them shall be used solely for the payment of principal of those notes or of the bonds anticipated.

(E) In addition to projects undertaken by the state, the state may participate or assist, by grants, loans, loan guarantees, or contributions, in the financing of projects for purposes referred to in this section that are undertaken by local governmental entities or by others, including, but not limited to, not-for-profit organizations, at the direction or authorization of local governmental entities. Obligations of the state issued under this section and the provisions for payment of debt service on them, including any payments by local governmental entities, are not subject to Sections 6 and 11 of Article XII of the Ohio Constitution. Those obligations, and obligations of local governmental entities issued for the public purposes referred to in this section, and provisions for payment of debt service on them, and the purposes and uses to which the proceeds of those state or local obligations, or moneys from other sources, are to be or may be applied, are not subject to Sections 4 and 6 of Article VIII of the Ohio Constitution.

(F) The powers and authority granted or confirmed by and under this section, and the determinations and confirmations in this section, are independent of, in addition to, and not in derogation of or a limitation on, powers, authority, determinations, or confirmations under laws, charters, ordinances, or resolutions, or by or under other provisions of the Ohio Constitution including, without limitation, Section 36 of Article II, Sections 2i, 2l, 2m, and 13 of Article VIII, and Articles X and XVIII, and do not impair any previously adopted provision of the Ohio Constitution or any law previously enacted by the General Assembly.

(G) Obligations issued under this section, their transfer, and the interest, interest equivalent, and other income or accreted amounts on them, including any profit made on their sale, exchange, or other disposition, shall at all times be free from taxation within the state.

§2p (A) It is determined and confirmed that the development purposes referred to in this division, and provisions for them, are proper public purposes of the state and local governmental entities and are necessary and appropriate means to create and preserve jobs and enhance employment and educational opportunities; to improve the quality of life and the general and economic well-being of all the people and businesses in all areas of this state, including economically disadvantaged businesses and individuals; and to preserve and expand the public capital infrastructure; all to better ensure the public health, safety, and welfare. Those purposes are:

(1) Public infrastructure capital improvements, which shall be limited to roads and bridges, waste water treatment systems, water supply systems, solid waste disposal facilities, and storm water and sanitary collection, storage, and treatment facilities, including real property, interests in real property, facilities, and equipment related to or incidental thereto, and shall include, without limitation, the cost of acquisition, construction, reconstruction, expansion, improvement, planning, and equipping;

(2) Research and development in support of Ohio industry, commerce, and business (hereinafter referred to as “research and development purposes”), which shall include, without limitation, research and product innovation, development, and commercialization through efforts by and collaboration among Ohio business and industry, state and local public entities and agencies, public and private education institutions, or research organizations and institutions, all as may be further provided for by state or local law, but excluding purposes provided for in Section 15 of Article VIII, Ohio Constitution; and

(3) Development of sites and facilities in Ohio for and in support of industry, commerce, distribution, and research and development purposes.

(B) The General Assembly may provide by law, in accordance with but subject to the limitations of this section, for the issuance of general obligation bonds and other obligations of the state for the purpose of financing or assisting in the financing of the cost of projects implementing those purposes.

(1) Not more than one billion three hundred fifty million dollars principal amount of state general obligations may be issued under this section for public infrastructure capital improvements. Not more than one hundred twenty million dollars principal amount of those obligations may be issued in each of the first five fiscal years of issuance and not more than one hundred fifty million dollars principal amount of those obligations may be issued in each of the next five fiscal years of issuance, plus in each case the principal amount of those obligations that in any prior fiscal year could have been but were not issued within those fiscal year limits. No infrastructure obligations may be issued pursuant to this division and division (C) of this section until at least one billion one hundred ninety-nine million five hundred thousand dollars aggregate principal amount of state infrastructure obligations have been issued pursuant to Section 2m of Article VIII, Ohio Constitution.

(2) Not more than five hundred million dollars principal amount of state general obligations may be issued under this section for research and development purposes. Not more than one hundred million dollars principal amount of those obligations may be issued in each of the first three-fiscal years of issuance, and not more than fifty million dollars principal amount of those obligations may be issued in any other fiscal year, plus in each case the principal amount of those obligations that in any prior fiscal year could have been but were not issued.

(3) Not more than one hundred fifty million dollars principal amount of state general obligations may be issued under this section for development of sites and facilities for industry, commerce, distribution, and research and development purposes. Not more than thirty million dollars principal amount of those obligations may be issued in each of the first three fiscal years of issuance, and not more than fifteen million dollars principal amount of those obligations may be issued in any other fiscal year, plus in each case the principal amount of those obligations that in any prior fiscal year could have been but were not issued.

(C) Each issue of state general obligations for public infrastructure capital improvements or development of sites and facilities shall mature in not more than thirty years from the date of issuance, and each issue of state general obligations for research and development purposes shall mature in not more than twenty years from the date of issuance; or, if issued to retire or refund other obligations, within that number of years from the date the debt being retired or refunded was originally issued. If state general obligations are issued as notes in anticipation of the issuance of bonds, provision shall be made by law for the establishment and maintenance, during the period in which the notes are outstanding, of a special fund or funds into which shall be paid, from the sources authorized for the payment of such bonds, the amount that would have been sufficient, if bonds maturing during the permitted period of years had been issued without such prior issuance of notes, to pay the principal that would have been payable on such bonds during such period. Such fund or funds shall be used solely for the payment of principal of such notes or bonds in anticipation of which such notes have been issued. Notwithstanding anything to the contrary in Section 2k or 2m of Article VIII, obligations issued under this section or Section 2k or 2m to retire or refund obligations previously issued under this section or Section 2k or 2m shall not be counted against the fiscal year or total issuance limitations provided in this section or Section 2k or 2m, as applicable.

The obligations issued under this division and division (B) of this section are general obligations of the state. The full faith and credit, revenue, and taxing power of the state shall be pledged to the payment of the principal of and premium and interest and other accreted amounts on outstanding obligations as they become due (hereinafter called debt service), and bond retirement fund provisions shall be made for payment of that debt service. Provision shall be made by law for the sufficiency and appropriation, for purposes of paying debt service, of excises, taxes, and revenues so pledged or committed to debt service, and for covenants to continue the levy, collection, and application of sufficient excises, taxes, and revenues to the extent needed for that purpose. Notwithstanding Section 22 of Article II, Ohio Constitution, no further act of appropriation shall be necessary for that purpose. The obligations and the provision for the payment of debt service, and repayment by governmental entities of any loans made under this section, are not subject to Sections 5, 6, and 11 of Article XII, Ohio Constitution. Moneys referred to in Section 5a of Article XII, Ohio Constitution may not be pledged or used for the payment of that debt service. Debt service on obligations issued for research and development purposes and for development of sites and facilities shall not be included in the calculation of total debt service for purposes of division (A) of Section 17 of Article VIII, Ohio Constitution.

(D) (1) The state may participate in any public infrastructure capital improvement under this section with municipal corporations, counties, townships, or other governmental entities as designated by law, or any one or more of them. Such participation may be by grants, loans, or contributions to them for any such capital improvements. The entire proceeds of the infrastructure obligations shall be used for public infrastructure capital improvements of municipal corporations, counties, townships, and other governmental entities, except to the extent that the General Assembly provides by law that the state may reasonably be compensated from such moneys for planning, financial management, or administrative services performed in relation to the issuance of infrastructure obligations.

(2) Implementation of the research and development purposes includes supporting any and all related matters and activities, including: attracting researchers and research teams by endowing research chairs or otherwise; activities to develop and commercialize products and processes; intellectual property matters such as copyrights and patents; property interests, including time sharing arrangements; and financial rights and matters such as royalties, licensing, and other financial gain or sharing resulting from research and development purposes. State and local public moneys, including the proceeds of bonds, notes, and other obligations, may be used to pay costs of or in support of or related to these research and development purposes, including, without limitation, capital formation, direct operating costs, costs of research and facilities, including interests in real property therefor, and support for public and private institutions of higher education, research organizations or institutions, and private sector entities. The exercise of these powers by the state and state agencies, including state-supported and state-assisted institutions of higher education, and local public entities and agencies, may be jointly or in coordination with each other, with researchers or research organizations and institutions, with private institutions of higher education, with individuals, or with private sector entities. State and local public participation may be in such manner as the entity or agency determines, including by any one or a combination of grants, loans including loans to lenders or the purchase of loans, subsidies, contributions, advances, or guarantees, or by direct investments of or payment or reimbursement from available moneys, or by providing staffing or other support, including computer or other technology capacity, or equipment or facilities, including interests in real property therefor, and either alone or jointly, in collaborative or cooperative ventures, with other public agencies and private sector entities including not for profit entities. In addition to other state-level monetary participation as referred to in this section or otherwise, state-supported and state-assisted institutions of higher education may, as authorized from time to time by the General Assembly, issue obligations to pay costs of participating in and implementing research and development purposes. In addition to the other obligations authorized in or pursuant to this section, the General Assembly also may authorize the state and state agencies and local public entities and agencies, and corporations not for profit designated by any of them as such agencies or instrumentalities, to issue obligations to borrow and loan or otherwise provide moneys for research and development purposes, including, but not limited to, obligations for which moneys raised by taxation shall not be obligated or pledged for the payment of debt service and which are therefore not subject to Sections 5, 6, and 11 of Article XII, Ohio Constitution.

(3) Development of sites and facilities for and in support of industry, commerce, distribution, and research and development purposes includes acquisition of real estate and interests in real estate, site preparation including any necessary remediation and cleanup, constructing and improving facilities, and providing public infrastructure capital improvements and other transportation and communications infrastructure improvements for and in support of the use of those sites and facilities for those purposes. State and local public moneys, including the proceeds of bonds, notes, and other obligations, may be used to pay costs of those purposes. The exercise of these powers by the state and state agencies and local public entities and agencies, may be jointly or in coordination with each other, and with individuals or private sector business entities. State and local public participation may be in such manner as the entity or agency determines, including by any one or a combination of grants, loans including loans to lenders or the purchase of loans, subsidies, contributions, advances, or guarantees, or by direct investments of or payment or reimbursement from available moneys. In addition to other state-level monetary participation as referred to in this section or otherwise, state-supported and state-assisted institutions of higher education, and local public entities and agencies may, as authorized from time to time by the General Assembly, issue obligations to pay costs of participating in and implementing the development of sites and facilities.

(E) Obligations issued under authority of this section for research and development purposes and site and facility development purposes, provisions for the payment of debt service on them, the purposes and uses to which and the manner in which the proceeds of those obligations or moneys from other sources are to or may be applied, and other implementation of those development purposes as referred to in this section, are not subject to Sections 4 and 6 of Article VIII, Ohio Constitution. Obligations issued under authority of this section, the transfer thereof, and the interest, interest equivalent, and other income and accreted amounts therefrom, including any profit made on the sale, exchange, or other disposition thereof, shall at all times be free from taxation within the state.

(F) This section shall otherwise be implemented in the manner and to the extent provided by law by the General Assembly, including provision for the procedure for incurring and issuing obligations, separately or in combination with other obligations, and refunding, retiring, and evidencing obligations; provision for ensuring the accountability of all state funding provided for the development purposes referred to in division (A) of this section; provision for restricting or limiting the taking of private property under Section 19 of Article I for disposition to private sector entities for the purposes identified in divisions (A)(2) and (3) of this section or restricting the disposition of that property to private sector entities or individuals; and provision for the implementation of the development purposes referred to in division (A) of this section to benefit people and businesses otherwise qualified for receipt of funding for the development purposes referred to in division (A) of this section, including economically disadvantaged businesses and individuals in all areas of this state, including by the use to the extent practicable of Ohio products, materials, services, and labor.

(G) The powers and authority granted or confirmed by and under, and the determinations in, this section are independent of, in addition to, and not in derogation of or a limitation on, powers, authority, determinations, or confirmations under laws or under other provisions of the Ohio Constitution including, without limitation, Section 7 of Article 1, Section 5 of Article VI, Sections 2i, 2n, 2o, 13, and 15 of Article VIII, Article X, and Section 3 of Article XVIII, and do not impair any previously adopted provisions of the Ohio Constitution or any law previously enacted by the General Assembly or by a local public agency.

(B) The General Assembly may provide by law, subject to the limitations of and in accordance with this section, for the issuance of bonds and other obligations of the state for the purpose of paying costs of projects implementing those purposes.

(1) Not more than two hundred million dollars principal amount of obligations issued under this section for conservation purposes may be outstanding in accordance with their terms at any one time. Not more than fifty million dollars principal amount of those obligations, plus the principal amount of those obligations that in any prior fiscal year could have been but were not issued within the fifty-million-dollar fiscal year limit, may be issued in any fiscal year. Those obligations shall be general obligations of the state and the full faith and credit, revenue, and taxing power of the state shall be pledged to the payment of debt service on them as it becomes due, all as provided in this section.

(2) Not more than two hundred million dollars principal amount of obligations issued under this section for revitalization purposes may be outstanding in accordance with their terms at any one time. Those obligations shall not be general obligations of the state and the full faith and credit, revenue, and taxing power of the state shall not be pledged to the payment of debt service on them. Those obligations shall be secured by a pledge of all or such portion of designated revenues and receipts of the state as the General Assembly authorizes, including receipts from designated taxes or excises, other state revenues from sources other than state taxes or excises, such as from state enterprise activities, and payments for or related to those revitalization purposes made by or on behalf of local governmental entities, responsible parties, or others. The general assembly shall provide by law for prohibitions or restrictions on the granting or lending of proceeds of obligations issued under division (B)(2) of this section to parties to pay costs of cleanup or remediation of contamination for which they are determined to be responsible.

(C) For purposes of the full and timely payment of debt service on state obligations authorized by this section, appropriate provision shall be made or authorized by law for bond retirement funds, for the sufficiency and appropriation of state excises, taxes, and revenues pledged to the debt service on the respective obligations, for which purpose, notwithstanding Section 22 of Article II of the Ohio Constitution, no further act of appropriation shall be necessary, and for covenants to continue the levy, collection, and application of sufficient state excises, taxes, and revenues to the extent needed for those purposes. Moneys referred to in Section 5a of Article XII of the Ohio Constitution may not be pledged or used for the payment of debt service on those obligations.

As used in this section, “debt service” means principal and interest and other accreted amounts payable on the obligations referred to.

(D)(1) Divisions (B) and (C) of this section shall be implemented in the manner and to the extent provided by the General Assembly by law, including provision for procedures for incurring, refunding, retiring, and evidencing state obligations issued pursuant to this section. Each state obligation issued pursuant to this section shall mature no later than the thirty-first day of December of the twenty-fifth calendar year after its issuance, except that obligations issued to refund or retire other obligations shall mature not later than the thirty-first day of December of the twenty-fifth calendar year after the year in which the original obligation to pay was issued or entered into.

Those special funds and investment income on them shall be used solely for the payment of principal of those notes or of the bonds anticipated.

(E) In addition to projects undertaken by the state, the state may participate or assist, by grants, loans, loan guarantees, or contributions, in the financing of projects for purposes referred to in this section that are undertaken by local governmental entities or by others, including, but not limited to, not-for-profit organizations, at the direction or authorization of local governmental entities. (G) Obligations issued under this section, their transfer, and the interest, interest equivalent, and other income or accreted amounts on them, including any profit made on their sale, exchange, or other disposition, shall at all times be free from taxation within the state.

PERSIAN GULF, AFGHANISTAN, AND IRAQ CONFLICTS COMPENSATION FUND (2009)
§2r (A) Upon the request of the department of veterans services, the Ohio public facilities commission shall proceed to issue and sell, from time to time, bonds or other obligations of the state in such amounts as are necessary to provide all or part of the funds as may be required to pay the compensation established by, and the expenses of administering, this section. The original principal amount of obligations so issued shall not exceed two hundred million dollars, provided that obligations issued under this section to retire or refund obligations previously issued under this section shall not be counted against that issuance limitation. The full faith and credit, revenue, and taxing power of the state is hereby pledged for payment of debt service on such obligations issued under this section, and the state covenants to continue the levy, collection, and application of sufficient state excises, taxes, and revenues to the extent needed for those purposes; provided that moneys referred to in Section 5a of Article XII of the Constitution of the State of Ohio may not be pledged or used for the payment of debt service. As used in this section, “debt service” means principal and interest and other accreted amounts payable on the obligations authorized by this section.

Each obligation so issued shall mature not later than the thirty-first day of December of the fifteenth calendar year after its issuance, except that obligations issued to refund obligations under this section shall mature not later than the thirty-first day of December of the fifteenth calendar year after the year in which the original obligation was issued. Except for obligations issued under this section to retire or refund obligations previously issued under this section, no obligations shall be issued under this section later than December 31, 2013.

In the case of the issuance of any obligations under this section as bond anticipation notes, provision shall be made in the bond or note proceedings for the establishment, and the maintenance during the period the notes are outstanding, of special funds into which there shall be paid, from the sources authorized for payment of the bonds anticipated, the amount that would have been sufficient to pay the principal that would have been payable on those bonds during that period if bonds maturing serially in each year over the maximum period of maturity referred to in this section had been issued without the prior issuance of the notes. Those special funds and investment income on them shall be used solely for the payment of debt service on those notes or the bonds anticipated.

The obligations issued under this section, their transfer, and the interest, interest equivalent, and other income thereon, including any profit made on their sale, exchange, or other disposition, shall at all times be free from taxation within the state.

Such obligations may be sold at public or private sale as determined by the Ohio public facilities commission.

(B) Out of the proceeds of the sale of all obligations, except those issued to refund or retire obligations previously issued under this section, the amount that represents accrued interest, if any, shall be paid into the state treasury into the Persian gulf, Afghanistan, and Iraq conflicts compensation bond retirement fund, which is hereby created. As determined at the time of sale, the amount that represents premium shall be paid into either the Persian gulf, Afghanistan, and Iraq conflicts compensation bond retirement fund or the Persian gulf, Afghanistan, and Iraq conflicts compensation fund, which is hereby created in the state treasury. The balance of the proceeds shall be paid into the Persian gulf, Afghanistan, and Iraq conflicts compensation fund. All proceeds of the sale of any obligations issued under this section to refund or retire obligations previously issued under this section shall be paid into the Persian gulf, Afghanistan, and Iraq conflicts compensation bond retirement fund and used to pay debt service on those outstanding obligations so refunded. The general assembly may appropriate and cause to be paid into the Persian gulf, Afghanistan, and Iraq conflicts compensation bond retirement fund or the Persian gulf, Afghanistan, and Iraq conflicts compensation fund, out of money in the treasury not otherwise appropriated, such amount as is proper for use for the purposes for which such funds are created. Except for amounts advanced by the general assembly to the Persian gulf, Afghanistan, and Iraq conflicts compensation fund with the express expectation of reimbursement from the proceeds of obligations paid into that fund, and except for amounts transferred under division (E) of this section for the purpose of defraying the immediate cost of administration and compensation, if the general assembly appropriates any funds to the Persian gulf, Afghanistan, and Iraq conflicts compensation fund prior to the time obligations have been issued in the original principal amount authorized in this section, that original principal amount authorized in this section shall be reduced by the amount of funds appropriated.

(C) On or before the fifteenth day of July of each fiscal year, the Ohio public facilities commission shall certify, or cause to be certified, to the director of budget and management the total amount of money required during the current fiscal year, together with all other money that will be available in the Persian gulf, Afghanistan, and Iraq conflicts compensation bond retirement fund, to meet in full all debt service and related financing costs on the obligations issued under this section. The director shall transfer from the general revenue fund to the Persian gulf, Afghanistan, and Iraq conflicts compensation bond retirement fund, without necessity of appropriation by the general assembly, an amount equal to the amount so certified, and those funds shall be used for the payment of the debt service.

(D)(1) The Persian gulf, Afghanistan, and Iraq conflicts compensation fund shall be paid out upon the order of the department of veterans services, without necessity of appropriation by the general assembly, in payment of the expenses of administering this section and as compensation as follows to each person who meets all of the following requirements:

(a) The person has served in active duty in the United States armed forces, except active duty for training only, at any time between August 2, 1990, and March 3, 1991, at any time between October 7, 2001, and the date determined by the president of the United States as the end of involvement of the United States armed forces in Afghanistan, or at any time between

(b) The person was an Ohio resident at the start of active duty service and is currently an Ohio resident.

(c) The person was separated from the United States armed forces under honorable conditions, is still serving in active duty service, or remains in any reserve component of the United States armed forces or in the Ohio national guard after serving on active duty.

A person who meets the requirements of divisions (D)(1)(a), (b), and (c) of this section is entitled to, and may apply to receive, compensation of fifty dollars for each month of active domestic or foreign service and one hundred dollars for each month of Persian gulf, Afghanistan, or Iraq service during the compensable periods. A person who is medically discharged or medically retired from service due to combat-related disabilities sustained during Persian gulf, Afghanistan, or Iraq service is entitled to, and may apply to receive, compensation of one thousand dollars. The maximum amount of cash payable to any person in active domestic or foreign service is five hundred dollars and the maximum amount of cash payable to any person in Persian gulf, Afghanistan, or Iraq service is one thousand dollars, unless the person qualifies for a survivor's payment or a payment based on missing in action or prisoner of war status under division (D)(2) or (D)(3) of this section. Compensation for a fraction of a month of service shall be paid on the basis of one-thirtieth of the appropriate monthly amount for each day of service.

(2) The surviving spouse, surviving child or children, or surviving parent or parents, including a person or persons standing in loco parentis for at least one year preceding commencement of service in the United States armed forces, is entitled to, and may apply to receive, the same amount of compensation that the person who served in the armed forces would have received under division (D)(1) of this section. If the United States department of veterans' affairs determines that the person's death was the result of injuries or illness sustained in Persian gulf, Afghanistan, or Iraq service, the person's survivors are entitled to, and may apply for, a survivor's payment of five thousand dollars, regardless of the amount of compensation that the deceased would have been entitled to receive under this section, if living. The survivor's payment shall be made to the surviving spouse. If there is no surviving spouse, the payment shall go to the surviving child or children. If there are no surviving children, the payment shall go to the surviving parent or parents or person or persons standing in loco parentis for at least one year preceding commencement of service in the United States armed forces.

(3) A person designated by the United States department of defense as missing in action as a result of honorable service or held in enemy captivity, or the spouse, child, or parent, including a person standing in loco parentis for at least one year preceding commencement of service in the United States armed forces, of a person designated as missing in action or held in enemy captivity, is entitled to, and may apply for, a payment of five thousand dollars. This payment replaces any other cash benefit payable under this section. While the person is missing or held captive, the payment shall be made to the person's spouse. If there is no spouse to claim the payment, payment shall be made to the person's child or children. If the person does not have children, payment shall be made to the person's parent or parents or person or persons standing in loco parentis for at least one year preceding commencement of service in the United States armed forces.

No payment to a spouse, child, parent, or person in loco parentis of a person designated as missing in action as a result of honorable service or held in enemy captivity, while the person is missing in action or held captive, shall prevent the missing or captive person from claiming and receiving a bonus of an equal amount on the person's release or location.

(4) Compensation shall not be paid under this section as follows:

(a) To any person who received from another state a bonus or compensation of a similar nature;

(b) To any person who served less than ninety days in the United States armed forces, unless active duty was terminated as a result of injuries or illness sustained during Persian gulf, Afghanistan, or Iraq service during the compensable period;

(c) To any person for any time period spent under penal confinement during the compensable period.

(5) No sale or assignment of any right or claim to compensation under this section shall be valid. No claims of creditors shall be enforceable against rights or claims to or payments of compensation under this section. No fees shall be charged for services in connection with the prosecution of any right or claim to compensation or the collection of any compensation under this section.

(6) All applications for payment of compensation under this section shall be made to the department of veterans services according to the following schedule:

The general assembly shall transfer necessary funds to the Persian gulf, Afghanistan, and Iraq conflicts compensation fund and to the department's operating budget, for the purpose of defraying the immediate cost of administration and compensation. Any funds so transferred shall not reduce the original principal amount of obligations that may be issued under this section.

On payment of all valid claims for cash compensation made within the time limitations under this section, the department may transfer any funds remaining in the Persian gulf, Afghanistan, and Iraq conflicts compensation fund to the Persian gulf, Afghanistan, and Iraq conflicts compensation bond retirement fund.

On retirement of all of the obligations issued under this section and payment of all valid claims for cash compensation made within the time limitations under this section, the department shall make a final report to the general assembly. Any balance remaining in the Persian gulf, Afghanistan, and Iraq conflicts compensation fund or the Persian gulf, Afghanistan, and Iraq conflicts compensation bond retirement fund shall be transferred or disposed of as provided by law.

Notwithstanding any other provision of this section to the contrary, valid claims for cash compensation made within the time limitations under this section shall be paid only if adequate funds remain in the Persian gulf, Afghanistan, and Iraq conflicts compensation fund.

As used in this division, “debt service” includes the debt service on the bonds to be issued under this article that are direct obligations of the state plus, if the obligations to be issued are bond anticipation notes, the debt service on the bonds anticipated, plus the debt service on all other outstanding bonds that are direct obligations of the state, to the extent that debt service on all those bonds and bonds anticipated is to be paid from the General Revenue Fund or net state lottery proceeds.

(B) The limitations of division (A) of this section shall not apply to a particular issue or amount of obligations if the limitations are waived as to that particular issue or amount by the affirmative vote of at least three-fifths of the members of each house of the General Assembly, or to obligations issued to retire bond anticipation notes that were issued when the requirements of division (A) of this section were originally met as estimated for the bonds anticipated.

(C) For purposes of division (A) of this section, debt contracted by the state pursuant to Section 2 of Article VIII of the Ohio Constitution to repel invasion, suppress insurrection, or to defend the state in war, shall not be included in the calculation of total debt service.

(D) For purposes of division (A) of this section, the General Assembly shall provide by law for computing the amounts required for payment of debt service, and may provide for estimating payments of debt service on bonds anticipated by notes, for including payments of debt service on obligations issued to refund or retire prior obligations in lieu of such payments on the prior refunded or retired obligations, and for the method of computing payments of debt service on any obligations required to be retired or for which sinking fund deposits are required prior to stated maturity. The Governor or the Governor's designee for such purpose shall determine and certify the fiscal year amounts required to be applied or set aside for payment of debt service, the obligations to which that debt service relates, the total estimated revenues of the state for the state General Revenue Fund and from net state lottery proceeds during the particular fiscal year, other financial data necessary for the purposes of computations under division (A) of this section, and the permitted latest maturity of obligations. That certification shall be conclusive for the purposes of the validity of any obligations issued under this article.

(2) "Debt service" means principal and interest and other accreted amounts payable on the obligations referred to.

Article X: County and Township Organizations

ORGANIZATION AND GOVERNMENT OF COUNTIES; COUNTY HOME RULE; SUBMISSION. (1933)

§1 The General Assembly shall provide by general law for the organization and government of counties, and may provide by general law alternative forms of county government. No alternative form shall become operative in any county until submitted to the electors thereof and approved by a majority of those voting thereon under regulations provided by law. Municipalities and townships shall have authority, with the consent of the county, to transfer to the county any of their powers or to revoke the transfer of any such power, under regulations provided by general law, but the rights of initiative and referendum shall be secured to the people of such municipalities or townships in respect of every measure making or revoking such transfer and to the people of such county in respect of every measure giving or withdrawing such consent.

TOWNSHIP OFFICERS; ELECTION; POWER. (1933)

§2 The General Assembly shall provide by general law for the election of such township officers as may be necessary. The trustees of townships shall have such powers of local taxation as may be prescribed by law. No money shall be drawn from any township treasury except by authority of law.

COUNTY CHARTERS; APPROVAL BY VOTERS. (1933, am. 1957)

§3 The people of any county may frame and adopt or amend a charter as provided in this article but the right of the initiative and referendum is reserved to the people of each county on all matters which such county may now or hereafter be authorized to control by legislative action. Every such charter shall provide the form of government of the county and shall determine which of its officers shall be elected and the manner of their election. It shall provide for the exercise of all powers vested in, and the performance of all duties imposed upon counties and county officers by law. Any such charter may provide for the concurrent or exclusive exercise by the county, in all or in part of its area, of all or of any designated powers vested by the constitution or laws of Ohio in municipalities; it may provide for the organization of the county as a municipal corporation; and in any such case it may provide for the succession by the county to the rights, properties, and obligations of municipalities and townships therein incident to the municipal power so vested in the county, and for the division of the county into districts for purposes of administration or of taxation or of both. Any charter or amendment which alters the form and offices of county government or which provides for the exercise by the county of power vested in municipalities by the constitution or laws of Ohio, or both, shall become effective if approved by a majority of the electors voting thereon. In case of conflict between the exercise of powers granted by such charter and the exercise of powers by municipalities or townships, granted by the constitution or general law, whether or not such powers are being exercised at the time of the adoption of the charter, the exercise of power by the municipality or township shall prevail. A charter or amendment providing for the exclusive exercise of municipal powers by the county or providing for the succession by the county to any property or obligation of any municipality or township without the consent of the legislative authority of such municipality or township shall become effective only when it shall have been approved by a majority of those voting thereon (1) in the county, (2) in the largest municipality, (3) in the county outside of such municipality, and (4) in counties having a population, based upon the latest preceding federal decennial census of 500,000 or less, in each of a majority of the combined total of municipalities and townships in the county (not included within any township any part of its area lying within a municipality).

COUNTY CHARTER COMMISSION; ELECTION, ETC. (1933, am. 1978)

§4 The legislative authority (which includes the Board of County Commissioners) of any county may by a two-thirds vote of its members, or upon petition of eight per cent of the electors of the county as certified by the election authorities of the county shall forthwith, by resolution submit to the electors of the county the question, "Shall a county charter commission be chosen?" The question shall be voted upon at the next general election, occurring not sooner than ninety-five days after certification of the resolution to the election authorities. The ballot containing the question shall bear no party designation. Provision shall be made thereon for the election to such commission from the county at large of fifteen electors if a majority of the electors voting on the question have voted in the affirmative.

Candidates for such commission shall be nominated by petition of one per cent of the electors of the county.

The petition shall be filed with the election authorities not less than seventy-five days prior to such election. Candidates shall be declared elected in the order of the number of votes received, beginning with the candidate receiving the largest number; but not more than seven candidates residing in the same city or village may be elected. The holding of a public office does not preclude any person from seeking or holding membership on a county charter commission nor does membership on a county charter commission preclude any such member from seeking or holding other public office, but not more than four officeholders may be elected to a county charter commission at the same time. The legislative authority shall appropriate sufficient sums to enable the charter commission to perform its duties and to pay all reasonable expenses thereof.

The commission shall frame a charter for the county or amendments to the existing charter, and shall, by vote of a majority of the authorized number of members of the commission, submit the same to the electors of the county, to be voted upon at the next general election next following the election of the commission. The commission shall certify the proposed charter or amendments to the election authorities not later than seventy-five days prior to such election. Amendments to a county charter or the question of the repeal thereof may also be submitted to the electors of the county in the manner provided in this section for the submission of the question whether a charter commission shall be chosen, to be voted upon at the first general election occurring not sooner than sixty days after their submission. The legislative authority or charter commission submitting any charter or amendment shall, not later than thirty days prior to the election on such charter or amendment, mail or otherwise distribute a copy thereof to each of the electors of the county as far as may be reasonably possible, except that, as provided by law, notice of proposed amendments may be given by newspaper advertising. Except as provided in Section 3 of this Article, every charter or amendment shall become effective if it has been approved by the majority of the electors voting thereon. It shall take effect on the thirtieth day after such approval unless another date be fixed therein. When more than one amendment, which shall relate to only one subject but may affect or include more than one section or part of a charter, is submitted at the same time, they shall be so submitted as to enable the electors to vote on each separately. In case more than one charter is submitted at the same time or in case of conflict between the provisions of two or more amendments submitted at the same time, that charter or provision shall prevail which received the highest affirmative vote, not less than a majority. If a charter or amendment submitted by a charter commission is not approved by the electors of the county, the charter commission may resubmit the same one time, in its original form or as revised by the charter commission, to the electors of the county at the next succeeding general election or at any other election held throughout the county prior thereto, in the manner provided for the original submission thereof.

The legislative authority of any county, upon petition of ten per cent of the electors of the county, shall forthwith, by resolution, submit to the electors of the county, in the manner provided in this section for the submission of the question whether a charter commission shall be chosen, the question of the adoption of a charter in the form attached to such petition.

Laws may be passed to provide for the organization and procedures of county charter commissions, including the filling of any vacancy which may occur, and otherwise to facilitate the operation of this section. The basis upon which the required number of petitioners in any case provided for in this section shall be determined, shall be the total number of votes cast in the county for the office of governor at the last preceding general election therefor.

The foregoing provisions of this section shall be self-executing except as herein otherwise provided.

To the extent consistent with the requirements of section 3 of this Article, the boundary lines of districts shall be so drawn as to delineate an area containing one or more whole counties.

(C) Where the requirements of section 3 of this Article cannot feasibly be attained by combining the areas of governmental units as prescribed in division (B) of this section, only one such unit may be divided between two districts, giving preference in the selection of a unit for division to a township, a city ward, a city, and a village in the order named.

(D) In making a new apportionment, district boundaries established by the preceding apportionment shall be adopted to the extent reasonably consistent with the requirements of section 3 of this Article.

DETERMINATION OF NUMBER OF HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES DISTRICTS WITHIN EACH COUNTY. (1967)

§8 A county having at least one House of Representatives ratio of representation shall have as many House of Representatives districts wholly within the boundaries of the county as it has whole ratios of representation. Any fraction of the population in excess of a whole ratio shall be a part of only one adjoining House of Representatives district.

The number of whole ratios of representation for a county shall be determined by dividing the population of the county by the ratio of representation for the House of Representatives determined under section 2 of this Article.

§9 In those instances where the population of a county is not less than ninety percent nor more than one hundred ten percent of the ratio of representation in the House of Representatives, reasonable effort shall be made to create a House of Representatives district consisting of the whole county.

(B) Each county containing population between ninety and ninety-five percent of the ratio or between one hundred five and one hundred ten per cent of the ratio may be designated a representative district.

(C) Proceeding in succession from the largest to the smallest, each remaining county containing more than one whole ratio of representation shall be divided into House of Representatives districts. Any remaining territory within such county containing a fraction of one whole ratio of representation shall be included in one representative district by combining it with adjoining territory outside the county.

(D) The remaining territory of the state shall be combined into representative districts.

A county having at least one whole Senate ratio of representation shall have as many Senate districts wholly within the boundaries of the county as it has whole Senate ratios of representation. If more than one senator whose term will not so expire would represent the same district by following the provisions of this section, the persons responsible for apportionment, by a majority of their number, shall designate which senator shall represent the district and shall designate which district the other senator or senators shall represent for the balance of their term or terms.

JURISDICTION OF SUPREME COURT, EFFECT OF DETERMINATION OF UNCONSTITUTIONALITY; APPORTIONMENT. (1967)

§13 The Supreme Court of Ohio shall have exclusive, original jurisdiction in all cases arising under this Article. In the event that any section of this constitution relating to apportionment or any plan of apportionment made by the persons responsible for apportionment, by a majority of their number, is determined to be invalid by either the Supreme Court of Ohio, or the Supreme Court of the United States, then notwithstanding any other provisions of this constitution, the persons responsible for apportionment by a majority of their number shall ascertain and determine a plan of apportionment in conformity with such provisions of this constitution as are then valid, including establishing terms of office and election of members of the General Assembly from districts designated in the plan, to be used until the next regular apportionment in conformity with such provisions of this constitution as are then valid.

Notwithstanding any provision of this constitution or any law regarding the residence of senators and representatives, a plan of apportionment made pursuant to this section shall allow thirty days for persons to change residence in order to be eligible for election.

In the event all or any part of this apportionment plan is held invalid prior to the general election in the year 1970, the persons responsible for apportionment by a majority of their number shall ascertain and determine a plan of apportionment to be effective until January 1, 1973, in accordance with section 13 of this Article.

(B) The General Assembly may authorize and regulate the operation of bingo to be conducted by charitable organizations for charitable purposes.

(C)(1) Casino gaming shall be authorized at four casino facilities (a single casino at a designated location within each of the cities of Cincinnati, Cleveland, Columbus and Toledo) to create new funding for cities, counties, public school districts, law enforcement, the horse racing industry and job training for Ohio's workforce.

(2) A thirty-three percent tax shall be levied and collected by the state on all gross casino revenue received by each casino operator of these four casino facilities. In addition, casino operators, their operations, their owners, and their property shall be subject to all customary non-discriminatory fees, taxes, and other charges that are applied to, levied against, or otherwise imposed generally upon other Ohio businesses, their gross or net revenues, their operations, their owners, and their property. Except as otherwise provided in section 6(C), no other casino gaming-related state or local fees, taxes, or other charges (however measured, calculated, or otherwise derived) may be, directly or indirectly, applied to, levied against, or otherwise imposed upon gross casino revenue, casino operators, their operations, their owners, or their property.

(3) The proceeds of the tax on gross casino revenue collected by the state shall be distributed as follows:

(d) Three percent of the tax on gross casino revenue shall be distributed to fund the Ohio casino control commission.

(e) Three percent of the tax on gross casino revenue shall be distributed to an Ohio state racing commission fund to support purses, breeding programs, and operations at all existing commercial horse racetracks permitted as of January 1, 2009. (g) Two percent of the tax on gross casino revenue shall be distributed to a state problem gambling and addictions fund which shall be used for the treatment of problem gambling and substance abuse, and related research.

Tax collection, and distributions to public school districts and local governments, under sections 6(C)(2) and (3), are intended to supplement, not supplant, any funding obligations of the state. Accordingly, all such distributions shall be disregarded for purposes of determining whether funding obligations imposed by other sections of this Constitution are met.

(4) There is hereby created the Ohio casino control commission which shall license and regulate casino operators, management companies retained by such casino operators, key employees of such casino operators and such management companies, gaming-related vendors, and all gaming authorized by section 6(C), to ensure the integrity of casino gaming.

No commission member may have any affiliation with an Ohio casino operator or facility.

Said commission shall require each initial licensed casino operator of each of the four casino facilities to pay an upfront license fee of fifty million dollars ($50,000,000) per casino facility for the benefit of the state, for a total of two hundred million dollars ($200,000,000). The upfront license fee shall be used to fund state economic development programs which support regional job training efforts to equip Ohio's workforce with additional skills to grow the economy.

To carry out the tax provisions of section 6(C), and in addition to any other enforcement powers provided under Ohio law, the tax commissioner of the State and the Ohio casino control commission, or any person employed by the tax commissioner or said commission for that purpose, upon demand, may inspect books, accounts, records, and memoranda of any person subject to such provisions, and may examine under oath any officer, agent, or employee of that person.

(5) Each initial licensed casino operator of each of the four casino facilities shall make an initial investment of at least two hundred fifty million dollars ($250,000,000) for the development of each casino facility for a total minimum investment of one billion dollars ($1,000,000,000) statewide. A casino operator: (a) may not hold a majority interest in more than two of the four licenses allocated to the casino facilities at any one time; and (b) may not hold a majority interest in more than two of the four casino facilities at any one time.

(6) Casino gaming authorized in section 6(C) shall be conducted only by licensed casino operators of the four casino facilities or by licensed management companies retained by such casino operators. At the discretion of each licensed casino operator of a casino facility: (a) casino gaming may be conducted twenty-four hours each day; and (b) a maximum of five thousand slot machines may be operated at such casino facility.

(7) Each of the four casino facilities shall be subject to all applicable state laws and local ordinances related to health and building codes, or any related requirements and provisions. Notwithstanding the foregoing, no local zoning, land use laws, subdivision regulations or similar provisions shall prohibit the development or operation of the four casino facilities set forth herein, provided that no casino facility shall be located in a district zoned exclusively residential as of January 1, 2009.

(8) Notwithstanding any provision of the Constitution, statutes of Ohio, or a local charter and ordinance, only one casino facility shall be operated in each of the cities of Cleveland, Columbus, Cincinnati and Toledo.

Article XVI: Amendments

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT PROPOSED BY JOINT RESOLUTION OF GENERAL ASSEMBLY; PROCEDURE. (1851, am. 1912, 1974)

§1 Either branch of the General Assembly may propose amendments to this constitution, and, if the same shall be agreed to by three-fifths of the members elected to each house, such proposed amendments shall be entered on the journals, with the yeas and nays, and shall be filed with the secretary of state at least ninety days before the date of the election at which they are to be submitted to the electors, for their approval or rejection. They shall be submitted on a separate ballot without party designation of any kind, at either a special or a general election as the General Assembly may prescribe.

The ballot language for such proposed amendments shall be prescribed by a majority of the Ohio ballot board, consisting of the secretary of state and four other members, who shall be designated in a manner prescribed by law and not more than two of whom shall be members of the same political party. The ballot language shall properly identify the substance of the proposal to be voted upon. The ballot need not contain the full text nor a condensed text of the proposal. The board shall also prepare an explanation of the proposal, which may include its purpose and effects, and shall certify the ballot language and the explanation to the secretary of state not later than seventy-five days before the election. The ballot language and the explanation shall be available for public inspection in the office of the secretary of state.

The Supreme Court shall have exclusive, original jurisdiction in all cases challenging the adoption or submission of a proposed constitutional amendment to the electors. No such case challenging the ballot language, the explanation, or the actions or procedures of the General Assembly in adopting and submitting a constitutional amendment shall be filed later than sixty-four days before the election. The ballot language shall not be held invalid unless it is such as to mislead, deceive, or defraud the voters.

Unless the General Assembly otherwise provides by law for the preparation of arguments for and, if any, against a proposed amendment, the board may prepare such arguments.

Such proposed amendments, the ballot language, the explanation, and the arguments, if any, shall be published once a week for three consecutive weeks preceding such election, in at least one newspaper of general circulation in each county of the state, where a newspaper is published. The General Assembly shall provide by law for other dissemination of information in order to inform the electors concerning proposed amendments. An election on a proposed constitutional amendment submitted by the General Assembly shall not be enjoined nor invalidated because the explanation, arguments, or other information is faulty in any way. If the majority of the electors voting on the same shall adopt such amendments the same shall become a part of the constitution. When more than one amendment shall be submitted at the same time, they shall be so submitted as to enable the electors to vote on each amendment, separately. CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT PROPOSED BY CONVENTION; PROCEDURE. (1851, am. 1912)

THE CONSTITUTION OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA

(Effective March 4, 1789)

We the People of the United States, in Order to form a more perfect Union, establish Justice, insure domestic Tranquility, provide for the common defense, promote the general Welfare, and secure the Blessings of Liberty to ourselves and our Posterity, do ordain and establish this Constitution for the United States of America.

ARTICLE I

SECTION 1. All legislative Powers herein granted shall be vested in a Congress of the United States, which shall consist of a Senate and House of Representatives.

SECTION 2. The House of Representatives shall be composed of Members chosen every second Year by the People of the several States, and the Electors in each State shall have the Qualifications requisite for Electors of the most numerous Branch of the State Legislature.

No person shall be a Representative who shall not have attained to the Age of twenty-five years and been seven years a citizen of the United States, and shall, when elected, be an Inhabitant of that State in which he shall be chosen.

Representatives and direct Taxes shall be apportioned among the several States which may be included within this Union, according to their respective Numbers, which shall be determined by adding to the whole Number of free Persons, including those bound to Service for a Term of Years, and excluding Indians not taxed, three fifths of all other Persons. The actual Enumeration shall be made within three Years after the first Meeting of the Congress of the United States, and within every subsequent Term of ten Years, in such Manner as they shall by law direct, The Number of Representatives shall not exceed one for every thirty Thousand, but each State shall have at Least one Representative; and until such enumeration shall be made, the State of New Hampshire shall be entitled to choose three, Massachusetts eight, Rhode Island and Providence Plantations one, Connecticut five, New York six, New Jersey four, Pennsylvania eight, Delaware one, Maryland six, Virginia ten, North Carolina five, South Carolina five, and Georgia three.

When vacancies happen in the Representation from any State, the Executive Authority thereof shall issue Writs of Election to fill such Vacancies.

The House of Representatives shall choose their Speaker and other Officers; and shall have the sole Power of Impeachment.

SECTION 3. The senate of the United States shall be composed of two Senators from each State, chosen by the Legislature thereof, for six years; and each Senator shall have one Vote.

Immediately after they shall be assembled in Consequence of the first Election, they shall be divided as equally as may be into three Classes. The Seats of the Senators of the first Class shall be vacated at the Expiration of the second Year, of the second Class at the Expiration of the fourth Year, and of the third Class at the Expiration of the sixth Year, so that one third may be chosen every second Year; and if Vacancies happen by Resignation, or otherwise, during the Recess of Legislature of any State, the Executive thereof may make temporary Appointments until the next Meeting of the Legislature, which shall then fill such Vacancies.

No Person shall be a Senator who shall not have attained to the Age of thirty Years, and been nine Years a Citizen of the United States, and who shall not, when elected, be an Inhabitant of that State for which he shall be chosen.

The Vice President of the United States shall be President of the Senate, but shall have no Vote, unless they be equally divided.

The Senate shall choose their other Officers, and also a President pro tempore, in Absence of the Vice President, or when he shall exercise the Office of President of the United States.

The Senate shall have sole Power to try all Impeachments. When sitting for that Purpose, they shall be on Oath or Affirmation. When the President of the United States is tried the Chief Justice shall preside: And no Person shall be convicted without the Concurrence of two thirds of the Members present.

Judgment in Cases of Impeachment shall not extend further than to removal from Office, and disqualification to hold and enjoy an Office of Honor, Trust or Profit under the United States: but the Party convicted shall nevertheless be liable and subject to Indictment, Trial, Judgment and Punishment, according to Law.

SECTION 4. The Times, Places and Manner of holding Elections for Senators and Representatives, shall be prescribed in each State by the Legislature thereof; but the Congress may at any time by Law make or alter such Regulations, except as to the Places of choosing Senators.

The Congress shall assemble at least once in every Year, and such Meeting shall be on the first Monday Day.

SECTION 5. Each House shall be the Judge of the Elections, Returns and Qualifications of its own Members, and a Majority of each shall constitute a Quorum to do Business; but a smaller Number may adjourn from day to day, and may be authorized to compel the Attendance of absent Members, in such Manner, and under such Penalties as each House may provide.

Each House may determine the Rules of its Proceedings, punish its Members for disorderly Behaviour, and, with the Concurrence of two thirds, expel a member.

Each House shall keep a Journal of its Proceedings, and from time to time publish the same, excepting such Parts as may in their Judgment require Secrecy; and the Yeas and Nays of the Members of either House on any question shall, at the Desire of one fifth of those Present, be entered on the Journal.

Neither House, during the Session of Congress, shall, without the Consent of the other, adjourn for more than three days, nor to any other Place than that in which the two Houses shall be sitting.

SECTION 6. The Senators and Representatives shall receive a Compensation for their Services to be ascertained by Law, and paid out of the Treasury of the United States. They shall in all Cases, except Treason, Felony and Breach of the Peace, be privileged from Arrest during their Attendance at the Session of their respective houses, and in going to and returning from the same; and for any Speech or Debate in either House, they shall not be questioned in any other Place.

No Senator or Representative shall, during the Time for which he was elected, be appointed to any civil Office under the Authority of the United States, which shall have been created, or the Emoluments whereof shall have been increased during such time; and no Person holding any Office under the United States, shall be a Member of either House during his Continuance in Office.

SECTION 7. All Bills for raising Revenue shall originate in the House of Representatives; but the Senate may propose or concur with Amendments as on other Bills.

Every Bill which shall have passed the House of Representatives and the Senate, shall, before it becomes a law, be presented to the President of the United States; if he approves he shall sign it, but if not he shall return it, with his Objections to that House in which it shall have originated, who shall enter the Objections at large on their Journal, and proceed to reconsider it. If such Reconsideration two thirds of that House shall agree to pass the Bill, it shall be sent, together with the Objections, to the other House, by which it shall likewise be reconsidered, and if approved by two thirds of that House, it shall become a Law. But in all such Cases the Votes of both Houses shall be determined by Yeas and Nays . . . and the Names of the Persons voting for and against the Bill shall be entered on the Journal of each House respectively. If any Bill shall not be returned by the President within ten Days (Sundays excepted) after it shall have been presented to him, the Same shall be a Law, in like Manner as if he had signed it, unless the Congress by their Adjournment prevents its Return, in which Case it shall not be a Law.

Every Order, Resolution, or Vote to which the Concurrence of the Senate and House of Representatives may be necessary (except on a question of Adjournment) shall be presented to the President of the United States; and before the Same shall take Effect, shall be approved by him, or being disapproved by him, shall be repassed by two thirds of the Senate and House of Representatives, according to the Rules and Limitations prescribed in the Case of a Bill.

In all the other Cases before mentioned, the supreme Court shall have appellate Jurisdiction, both as to Law and Fact, with such Exceptions, and under such Regulations as the Congress shall make.

The Trial of all Crimes, except in Cases of Impeachment, shall be by Jury; and such Trial shall be held in the State where the said Crimes shall have been committed; but when not committed within any State, the Trial shall be at such Place or Places as the Congress may by Law have directed.

SECTION 3. Treason against the United States, shall consist only in levying War against them, or in adhering to their Enemies, giving them Aid and Comfort. No Person shall be convicted of Treason unless on the Testimony of two Witnesses to the same overt Act, or on Confession in open Court.
